INDIA DENIED PEACE PARLEY SEAT

Reds Free 3 GIs They Gave Jail Terms

150 More Americans Returned; Only Week Of POW Swap Remains

PANMUNJOM (AP)—One hundred and fifty Americans rode eagerly from Red captivity last night, three of them men their buddies had feared would be kept in North Korean jails on phony charges.

One returning prisoner said 45 more Americans sentenced only a month ago to prison terms were in the Red grouping center at nearby Kaesong awaiting release.

Freed Americans have told of prisoners jailed by the Reds in late July when the armistice was signed on such charges as "instigating against peace." Their sentences ranged from 1 to 3 years.

However, three of the "convicted" came back in yesterday's group of 250 South Koreans and 150 Americans. They were:

Cpl. Charles G. Guidotti, 32, Philadelphia; Cpl. Eugene R. Reilly, 21, New York City; and Sgt. Guy T. Vadala, 23, Stoneham, Mass.

• • •

REILLY AND Vadala said they had 43 other men in Camp 1 were told they were going to a "readjustment camp" because the Reds "were afraid we would be a bad influence on the others."

They were taken to a separate camp near Main Camp 3.

Finally, on Aug. 16, about three weeks after the truce was signed, they were told they would be repatriated.

The three said they believed all prisoners would be repatriated.

"All of these guys are in Kaesong in a special place where we were held," Reilly said, adding:

"We were eight balls. We wouldn't go along with the Commies."

Cpl. Gerard A. Francois, 23, of Jersey City, N. J., said 30 U. S. enlisted men and 15 officers have arrived in Kaesong after previously being sentenced by the Reds and told they would not be repatriated.

He said the 45 were told in Kaesong they will be freed, but only after everyone else.

However, Francois said the 45

Chiropractic Aid Denied By VA, Ex-GIs Say

DENVER (AP)—Four World War II veterans undergoing treatment at Spears Chiropractic Sanitarium and Hospital testified yesterday before Sen. Langer (R-ND) that the Veterans Administration had refused to pay for chiropractic care for them.

The four gave their names as Charles Wilson, 26, Palacios, Tex.; James Starner, 35, Canton, Ohio; John Baccarella, 28, Jersey City, N. J. and William Ray, 30, also of Jersey City.

The hearing was moved to the hospital at the request of Dr. Leo Spears, who heads it. He said he wanted the senator to take testimony from the men and they were unable to come to the Federal Bldg.

Wilson said he was suffering from poliomyelitis. The other three said they were victims of multiple sclerosis.

After conducting the sessions, Langer announced the hearing was recessed indefinitely. Sometime in the future, he said, his subcommittee will check to see how the men are getting along.

State Warns Bypass Plans Have Lost Current 'Status'

An official of the state highway department Thursday said the controversial bypass project at Circleville "has no status" because of the deadlocked dispute over the rerouting here.

The announcement came from Richard Ricketts, of the department's district offices at Delaware. He said the proposal to relocate Route 23 around Circleville wasn't included in the latest plans approved, "mainly because we haven't been able to get anywhere with our plans."

Because of the stalemate at the Circleville end, he explained, "the project has no status with us as of now." He emphasized he didn't mean the project has been abandoned. He said he only means the job has lost whatever priority it had, for the time being, until vital decisions are made.

Ricketts described three "next steps" that could come from the present position of the project. They were outlined as follows:

• • •

1. THROUGH OPERATION of a new highway council being established under legislation passed by the last session of state assembly, the state highway branch may be "forced to go ahead immediately" with the Route 23 bypass at Circleville.

Ricketts said such a development, conceivably, could mean the state would have to build the new four-lane highway up to the city limits "and let the city take it from there."

2. The project may continue in a lull until a decision is reached at Circleville, and that decision conveyed to S. O. Linzell, director of state highways. Ricketts said he understood Linzell told a Circleville delegation some time ago that the idea would be suspended until the group reports back to Linzell, either directly or through the district offices.

3. Action could be resumed in Circleville on a new detachment position—to pull back the corporation line—and give the state full approval to proceed. In such a case, Ricketts said, much valuable time could be saved since surveys could be started while the project is being put "back in line."

The highways official reiterated there is little hope the bypass could be speeded by having the city grant "consent" legislation, with the understanding the state would waive the city's share of the costs.

His reference was to a mid-way type of proposal which would eliminate virtually all the detachment proceedings. However, state spokesmen have stressed they would be unable to grant Circleville major concessions that could not be granted to other communities.

• • •

NORMALLY, UNDER the "consent" procedure, the city would have to pay a substantial share of the bypass costs.

A note of encouragement for the bypass, however, was seen in the announcement that the state is now able to "tell almost exactly what buildings, if any, would be affected by the present proposed route of the new highway."

Opponents of the bypass have based much of their fight on the claim that they are only waiting to see "just where this road would be located."

Ricketts indicated the data showing the exact route, as now contemplated, will soon be sent to city officials here.

He confirmed reports that the state has already withdrawn a field crew that had been working close to the city. It had been hoped this crew could turn immediately to the bypass surveys, but this hope was blasted by delay on the bypass here.

One property owner opposed to the bypass ordered state field workers off his property south of the city some time ago.

The last session of the legislature cleared the way for formation of a highway council which will serve to coordinate the state's highway planning, Ricketts explained. He said the plans of this council are not yet known, but he stressed that its decisions could force immediate work on the new highway north and south of Circleville.

Former Patrolman Here Nabs AWOL Soldier After Slaying

ZANESVILLE (AP) — An AWOL soldier today admitted he shot and killed the assistant director of the Ohio Industrial Relations Department last night after the official had given him a ride in his car.

Harold St. John, 25, of Dorchester, Mass., was captured by Patrol Cpl. Clyde E. Wells, a little over a mile from the scene of the slaying on U. S. 40 west of here.

Wells said St. John, AWOL from Camp Atterbury, Ind., since yesterday, admitted he shot Joseph W. Harding, 53, during a struggle in the car when he tried to rob the state official.

Harding was killed a short time after he left a farewell party for his retiring chief, Albert A. Woldman. Gov. Frank J. Lausche was reported considering Harding as successor to Woldman, who leaves today to assume a juvenile judgship in Cuyahoga County.

• • •

PATROLMAN Wells, stationed in Circleville prior to his promotion and transfer to the Cambridge barracks, said St. John stated that Harding picked him up as he hitchhiked on the outskirts of Columbus. St. John had two pistols, a .32 caliber and a .45 caliber he said he had stolen from a guard at a Camp Atterbury stockade yesterday morning.

Harding stopped the car in front of a motel about five miles west of Zanesville and shouted, "Call the cops! This guy has a gun!"

Patrolman Wells said St. John was wounded in the leg during the struggle for the gun. Harding was shot twice, once in the head and once in the abdomen.

Ray Bush, 25, a truck driver of Linden, Ind., heard the struggle and the shots and saw a man flee from Harding's car. Harding's body was found hanging out the car door. The motel attendant had gone inside to phone the sheriff.

Roadblocks were set up throughout the area. Wells, driving a patrol car, spotted St. John coming onto U. S. 40 from the brush about 5:30 a. m. and took him into custody without resistance. St. John was carrying the .45 caliber pistol in his belt. The other gun was found in the car.

St. John is held at Zanesville police headquarters.

Harding was former three-term mayor of Cuyahoga Falls. He was a native of Guernsey County. He was graduated by the American Institute of Banking. For seven years he worked in an Akron bank. He also was cashier for the Summit County probate court.

His widow and family reside in Cuyahoga Falls.

Informed of Harding's slaying, Gov. Frank J. Lausche said:

"I'm very grieved and shocked to hear what happened. Joe Harding lived in the house immediately in back of the governor's mansion. He was a neighbor.

"He did a good job as mayor of Cuyahoga Falls and had been in the industrial relations department about five years. He was being considered to succeed Albert Woldman as director of the department."

Lausche recently appointed Woldman as a juvenile judge in Cuyahoga County.

Two Airliners Brush, But No One Injured

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (AP)—Two commercial air liners, carrying a total of 57 persons, brushed each other last night at 11,000 feet, but pilots landed them safely and no one was injured.

The planes, twin-engine Convairs from American Air Lines and United Air Lines, had left Chicago about a minute apart. The collision over Michigan City, about 60 miles east, occurred about 25 minutes later. Both planes were slightly damaged.

"It was a very lucky situation all around," said William Whitacre, American chief of flight operations for the Chicago region. We have no idea who did what to whom. We don't say which plane ran the other down, but it will be the subject of an inquiry by the company and by the Civil Aeronautics Administration."

The collision ripped a three-foot hole in the tail section of the American plane while the UAL airliner was punctured on top of the fuselage between the pilot's cabin and the passenger area.

Blood Supply Low; Donors Sought Here

An appeal for Pickaway County residents to give blood was made Thursday by the county Red Cross Chapter.

Officials of the county Chapter pointed out the blood supply on hand in central Ohio is very low.

In fact, the local chapter reports it has been notified blood will be available here only on an emergency basis, on a "life or death" status.

First regular Fall visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile here will be next Thursday from 11 a. m. until 5 p. m. in First Methodist church.

All persons who have donated previously here will be eligible to donate again during the next visit, since the blood-collecting program was discontinued here during the Summer months.

Persons wishing to make appointments for next Thursday's visit may telephone 336 or 756.

Power Concern Denies Rumor Of Crackdown

Officials of the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. emphasized Thursday they have no intention of turning off the lights in Ted Lewis Park.

Charles T. Gilmore, manager for the utility here, said it had been rumored in the city that the firm is considering such a step. The rumor, he indicated, arose from current criticism of the park board's maintenance of the park.

The electric concern has never threatened to turn off the park lights, even indirectly. Present demands for an overhaul of the park board were stirred by the failure of some of the field lights on the large baseball diamond.

Since the original complaints were filed, the field lights have been restored to normal condition.

• • •

GILMORE STRESSED that his company always has gone out of its way to cooperate with community ventures, "and especially such good ones like the baseball for the kids." This policy will be continued by the utility, he emphasized.

The firm's role in the discussions was only to announce the amount of lighting bills awaiting payment.

Meanwhile, Bob Colville, treasurer of the park board, said the board no longer employes a regular caretaker. In view of the board's thin financial condition, he explained, the caretaker duties have been assumed by Bill Cook, board chairman, and himself.

Colville said he would determine just what the financial status of the board is after he has had an opportunity to confer with City Auditor Lillian Young.

Bricker Stubbornly Pledges Showdown On Treaty Setup

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) served notice today he will attempt to force Senate action on his proposal to limit treaty powers despite opposition by Secretary of State Dulles.

Dulles yesterday told the ABA meeting in Boston that the constitutional amendment proposed by Bricker would put Congress in charge of the conduct of foreign affairs and "have a calamitous effect upon the international position and prospects of the United States."

Bricker said later that Dulles "either does not understand the Constitution or he does not understand the Senate resolution."

"My resolution in no way impairs the power of the President in dealing with foreign nations," the Ohio senator declared. "It would prevent the President and the Senate from making domestic law by treaties."

The Dulles statement came in a prepared speech after the ABA's international law section voted 64-12 against the Bricker proposal.

Today, the ABA as a whole disregarded the law section's recommendation and voted to support the amendment. The vote was 117-33.

* * *

BRICKER'S resolution, which originally had 63 other senators as co-sponsors, would provide that no treaty should override domestic law unless Congress acted affirmatively. It also would give Congress power to "regulate" executive international agreements. As a constitutional amendment, it would require two-thirds approval of both houses of Congress and ratification by three fourths of the states.

Dulles noted that President Eisenhower has said he is opposed to any amendment which would hamper the President in his constitutional role of conducting foreign affairs.

The secretary of state said the Bricker proposal would "cut down the nation's treaty power so that no treaty could bind the nation in respect of matters which, under our federal system, fall within the jurisdiction of the states.

"This would set the clock back to an approximation of the condition which existed under the Articles of Confederation."

Calling this position "absurd," Bricker declared:

"I'm going to bring it up in the next session of the Senate, whether it is a special session this fall or at the regular session in January We are going to have a showdown on this matter and I think the administration will find that sentiment is behind my amendment."

Bricker 'Guesses' Huffman For Job

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) said today that as a 'pure guess' he thinks Gov. Frank Lausche may name former Sen. James W. Huffman, a Democrat, to succeed the late Sen. Taft.

"Of course, I don't know what Lausche is going to do. But, just guessing, I think he may pick Huffman," Bricker said.

Huffman, a 58-year-old Columbus lawyer, was appointed to the Senate in 1945 to fill the vacancy created by the appointment of Harold M. Burton to the Supreme Court. Bricker defeated him in 1946.

GOP Senator Tells GOP: Back Ike Or U. S. Faces 'Disaster'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Ives (R-NY) told complaining Republicans today that if they don't support the Eisenhower administration program the nation may be "faced with complete disaster."

Ives' observation was made in letters in which he is replying to Republicans dissatisfied with high taxes and critical of the administration.

It followed a blast by Rep. Hugh D. Scott (R-Pa), former GOP national chairman, against GOP "obstructionists" in Congress.

Scott named Sen. Malone (R-Nev) as one of these and Malone had this to say in reply:

"Time always determines who is right and who is wrong. I remember that Mr. Scott was a fine young man who was running the Republican party at one time. I hope he will settle down and protect the interests o his country."

• • •

IVES, ONE of the early supporters of Eisenhower for the presidential nomination last year, said he believes "the President is doing a far better job than is generally realized."

"The cost of government in our country has been turned definitely downward," the New York senator said. "Our appropriations this year amounted to almost $21 billion less than they were last year."

"The fact remains that the New Deal administrations have gotten our country into a mess.

"To solve the mess we are in will require time and, unless the American people are patient and support the administration in the efforts we are making, the nation is faced with complete disaster."

Ives said that despite complaints he received he believes there is widespread national support for Eisenhower and his policies.

Firestone Hit By Nationwide Union Walkout

CLEVELAND (AP)—The CIO United Rubber Workers union struck the big Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. throughout the nation today. Negotiators failed to reach a new wage agreement before a midnight deadline.

Union and company representatives talked far into the early morning and scheduled another session today.

The strike involves 24,000 production workers in eight cities, including 10,000 in Akron.

Most of the union locals went out about midnight local time, with the first walkouts reported in Akron, Pottstown, Pa., and Fall River, Mass.

The other Firestone plants are in Los Angeles; Noblesville and Newcastle, Ind.; Memphis, Tenn.; and Des Moines, Iowa.

Union and company spokesmen continued a long-standing policy of not commenting on the progress of the negotiations.

While it never has given specific details of its demands, the union says they include a "substantial" wage increase and better pensions. It also is seeking adjustment of what it calls inequities in wage rates for some classifications.

America Wins Bitter Debate In U. N. Panel

British-Soviet Bloc Fails To Muster Sufficient Backing

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—India failed today to win sufficient U. N. support to give her a seat at the Korean peace conference.

She received a majority of the votes cast in the 60-nation Political Committee, but fell short of the two-third majority required for approval by the General Assembly which acts tomorrow.

• • •

THE VOTE WAS 27 for, 21 against, 11 abstaining and India not participating.

It was a victory for the United States over a British-Russian combine on the issue for America had fought vigorously against India's inclusion.

The committee also:

1. Recommended seats at the conference for all the 16 countries who fought under the U. N. banner if they desire to do so. The vote was 42-7, with 10 abstaining and India not voting.

2. Rejected a Soviet proposal that the conference be made up of six belligerent countries and nine "neutrals." The vote: 5-41, with 13 abstaining and India not voting.

3. Voted to include Russia in the parley "provided the other side desires it." The vote was 55-2 with two abstaining.

Russia made an unsuccessful attempt to delete the phrase lining her up on the Communist side, but then voted for the proposal as a whole, indicating she would attend as a representative of the Communists.

Lodge also struck back at Vishinsky's charge that the U. S. acted like a "master race" and was trying to force others to accept its views by ultimatums.

• • •

HE POINTED out that the American population was made up of many races and religions, but behind the Iron Curtain the Communists have tried to wipe out religion, Christianity, Judaism.

"The representative of the Soviet Union, when he talked about a master race in America, missed one of the great opportunities in his life to keep quiet," Lodge said.

On the question of the Korean conference, Lodge said:

Deportation Blues Haunt Dick Haymes

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The deportation blues piled up on Crooner Dick Haymes today as he surveyed the discordant score: a second exportable charge by the government and three subpoenas.

The harried Haymes sweated through a 5½-hour preliminary hearing yesterday at which he admitted filing an application for relief from military service during World War II as a citizen of a neutral country. He said he thought the application was only for "temporary deferment."

The hearing also brought out that Haymes had a previously undisclosed marriage—his first — to Edith Harper, also a singer, in Chicago in 1939. It lasted only two or three weeks, he said.

Haymes admitted owing Uncle Sam an income tax bill but said he didn't know offhand just how much. He was told to bring exact figures to a subsequent session.

Before the day was over three process servers handed the singer subpoenas. In one, his second wife, Joanne Dru, says he's behind in alimony payments. The second was notification of a divorce filed by current wife Nora Eddington. The final subpoena claimed he owes a department store $415.

Born in Argentina, Haymes came to the United States in 1937 and has not become a citizen. The government charges he was ineligible to re-enter the continental United States last June after visiting actress Rita Hayworth in Hawaii. Hollywood gossip says she will become wife No. 4.

Immigration officers contend the law forbids citizenship to any alien who has sought exemption from military service, and forbids entry into this country of any alien who can never become a citizen.

THE REDS HAD claimed a right to hold some prisoners on trouble-making charges, but U. S. and U. N. officials sharply warned them to free all Allied POWs who want to return.

Yesterday's delivery brought the number of released U. S. prisoners past the two-thirds mark with only one week of the POW exchange remaining.

Ten were officers and 140 were enlisted men.

The exchange, limited to 30 days by the truce agreement, begins its last week tonight with 144 more Americans scheduled for freedom. The Reds said they also would hand over 250 South Koreans, 4 British and 2 South Africans.

They now have returned 2,278 of 3,313 U. S. prisoners promised.

Wheat near noon was 1¼-1⅝ lower, September $1.85¼, corn ⅝ $1.53¼, oats .-1¼ lower, September 72⅜, soybeans 1 to 2 cents lower, September $2.50½, and lard 18 to 32 cents a hundred pounds lower, September $14.95.

Youngsters Blamed For Grass Blaze

Circleville fire department was called at 12:38 p. m. Wednesday to extinguish a grass fire blamed on children playing in the vicinity of Eshelman's storage building on S. Washington St. The weed-filled lot formerly was designated as a playground.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise said youngsters started the blaze while playing in the grass and weeds.

At 12:30 a. m. Thursday, the firefighters were called to the rear of the home of State Representative Ed Wallace on N. Court St. to put out a fire which started in a playhouse. The playhouse had been built in a tree along Hargus Creek.

No serious loss was listed from either of the fires.

Eitel Reports Spotting Deer

Pickaway County, once with an abundant supply of deer, still has some of the animals roving about—but only enough so that spotting one is an unusual event.

John Eitel of Williamsport Route 2 spotted a deer early Thursday as he was driving to work in Circleville along the Darbyville Pike.

Eitel said the deer, an extra-large doe, ran across the highway in front of his car and then stopped to look back at him.

More deer probably will filter into the county this Fall when deer-hunting seasons are observed in counties to the south and southeast of Pickaway County. There will be no open season on deer in this county, however.

National Lawyers Guild Rapped

BOSTON (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell said today he proposes to put the National Lawyers Guild, which he described as the legal mouthpiece for the Communist party, on his list of subversive organizations.

Brownell made the announcement in an address prepared for the American Bar Assn., in convention here, which earlier adopted a resolution declaring that Communists should be barred from the legal profession in this country.

Yesterday, the ABA pledged support for lawyers who, though personally anti - Communist, defend subversives in courts.

Baby Boy Snatched From Nursery

CLEVELAND (AP)—A Negro woman, brandishing a gun, forced her way into a nursery at a home for unwed mothers today and carried off a 3-week-old baby.

Barefooted and wearing jeans, a jacket and a man's cap, the woman appeared at the Mary B. Talbert Home, which is operated by the Salvation Army, and demanded "the youngest baby."

The night supervisor, Mrs. Claudia Woods , and her assistant, Mrs. Lois Tipton, said the intruder then walked into a nursery containing 14 Negro babies, picked up the smallest one, a boy, and left.

America Wins Bitter Debate In U. N. Panel

British Delegate Sir Gladwyn Jebb agreed with Lodge and said that, when he heard Vishinsky speak, he asked himself whether Russia actually wanted a conference.

Vishinsky denied he had made a veiled threat about Communist participation in the peace parley. He said all he was saying was that the assembly should communicate its views to the Chinese Communists and North Korea and then consider their views.

This flurry delayed the voting temporarily.

The committee had booked votes today on four major proposals:

1. Inviting South Korea and the 16 U. N. members who fought in Korea to attend the conference as U. N. representatives.

2. Inviting Russia to attend "provided the other Communist side desires it." The Russians oppose being classed with the other side and have proposed an amendment ot delete this phrase.

* * *

3. INVITING India to attend. This is the resolution the United States opposes and the British are sponsoring.

4. The Soviet resolution to set up a 15-nation conference: four—the United States, Britain, France and South Korea—from the U. N. Command; the two Communist belligerents—Red China and North Korea, and nine nations classed by the Russians as "neutrals" — the Soviet Union, India, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Indonesia, Syria, Egypt, Mexico and Burma.

Lodge felt sure that even if the resolution inviting India could get the bare majority needed for committee approval, it could not muster the two-thirds vote needed for Assembly adoption.

He was also sure that Russia could not muster a two-thirds backing in the Assembly to invite it as a U. N. representative.

Vishinsky admitted in debate yesterday that the U. S.-backed proposals probably would be adopted, but termed them an "ultimatum wrecking the conference which has not even opened its sittings."

"You are slamming the door in advance," he declared. "You are saying these are our proposals, take them or leave them."

Drivers Warned Licenses Begin Expiring Soon

The first general renewal of three-year driver licenses in Ohio will begin Tuesday.

About 2.5 million licenses now held by Ohio Motorists will expire within a 12-month period beginning Oct. 1. Licenses may be renewed not more than 30 days before expiration and not more than three months thereafter.

Drivers who permit a license to lapse more than three months must pass a driver examination to obtain a new one. Persons who have obtained a license by passing a test within the past two years will not be required to obtain a renewal license until the expiration date noted on the license.

In addition to a fine and possible jail sentence, any person convicted of operating a motor vehicle without a driver license is now subject to the provisions of the new safety responsibility law.

All drivers are urged to check the expiration date on their licenses and have them renewed promptly when the permit expires.

One shot was fired at James Maloney of Rutherford, the messenger, as he chased one bandit on foot, but it missed. Today is Maloney's 69th birthday.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The American Legionnaires are coming to town next week, and every hotel and tourist court for 25 miles around is booked solid.

Some 35,000 members of the legion and its auxiliaries are expected for the legion's 35th national convention. More than 5,000 room in private homes have been promised to take care of the overflow.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon and three Cabinet members head the list of speakers for the convention proper Monday through Thursday.

The grand parade, always a highlight of the meeting, will start at 10 a.m. Tuesday. Legion officials say it will require 10 hours to pass a given point, with about 100,000 persons, including about 250 bands and drum and bugle corps, marching in it.

The advance guard already is streaming into town. Preconvention events will include a speech at 12:15 p.m. Friday by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), chairman of the Senate investigating Committee. He will speak before a joint meeting of the legion's commissions on foreign affairs, Americanism and security.

'17th Star' Premiere Planned Thursday At Ohio Fairgrounds

Ohio's greatest symphonic drama, "The 17th Star," will have its premiere showing Thursday on the 300-foot, $50,000 stage at the grandstand at the Ohio State Fairgrounds.

Gene Lockhart, one of America's foremost actors, known for his outstanding Hollywood and Broadway appearances, heads the cast. He plays the important part of Marvin Lacey, who keynotes the spirit of Ohio.

Lockhart, in addition to his screen and stage performances, has made numerous television appearances. He is one of the country's most prominent all-around acting personalities.

Paul Green, Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright, and noted composer-conductor Isaac Van Grove, wrote "The 17th Star." Helen Tieken Geraghty is director, with Joan Woodruff as choreographer.

• • •

AN ORIGINAL "miracle mound" stage of gigantic proportions was constructed for the production. Twenty-six special wagons have been designed to transport tons of scenery.

Thirty men, working on cue, change scenes on blacked-out portions of the stage while action goes on on another of the many hillocks and mounds of the spectacular stage.

Five huge switchboards with twelve electricians handling the 174 lighting units make "The 17th Star" a theatrical achievement. Eleven people working on one intercommunications circuit handle light cues. Four people on another circuit take cues for sound effects.

More than $100,000 worth of costumes are displayed by the 500 actors, singers, and dances. Rare vehicles, wagons, baby prams, antique satchels, carpet bags, bicycles, milk churns, chairs, tables, and fans add to the authentically reproduced historic scenes that range from the early Mound Builders to the jazz era.

Tickets are available at the Ohio State Fair grandstand box office.

'Honest Soldier' Helped By Army

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Army recruiting officers here said today they had found the "most honest soldier.'

"I'm flat broke and I'm due in Ft. Knox, Ky., in three days," the 19-year-old soldier on leave here said yesterday.

"Who got sick this time?' asked a sarcastic recruiter.

"I just spent all my money on my girl and going to night spots, the frank GI admitted.

"You are the first soldier in my memory who, under conditions like this, told the truth, said the recruiter.

A few minutes later the GI was en route by bus to Ft Knox. The Army paid his way. Next month the Army will take that bus ticket out of his pay.

DeForest Lauds Television Future

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The grand old man of electronics, Dr. Lee de Forest, is 80 and full of confidence for the future of television and radio.

The inventor of the radio vacuum tube, at his birthday party yesterday, predicted network color television by 1955 and said lines will soon be eliminated from TV screens.

He presented the annual Lee de Forest award to Joyce C. Hall, president of Hallmark Cards, for the firm's radio and TV dramatic series which last year included Maurice Evans' two-hour production of "Hamlet." The award is for cultural achievement.

Skunks Claimed As Deductions

JONESBORO, Tenn. (AP) — Cafe owner Harry Byrd aims to find out how the federal Internal Revenue Department stands on skunks.

Some of the critters set up housekeeping under the floor of Byrd's cafe. He called police who routed them with gas grenades. But the cafe was closed for more than a week and customers were reluctant to return for longer than that.

Now it's all written down for presentation to the tax collector as a deduction.

Unmailed Letter Saves His Life

MOUNT DORA, Fla. (AP)—Paul H. Johnson figures a letter he hadn't mailed may have saved his life, like this:

He was driving to the postoffice when a windstorm felled a tree on his car. He grabbed the door handle but received a severe shock from live wires the tree had pulled on to the automobile.

He used the letter as an insulator, opened the door and stepped out just as the car roof caved in from the tree's weight. He escaped with a sprained back and minor cuts.

Ohio U. Branch Offers Courses For Korea Vets

The Chillicothe branch of Ohio University again this year provides an opportunity to the Korean war veteran to obtain a sizeable part of his college training.

To register, a veteran needs first to submit his certificate of education and training to the assistant director of the Chillicothe branch of Ohio University. Any inquiries in regard to obtaining a veteran's certificate of education and training will be answered at the branch office.

A veteran must obtain this official certificate to enroll, but registration steps at the OU-C office are the same for veterans as for non-veterans. Throughout the semester during which he is enrolled, a veteran is required to fill out a monthly certificate of attendance.

Veterans will find it to their advantage to submit the certificate of education and training as early as possible, inasmuch as payments do not begin for at least three months after the certificate is in the hands of the university.

A limited number of World War II veterans are continuing their college work at the branch in Chillicothe.

Shooting-Bandit Story Is False

CADIZ (AP)—Robert Humphrey, 41, retracted an earlier story about being wounded by a robber, and admitted shooting himself with his squirrel rifle, Prosecutor Morris Gibby said today.

Humphrey, a railroad brakeman who lives at nearby Holloway, first told authorities he was sleeping in his car at a roadside park and was awakened by a man who demanded money. He said the robber picked up the rifle and shot him when he denied having any money.

Iceboxes Banned

OLEAN, N. Y. (AP)—Olean's Common Council, alerted by the suffocation of nine children in other cities this month, has made it a misdemeanor to abandon an icebox.

HIS THUMB still up, Henry Minvielle arrives in Los Angeles carrying a 69-pound shoulder pack after hitchhiking his way from Le Havre, France. He had to spend $58 for food and incidentals, but had $42 left when he reached California. This is earmarked for a return to France.

Flint Planning Rebuilding Job

FLINT, Mich. (AP)—More than 5,000 volunteers are expected to participate Saturday and Sunday in a giant project to rebuild some 186 Flint area homes that were leveled by the great tornado June 8, which claimed 116 ilves.

Home owners will supply the building materials and are to have them on hand when the volunteer laborers arrive. Many building supply dealers have offered big discounts.

"Indications are that the project will become the largest building bee in the nation's history," Mayor Donald W. Reigle said.

After 23 Years, Conscience Hurts

ENID, Okla. (AP)—A Phoenix, Ariz. man who sneaked in with his father here 23 years ago to see a wrestling match offered to make amends today by paying the price of two tickets.

O. E. Zink, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, received the letter, which said:

"I would like to pay what the tickets would have cost if I can. I was 22 years old then and not a Christian but I am a Christian now, thank God.'

THE TERRIBLE BOMBS

CONSENSUS OF THE experts seems to be that the world may as well take it for granted that Malenkov, although a Russian, was telling the truth when he said that Russia has a hydrogen bomb. The basis for this reasoning doubtless is that if he was lying, his statement probably will be true as soon as Russian spies can steal the secrets in this country.

The general principle of nuclear-fusion weapons have been known for years. The technical difficulties involved are great, but Russia has able scientists and some from Germany as well. Eventually any nation willing and able to pay the staggering cost can produce a hydrogen bomb. And attempts to ferret out spies and traitors in this country have aroused a terrific furore in suspect circles. Is the object to cover up thefts of hydrogen secrets?

It is only a matter of time until nuclear-fusion and nuclear-fusion bombs can be delivered by long-range rockets. And there is no sure defense against such bombs. A determined enemy could no doubt manage to deliver one occasionally even if unaided by a fifth column in this country.

Malenkov knows these facts about A-bombs and H-bombs, and it is this knowledge, in all probability, that has immobilized the Soviet army thus far. If there had been no atomic bomb to serve as a deterrent, World War III might be under way now.

The deterrent effect, however, is two-edged. If World War III comes, the United States cannot hope to escape being hit by atomic bombs and perhaps by hydrogen bombs. For the first time, Americans may face terrible bomb devastation.

There is no indication that the new team in the Kremlin shrinks from the prospect of all-out atomic warfare. Apparently Malenkov and his cohorts want to postpone atomic war until they are better prepared to such hostilities, but there is little hope that they will try to avoid one altogether.

COMMUNIST "JUSTICE"

IN RELEASING WESTERN citizens imprisoned for alleged espionage, the conduct of Russia's satellites follows no perceivable pattern.

Th Hungarians released an American telphone executive, Robert Vogeler, before Stalin's death. Under the Malenkov regime, first an American correspondent, William Oatis, was released from a Czechoslovakian jail. Now two more Westerners, a British and Italian citizen, have been freed from Hungarian prisons.

In most of these cases there was an actual or implied quid pro quo, in the usual form of lifting trade restrictions imposed after the imprisonment of the Westerners. There seems to be no principle either behind the imprisonments or the releases other than an effort, first, to harass and discredit the Western countries, then to appease them.

There is a "cat-and-mouse" atmosphere about the whole technique that throws a glaring light on the Communist concept of justice.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

When foreign aid was sold to the American people, it was to "promote the general welfare, national interest, and foreign policy of the United States." These are the phrases which appeared in the report of the Committee on Foreign Relations presided over by Senator Arthur Vandenberg.

He asked Congress to authorize an expenditure of $5.3 billion for the first of a four year operation. The object was "to help European nations to help themselves to recovery in such a way as to become independent of outside assistance."

This was in 1948, and the foreign aid program is still with us, amounting in this year's budget to $6.8 billion and totaling altogether approximately $60 billion for the short period of five years.

The end is not yet in sight. In fact, the Foreign Operations Administration, headed by Harold Stassen, has been separated from the State Department and seems to have been put on a permanent basis. Maybe foreign aid is permanent, too.

When the American people first agreed to a $5.3 billion European Recovery Program, they never could conceive that this would be such a monstrous growth, in time consuming so large a share of their earnings. But there it is for us to live with.

Senator Vandenberg's report included these statements:

"This kind of assistance, in peacetime, is without precedent in the history of mankind. This assistance is not, and cannot be, a permanent feature of American foreign policy. For Americans, the approval of this act represents a major decision. If Europeans fully understand this decision, they will realize that the United States is making adjustments almost as severe as they are likely to call upon each other to make.

"Above the details of the legislation, the debates, the statistics, and the work sheets, it is the expression of a great ideal of common welfare and peace. . ."

The Europeans disappointed Senator Vandenberg's postulates. They have not assumed that we placed severe strains upon ourselves to aid them. Instead, they say that had we not required them to take great quantities of our goods, we should have had an economic disaster of great dimensions.

Therefore, they did us a favor by taking our money; otherwise, we should have had unemployment of at least 10 million. I have listened to that argument ad nauseum

The assumption that the foreign aid program would bring us friendship and allies has proved to be without foundation. Where are those friends? True, we lost the Korean War, but does that mean that the winner takes all? The conduct of Great Britain and Canada in the United Nations over the seating of Soviet Russia on "our side" gives the impression that it does.

It gives an American the impression that Great Britain is vying with India to be Malenkov's broker in the United Nations.

DIET AND HEALTH

Causes of Tiredness May Be Mental As Well As Physical

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WITH suitable encouragement, or perhaps even money hanging on the outcome, one can endure much greater wear on the nerves and muscles than ordinary use involves. Therefore, motivation is one great factor governing fatigue, usually far more important than mere muscular weariness.

Often the tiredness felt by an individual is out of all proportion to the labor done. It does not disappear when work is stopped or even after adequate rest.

Fatigue Persists

This condition may be due to such chronic diseases as tuberculosis, severe anemia, high blood pressure or hyperthyroidism. However, in many people the fatigue persists even though examination reveals no physical impairment.

Fatigue and tiredness are under the control of the part of the brain where activity of the body is motivated. This part actually seems to tire before the muscles that do the work.

Tests have been made on persons doing an excessive amount of exercise and it has been found that the muscles are still active even when the average person drops from fatigue. Thus, it would seem that in the treatment of many cases of fatigue, the mental situation of the person is at fault.

Under strong suggestion and encouragement, or perhaps even under hypnosis, the person can do physical work far above what he would normally do. Therefore, it can be seen that the mind is an important factor in determining the amount of mental and physical labor that a person can carry through.

People who have mental aversion to doing certain types of work, or to working in general due to emotional difficulties, will experience greater fatigue and tiredness than other persons of similar build. Solving the emotional conflict is sometimes necessary in order to effect a cure, and tonics and vitamins can do little to help until the mental conflict is cleared up.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

J. P.: How can I prevent repeated attacks of kidney stones?

Answer: The most common type of kidney stones are caused, in some cases, by urine that is too alkaline. Sometimes the giving of a drug known as ammonium chloride to acidify the urine will prevent the formation of kidney stones. Recently, it has been shown that the use of a drug known as hyaluronidase given under the directions of a physician at frequent intervals may also prevent the formation of kidney stones.

You're Telling Me!

By William Ritt
Central Press Writer

Dr. William M. Barnes told the National Association of Chiropodists that there is danger man will develop a hoof if he keeps riding in autos and trains and airplanes. Then why doesn't the horse go back to toes?

"We must remember that human beings are still in process of evolution," says Dr. Barnes. As a matter of fact, they voted for a change only last November.

Dr. Barnes says, "The evolutionary law which caused unused members to disappear still holds." Then why is it some people still have heads?

"Even some primitive races can still grasp objects with their toes, but you just try to do it," Dr. Barnes declares. Apparently he's never been around sand burrs.

Dr. Barnes suggests that we compare modern toes with those of anthropoid apes. Well, ours look better but not good.

Actually, a hoof would be handy at times. Just for kicks.

How would this sound in an ad: "Sale, Sports Shoes—United States Steel Corporation."

Try, Stop Me

A big shot in the Red Army was being shown through a new school in Warsaw. Pointing to a row of gleaming medals on his chest, he demanded of a little boy in the front row, "Do you know what these are?" The Polish kid answered, "Sure. Watches!"

Aware by the fuss being made over him that the man in the seat across the aisle was a celebrity, a lady listened intently until she heard his name: Fritz Kreisler Before the train reached her destination, she told her husband, "I'm going to get his autograph." As they descended to the platform, she announced, "I got it!" "What did you say to him?" asked her husband. "There was nothing to it," she beamed. "I just told him we had gotten 27,000 miles out of our Chrysler and he seemed so delighted he gave me the autograph without another word."

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN

"MRS. MARTIN'S past 70," Karen explained after her aunt went upstairs. "She's been ill a long time. Ellie's the daughter; there's no one else. They have a very small income, and Ellie can't work; she has to be home. Aunt Mame's so good—the things she does for people. How's your brother, Dave; did he stay?"

"No, he left Sunday morning after inspection."

He rose. "Coming out this weekend, Karen?" he asked.

"I think Sunday, but don't let me get in your hair. Frank gave me a going-over today at lunch, right in the drug store with Millie Carter at the soda fountain, all ears. Maybe it was because I'd jumped him because of Winnie. Attack's a good defense. Anyway, he said you must be sick of having me around, the way I came and went, he said, you'd think I owned the place."

On Sunday when she drove in he went out to meet her, to help her carry her things.

"Back to the point?"

"I guess so. I don't seem to get it even halfway right, Dave."

"Mind if I sit here?"

"No—"

He sat, his back against a tree, his knees drawn up, his arms clasped around them, and watched her. They talked a while and then were silent. She sat on the camp chair, or pushed it away and stood, her hands behind her, scowling, looking younger than she was, completely absorbed. Or crying: "It's no good, no use, I can see it but I can't put it down on the canvas!" And then, more to herself than to him, "All right, I'll try again."

Everything about her was memorable. He sat memorizing her line by line, feeling a light, lyrical happiness, watching the sunlight drench her, the wind's fingers move in her hair, feeling as if it were part of himself, her concentration, as if he, too, made the sudden gesture of her hand, or spoke with her very voice. "I'm hopeless, Dave, you'd think my life depended on it—but honestly, it makes me so mad. Just when I believe I have it, I look again, and it's different!"

The young, too-thin body, the speaking face, continually altering, and all the qualities he sensed, all the values: generosity, warmth, eager bestowal and acceptance.

What would she say, how answer, if he spoke now? How would her face change? It would be one that he had never seen before, one she herself might not recognize.

"Karen—?"

"Yes?"

Think what you are risking, his mind warned him. But his heart knew better. Something spoke, and he listened. It was not his mind, nor yet his heart, the voice speaking; the still small voice. The voice without words, without sound.

Dave got to his feet. He said: "See you later. There's a letter I must write."

She said absently, "I'll take it into town for you, Dave."

He went back to camp, and thought he stumbled, but he did not. He went into the bedroom and lay down on the bunk.

He thought: You're afraid, that's it. Afraid to go out there and snatch her up and hold her fast and tell her that you love her—afraid that, in your vanity, you have erred, afraid to feel her draw away and look at you with terrified eyes or, what's worse, with pity.

But he wasn't afraid. She would draw away, yes, in the first astonishment, but only for a second, only until awareness of herself, as well as of him, closed in about her like a sea; a sea in which she could drown, in which they could both drown.

After a long time he spoke aloud. He said, "All right . . . all right."

When Karen knocked, he opened the door. He said, "I've made some coffee—how about it?"

This once, the last time, really. Sit there, let me fill your cup. The golden light slants in, the floor's a pool of light. I'll sit here and look at you. We'll talk.

"Where's the letter, Dave? Don't let me forget it."

"I decided not to write it," he said. "I'll cable instead." He smiled at her. "I've been thinking for some time that I should go home. George put it to me strongly. Which is a mild word. It seems he's tired of waiting for me to emerge from my personal fog and function normally again. Then, too, Emily's due home soon. It will be quicker to cable her."

That's Karen across from you at the table. Look at her. Make yourself look, as if your life depended on it (and in a way it does). What do you see?

She said, distressed: "I'm sorry, Dave. We'll miss you."

So, you see that she's honestly sorry; you see a surface scratch, which could have been a deep wound. It isn't. Because she doesn't know.

"I'll miss you, too," he said.

By day, by night; when I'm with other people, sitting with them, talking, laughing; when I'm in my office, with a dozen things to do; at home—if I have a home, whatever I do, wherever I go. I know a lot about missing. But this time I could do something about it; write a letter, pick up a telephone, get into a car. But I won't.

"You'll come back, won't you, Dave?" she asked.

"I certainly shall. I don't buy camps every day and throw them away. I'll come often. Meantime, I'll leave a key with Hank—Cas has always had one, you know—and another with you. You and your aunt are to come out whenever you want—to paint, to fish, to picnic, to bring your friends—and Frank."

He thought, But I won't dance at your wedding.

Karen asked, "You haven't said anything about going away, till now: it seems, well, sudden.

"Not really. I've known I should for a long time, but I didn't want to. Perhaps George had something to do with making up my mind for me. He laid it on the line," he told her, smiling.

And thought, I've done you a service, Frank. You'll still be around. The next time you take her in your arms—for you have, before, haven't you?—there'll be a little difference perhaps. She won't know why, perhaps she won't even ask herself why. If you're smart you won't inquire either.

Now Karen said soberly, "I'd like to ask you something."

"Go ahead." His heart held its breath.

"I don't quite know how. Please don't think me impertinent."

"Impertinent! What a crazy word to use!"

"I still don't know how to say it. It's this: has it helped you here, Dave?"

Her face was waiting and anxious, and his was momentarily stunned.

He said: "I've asked myself that and answered, 'No.' But I was wrong. Yes, it has helped me, in more ways than I can count, in some ways I don't know or understand; and certainly in ways I least anticipated."

Her face flashed into light. She said: "I'm so glad, all your friends will be glad—we've hoped—" She broke off, coloring.

They'd discussed him, his little circle. The Rogers and Hank; Karen and Hank perhaps, meeting casually; Karen and her aunt; Hank and his wife. Round and round it goes. Natural enough. As Cas would say, No offense meant, none taken.

He said: "I'll try to tell you what it's been like. When I came here I'd planned to take myself apart, to re-examine everything that had happened to me, all I've ever been, and what I'd become. I couldn't. I got bogged down, seeing results, trying to trace them back to causes. I got lost in relationships and motives—my own, mainly. I guess no man's equipped to be his own psychiatrist. He's licked before he begins. So I gave up. Then maybe I expected a miracle. Like going to bed mortally ill and waking healed. But it wasn't that way. I didn't know until this minute how it was. I've kept telling myself, nothing has changed—" He broke off, thinking, Which isn't, of course, quite true—"but little by little everything was—"

She was trying to understand; she did not wholly succeed. But she said, "Like growing up, perhaps? You don't pay any attention to that, yet it's happening every minute—perhaps you never really know it, not when you're 50 or 70."

He said: "That's it. Like growing up. I think you knew how to say it, after all."

She shook her head and smiled. "I must go," she told him. "Dave, you didn't say when you're leaving."

"Very soon. I have to make some arrangements first, that's all."

"You'll stop to say good-by to us?"

"Of course."

He thought, I'll walk into the silver shop, there'll be a lot of people around, I hope. We'll shake hands.

"And you'll be back some day?"

"I'll be back often. But, remember, you must use the camp when you feel like it—you, your aunt, and your friends."

"We'd love it," she said. "I don't know how to thank you."

"Don't keep saying you don't know how!"

She laughed, and rose. "I must go," she told him, "but not until I've washed up."

"My turn today. The second maid," he said.

He went with her to the car, and asked, "Running all right again?"

"Like a breeze—" She put out her hand and he touched it briefly.

"See you," he said, "soon."

1—He was born at LaHaye, France, on March 31, 1596. His mother died of tuberculosis a few days after his birth, and physicians said he would not live long. He never played with other children, and at eight entered a Jesuit school, where his teachers continued to encourage quiet of body and exercise for his mind. They encouraged him to stay in bed late during the mornings while his mates were at classes. He grew strong and well and when he was 21 he enlisted in the Netherlands army, but did little actual fighting. In 1619, he went back to meditation after he "was visited by a dream that came from above. It was the Spirit of Truth descending to take possession of me." Some of his important works are Rules for the Direction of the Mind, The Search for Truth, Discourse on the Method of Rightly Conducting the Reason, Meditations on the First Philosophy, Principles of Philosophy, The World, Treatise on Man, Dioptric, Geometry. Queen Christina of Sweden wished him to teach her philosophy, and, after withstanding her urging for a time he went to Sweden in 1649. The queen insisted that he arise at dawn and wait upon her, but the early rising and Swedish climate were too much for him, and he died on Feb. 11, 1650, after suffering from pneumonia. Who was he?

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

By Ray Tucker

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27—Harold E. Stassen's new Foreign Operations Administration will pay an annual bribe of $100 million to persuade friendly European industrialists to switch to efficiency methods, that are common sense practice here simply because they boost production and profits, and increase the standard of living, which President Eisenhower regards as "the best defense against Communism."

It is such an extreme and bizarre example of American "giveaway" philosophy that many British spokesmen and leading newspapers are protesting against acceptance of the money for this purpose, although England's share in the Stassen bonus is only $9 million.

They insist that British firms should modernize their plants simply because it is good business, and that they should not require American financial pressure or help to induce them to do the obvious.

Although this "carrots" amendments to the Mutual Security Act was sponsored by such radical New Dealers as former Senators William Benton of Connecticut and Blair Moody of Michigan (both were defeated for reelection), Stassen apparently approves the program. He did not ask for repeal at the recent session of Congress.

• • •

SPEND MONEY—The Benton-Moody amendments, although they involve a relatively small sum, reveal how both Democrats and Republicans in Washington can always find new ways to dispose of the taxpayers' money in overseas projects. Only Congress has shown a determination to eliminate or reduce these expenditures.

Under the original Marshall Plan, counterpart funds piled up as a result of American dollar contributions could be used for only two purposes: (a) for financial or monetary stabilization (b) for internal improvements that revived or strengthened the recipient nation's economy.

England used the money to reduce its public debt and support the pound. France, Italy and other European countries spent it to rebuild bombed-out factories, railroads, highways, power project, etc.

• • •

PRODUCTION — When Russia began to act up, the law was broadened so that counterpart balances could be diverted to military expenditures.

The Benton-Moody expansion of the field of spending escaped general notice because it was adopted in June, 1952, on the eve of the exciting Eisenhower-Stevenson conventions at Chicago. The expiring Congress did not have time to appropriate the necessary money, and it became available to Stassen only recently. It is his "come and get it" invitation that provokes the current British protests.

The Benton - Moody amendments stipulate that the $100 million must be used to "promote productivity and stimulate production." Some of the economic objectives are so kindergartenish, so elementary, that they are incomprehensible, almost laughable, to American businessmen.

• • •

MUST BE SMART—Foreign industrialists, for instance, are required to spend this money to discover (a) whether a monopolistic or competitive system produces the best results (b) whether their production and distribution system should be shifted from a handicraft to an assembly-line basis (c) whether a restrictive or incentive program would increase production and improve labor-management relations (d) whether there should be more research and development of new and cheaper products.

In short, millions of American dollars will be spent to convince European producers that they ought to get smart.

• • •

WASTEFUL — To add irony to this $100 million giveaway, top American industrial experts, who studied Europe's production plant at Stassen's request, have warned foreign manufacturers that they cannot survive against American, German and Russian competition unless they modernize their methods. They do not need a $100 million bribe by American taxpayers to teach them these basic economic truths.

If there was ever a needless and wasteful expenditure, this is it!

County Fair Board Asked Pay Taxes

HAMILTON (AP) — Butler County has asked the county fair board to give up $7,204.13 in real estate taxes because part of the fairgrounds are used for racing.

Auditor R. H. Smith said yesterday a recent ruling by the attorney general makes fairgrounds, otherwise exempt, liable for taxes if the premises are used for a commercial enterprise. Ohio Sports Enterprises leases the grounds 19 days for a track meet.

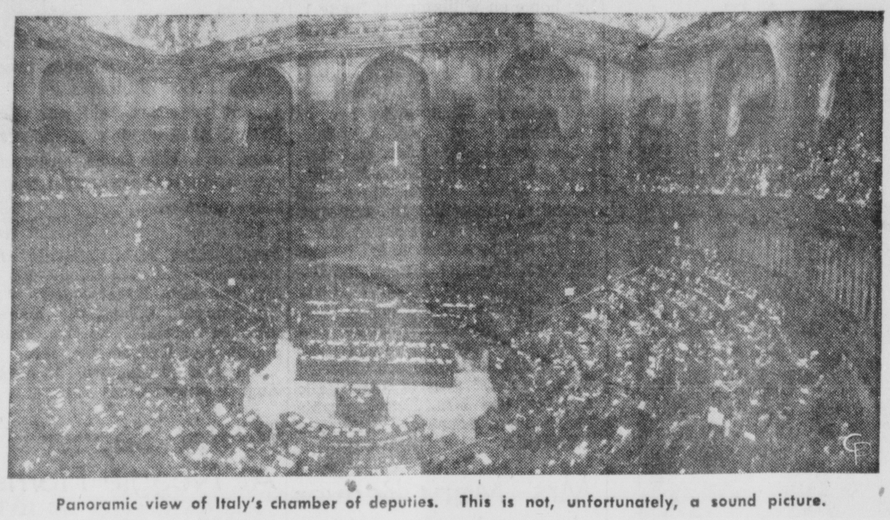
Insults, Flying Fists Commonplace At Italian Legislature's Sessions



Panoramic view of Italy's chamber of deputies. This is not, unfortunately, a sound picture.

By MELTON S. DAVIS
Central Press Correspondent

ROME, Italy—Now that the newly-elected legislators have taken their seats, Italy's chamber of deputies and senate are once again open for business. Here in two palaces in the heart of Rome are daily displayed the virtues and faults of Italian democracy at work.

Possibly no law-making bodies in the world functions in the same belligerent and boisterous manner. Commonly heard phrases in the past included "Liar," "Rascal," "Scoundrel," "Fascist Criminal" and "Kremlin Stooge."

Right from its first days, the assembly has been the scene of uproarious disputes. Fist fights broke out on all sides. Imprecations and inkwells were hurled with equal abandon. One Roman newspaper suggested that the assembly would soon become a ring providing exhibitions not seen since Nero's days.

The first assembly spent its closing day in a knockdown brawl. The Monarchists swashbuckled from their benches and were met half-way in the hemicycle of the chamber by deputies from the left.

* * *

A FEW practice swings and then the Leftists cried, "Viva la Republica!" The Monarchists yelled back, "Viva la Monarchia!" and the Center shouted, "Viva l'Italia!", always a safe bet. All of them eventually got in the melee and the hall had to be cleared.

However, after the 1948 elections, paunches continued being punched and faces slapped during hot-tempered debates. Once when about 50 vocal outbursts occurred during a speech, the speaker of the chamber plaintively asked if there was any point in continuing the meeting. "I can understand interruptions every sentence, but at every word—that is too much!"

As political lines strengthened in post-war Italy, the Communists organized in assault squads. Certain groups were to raise parliamentary objectives, others dream up amendments, still others work in committee to delay.

The climax came with Communist obstruction of the government's controversial election reform bill this year.

* * *

SHRIEKING insults, Left-Wing deputies physically blocked the way to the box where colored balls are cast as ballots. When pro-government deputies forced their way through to vote, one of the Communists leaped to the voting table and hurled the ballot box, votes and all, in the air.

A Conservative leaped up and down in front of the speaker of the chamber, beating his desk with both palms. Another, trying to calm a colleague hooked his finger into the collar of that worthy's shirt, and dragged him forcibly to his seat. The captive turned purple for a moment, and then retreated to the rear of the hall, where he continued his cries.

This boisterous behaviour has spread a few blocks away to the senate. Meetings are held in the smaller Sixteenth Century Madama palace. Members had previously been appointed by the king and were usually markedly sedate.

However, this year the electoral bill vote was announced while senators slugged each other with broken chairs. The Left-Wing formed a wedge to try and pull the presiding officer out of his seat.

* * *

A COMMUNIST woman legislator walked up to a Christian Democrat, shouted, "You cheated us!" and slapped his face. The white-bearded aristocrat bowed slightly and said, "Thank God you are a woman and I am a gentleman!" and stalked away.

The president of the senate was hit on the head with a piece of wood thrown by a Communist. He then resigned.

A result was the first chamber and senate remodeling in 30 years. Inkwells were fastened to desks and desks to the floors.

However, it looks as if the forthcoming sessions will be at least as robust. Among the newcomers is a Communist who was in prison awaiting trial for the theft of Mussolini's treasure.

Another, accused of several killings, has returned from three years' refuge in Czechoslovakia to take his seat. Two others are neo-Fascist "heroes" of a bomb-throwing incident in Trieste.

The chamber of deputies meets in the Seventeenth Century Montecitorio palace. Above the presiding officer's head is a bas-relief of the late King Victor Emanuel II. Observers sometimes wonder if the quarrelling deputies are aware of the figure that watches, perhaps ironically, over these violent manifestations of Italian republicanism.

Weekly Food Review

By Associated Press

Here's the meat situation this week, as summed up by an official of one of the country's large food chains:

"Lamb is a little lower, beef has started up again, and pork is still sky-high."

This sad state of affairs doesn't rule out weekend specials, of course. And while items like rib roasts have edged up a couple of cents in some stores, fair-sized reductions will be posted in others. Pork chops also show a mixed picture: They're up as much as 10 cents a pound in some sections of the country and down about four cents in others.

Leg of lamb prices are unchanged from a week ago to down around four cents a pound.

A number of food merchants have chosen smoked picnic hams and roasting and frying chickens as weekend specials, with price cuts of several cents a pound.

One meat specialist observed beef prices ordinarily hold up pretty well until late September or early October, when a decline usually occurs, at least in the "good" grade. Choice grade beef may remain high, he added.

Egg prices continued to increase in many parts of the country, with boosts of one to two cents a dozen. Butter prices generally were left unchanged.

Most grocers gave prominent display to California seedless grapes and pronounced them an excellent buy. Also featured in the fruit department were peaches. Cantaloupes and honeydews were other specials, although it was conceeded that they were not in the class with grapes and peaches.

There were plenty of good buys in vegetables. Produce men named green beens, eggplant, onions, potatoes and pappers as good values. Cabbage, one market man said, "is really a bargain." Tomatoes were described as "an extra-good buy."

Lettuce, high in price in recent weeks, is getting into a more reasonable range, produce men added.

WASHINGTON (AP) — T. Coleman Andrews, boss of the income tax collectors, is running into criticism as he tries to practice two of President Eisenhower's precepts: more economy and less government centered in Washington.

Andrews, picked by Eisenhower as commissioner of internal revenue, has been cutting out jobs by the hundreds, pulling loose ends of the revenue service together and letting field offices make decisions previously made here.

About 56,000 people work for the revenue service around the country, 5,000 of them in the main Washington office, which has been hardest hit by layoffs: 500 jobs abolished so far here, another 500 to be abolished, more to go elsewhere.

Some members of Congress complain Andrews is not keeping them sufficiently informed on what he is doing and that in his zeal for economy and decentralization he may be overdoing it.

One member of the House, Dewitt S. Hyde, Maryland Republican raised the question of uniformity in tax decisions by saying the federal tax system could be wrecked if there is not sufficient coordination between the field offices and a central point like the main office here. As an example of what was meant:

Suppose a New Yorker and a California had identical tax disputes with the government and each went to his local office for a final ruling. If there was a difference—that is, unless the main office here could make sure the rulings were the same—one of the two men would lose or gain more than the other.

Arguments on Andrews' side go like this: People outside Washington ought to be able to get answers close to home without the delay—and the expense, if they had to hire Washington tax layers—involved in coming here for a final decision which might take as long as two years.

In his decentralization program Andrews is letting local offices make decisions which used to come here for final review and approval. In some cases the main Washington office will still give the final answer.

O. Gordon Delk, Andrews' chief deputy, declined any explanation of what is being done. He said the top revenue people wanted to say nothing publicly until they could sit down, perhaps in mid-September, with their congressional critics and give them an explanation.

Actually, Andrews is intensifying and broadening a decentralization begun in the last days of the Truman administration after tax bureau investigations showed a need for some kind of revenue service reorganization.

Before that, almost all of the service's six main divisions had separate field offices and operated pretty much independently of one another, thus making a lot of duplication. For example:

The Collections Division (which audited returns on income under $8,500)—64 district collectors' offices, plus 900 suboffices; the Income Tax Division (whose revenue agents audited returns on income over $8,500)—39 district offices, with suboffices; Alcohol Tax Division—15 district offices, plus suboffices.

Each division was under a deputy commissioner in Washington, and the heads of the various district offices, operating independently, reported to the commissioner in charge of their respective division.

Under the Truman reorganization, the country was divided into 17 districts, each under a district commissioner. Each was in charge of all revenue activities in his district, including those handled by the 64 collectors whose title was changed to directors. This helped coordinate and decentralize (from Washington) the work of the revenue service.

Andrews has reduced the 17 districts to 9. They are called regions now, not districts, each under a regional commissioner who is boss of the Internal Revenue Serive work in his region.

As a further attempt at eliminating duplication, each of the 64 district collection directors has taken over the work formerly done by district heads of other divisions, such as the revenue agents and special agents who worked on fraud cases.

Not-too-Welcome Blasts Are Disinfecting Mexico

Women and children get a generous disinfectant dusting.

By EMIL ZUBRYN
Central Press Correspondent

MEXICO CITY—For long years there had been talk of adequate hygiene and sanitation in Mexico. But that was all it remained until the present administration began the task of insuring health and cleanliness to the citizens of the lower class districts.

Mobile brigades swoop down on vecindads—the poorest type of tenement housing, where families of up to a dozen live in one room, disinfect them and their quarters, and surrounding areas. This is no hit-or-miss campaign, for the brigades come back periodically, even if they are none too welcome.

One day Mexico will have more adequate housing for its poor. For the moment it is impossible to get rid of slum areas over night. But the government has decided that it will at least make them as hygienically liveable as possible, and thus control spread of contagious illness.

Women and children for the most part co-operate with the health brigades, but the men try all sorts of tricks to avoid the blasts of disinfectant powder. But they, too, are rounded up and told it is their patriotic duty to submit. And since a Mexican considers himself a true patriot, he resignedly submits to a cloud of disinfectant powder on an average of twice a month.

A modern flame thrower is used to burn refuse at a dump.

Merriman Urges Pedestrians To Observe Signs

"'Signs of Life' are for pedestrians as well as motorists."

This point was emphasized today by Police Chief Elmer Merriman in an effort to reduce the pedestrian death toll in Ohio.

"Many people seem to think that 'Signs of Life'—traffic signs, signals and pavement markings—are placed there for the use of drivers only," Merriman said.

"Well nothing could be more false, because they are there to guide and protect the pedestrians as well as the motorists."

Pedestrian fatalities in Ohio last year totaled 467—more than one-fourth of the 2,013 traffic deaths in the state. In other words, one out of every four persons killed in motor vehicle accidents in Ohio in 1952 was a pedestrian.

VIOLATIONS contributing most frequently to these fatalities were: crossing at intersections against the signal. . .crossing between intersections and crossing intersections diagonally.

"Certainly many deaths could be avoided," Merriman said, "if pedestrians crossed streets at the proper places and always obeyed the 'Signs of Life' where they are provided."

The August slogan "Signs of Life—Know Them, Obey Them!" is an important message for everyone, he added. It applies, whether we are walking or driving, and the person who follows it may be saving his own life.

Forest Blaze Threatens Hotel

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP)—The luxurious Arrowhead Springs Hotel in the San Bernardino Mountains was ringed by forest and brush fire yesterday, but appeared out of danger today.

The fire burned to within 50 feet of the six million dollar resort hotel but did no damage except for a scorched awning by the swimming pool.

Nearly 200 guests aided firefighters in protecting the hotel before winds swept the fire eastward over an estimated 3,000 acres.

Chicken Feather Brooms Get OK

New Fibers Bring Trouble To Laundries

Parley Scheduled By Manufacturers, Dry Cleaners On Gripes

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Miracle fibers are adding to the squawks the laundries and dry cleaners get.

Makers of test tube fibers, people who blend them into apparel and retailers who sell them to you have joined the sturdy little band of folk who complain about what the laundry sometimes does to their clothes.

All hands are going to get together here next week to see what can be done about it.

To some laundrymen these new mystery fabrics are the last straw. They already have to deal with the terrible tempered citizen whose collar comes back starched, who misses strategic buttons, who finds a tear that shows only after the shirt is put on, or shrinkage that binds or maybe just can't find the shirt in the returned bundle at all. The new fibers are another hazard.

The American Institute of Laundering of Joliet, Ill., and the National Institute of Dry Cleaners of Silver Springs, Md., are trying to get manufacturers to label each garment with the exact percentage of each fiber it contains. They want the label stamped or sewed in—not just tied on, to be discarded by the customer.

Some manufacturers, however, complain that some laundries pay little attention to such labels anyway, and that garments containing the man-made fibers often return to the customer in much less than a miracle condition. If this goes on, they fear synthetic fibers will get a permanently bad name with the public.

The National Association of Shirt, Pajama and Sportwear Manufacturers has called a meeting Sept. 1 of laundry and dry cleaners representatives and of manufacturers and retailers to air complaints and seek solutions.

Laundry firms say that various fiber types need different cleaning treatment — and they've got to know what's in the fabric before they can do a good job. This year has seen a big spurt in blending man - made and natural fibers, which leaves many laundrymen, and most of their customers in a state of utter confusion.

The laundries already have been taking a beating from the booming sales of home washers, and from self-service units sprouting like mushrooms in apartment house basements and empty stores down the block.

TV commercials showing glamorous blondes idling in front of automatic washers are hard on the laundry business.

The sport shirt has taken its toll. It's a lot easier for a wife to iron a sport shirt.

Contour sheets were a problem until laundries developed machinery to iron the added thickness at the fold and get all the moisture out.

Despite these troubles, the laundries have shown a growing gross revenue.

Although bacteria cause many diseases, the vast majority of bacteria perform functions either useful or harmless to man.

FAMED FORT WILLIAM HENRY TO RISE AGAIN ON SHORE OF LONG HISTORIC LAKE GEORGE

By FRED HIFT
Central Press Correspondent

LAKE GEORGE, N. Y.—Memories of one of the most frightful massacres in American Indian history are being revived here with the reconstruction of Fort William Henry, once a powerful British bastion at the foot of Lake George, captured and razed by the French in 1757.

To anyone who still remembers the thrill and romance of James Fenimore Cooper's Last of the Mohicans, the name Fort William Henry should carry a familiar ring since much of the book's action revolves around the fierce fighting that took place here.

The colorful history of the fort, coupled with the painstaking effort that is being made to rebuild it exactly as it once stood—a formidable bulwark against any French thrust down the Hudson to Albany and New York—is making the reconstruction a project of great interest.

Quite apart from that, however, tourists passing through this lovely Adirondacks region will be given the unique opportunity of being able to stop by and actually watch the excavation and construction work going on.

* * *

ALREADY a great many relics of life at Fort William Henry have been unearthed and are on view, and progress is being made in solving one of the great mysteries of the French-Indian wars: How many people actually died that horrible day in 1757 when a band of howling Indians fell on a group of captured British soldiers and settlers and, sweeping aside the small detachment of French guards, murdered every one of them in a drunken rage?

Estimates of the death toll today range anywhere from 500 to 2,000. Certainly it included a good many women and children. The French, who had stormed the fort the day before under the command of the Marquis de Montcalm, had guaranteed these people safe conduct to nearby Fort Edward. They hadn't reckoned with the ferocity of their Huron allies.

Oddly enough, the dead revenged themselves on their murderers. At the time when Fort William Henry was under attack, its defenders were weakened from an epidemic of small-pox which had taken a good many lives. After the capture, and disappointed at the generosity of the French, the Indians dug up freshly-dug graves and scalped the bodies in them.

They took those scalps with them back to Canada. A few months later, entire Indian encampments were decimated by the dread disease.

Today, a part of that same graveyard at the fort has been excavated and visitors can watch archeologist Stanley Gifford carefully exhuming the skeletons that lie there just as the Indians carelessly threw them back into their graves.

* * *

IN UNEARTHING these remains, Gifford, who also worked on the reconstruction of Fort Ticonderoga at the opposite end of the lake, found various layers of varicolored earth. One consisted of black sand. It took some research into the fort's records to establish the reason for its being there.

After the Indian outrage, Montcalm collected all the bodies, tore down the fort and built a huge bonfire. A year later, when the British General Abercrombie launched a huge amphibious assault from the same spot against French-held Ticonderoga, he remembered what had happened at Fort William Henry. As a sanitary precaution, he ordered the black sand spread over the entire area.

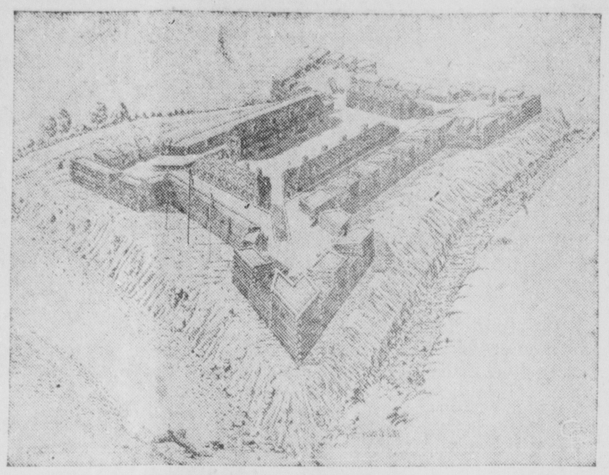
Reconstruction of the fort is tailored to exact specifications left by the British army engineers who built it. Already one of the bastions overlooking the lake is completed and the whole outline of the fortification is emerging.

* * *

EVERYTHING, down to the barracks and the bomb-proof shelters underneath them, will be rebuilt and refurnished. The small museum, which now holds such memorabili of British camp life as clay pipes, rum bottles, cannon balls, old buttons, a 1738 British penny, a skull or two, etc., will be vastly enlarged.

While, with such exact plans in existence, he has no trouble restoring the fort, getting the same cannons back on the walls is a problem for Gifford. The fact is, he intends to fish them out of the lake. That's where the British dumped them unceremoniously when their first attack on Ticonderoga failed.

How does Gifford know where the cannons are lying? He gives his answer with a wry smile. "I hang around the taverns for a while and talk to the fishermen. They and the fish are the only ones who know the spots where my 'treasures' are hidden."



Plan of Fort William Henry as it looked back in the French-and-Indian Wars and as it will look again after reconstruction.

Newspaper Law Being Proposed

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—A Brazilian lawmaker has proposed a plan for the "forced reading" of newspapers. The scheme, proposed by Deputy Joao Cabanas, and aimed at increasing the number of newspaper readers, would work like this:

Without previous authorization, publishers could start delivering their paper to the home of a prospective subscriber. If the subscriber failed to halt the delivery within two weeks, the publisher could consider him a full-fledged subscriber.

The bill also provides that the publisher could collect for the paper through legal means without paying court fees.

Railroad Cars Can Be Rented

LONDON (AP)—Renting a private railroad car in Britain is not the expensive luxury that it is in the United States. British railways rent passenger cars as "camping coaches" during Summer months to six or eight persons in each car for rentals as low as $15 to $30 per week per person.

Cars are placed on railroad sidings in vacation spots in England, Scotland and Wales. Included in the cars other than bed rooms are dining room, living room and kitchen.

Superintendent Theodore Snyder reminded parents that all first graders this year must be six years of age by Nov. 1 to be eligible to attend school. This ruling applies throughout the county system.

Members of the Scioto teaching staff this year will be: Mrs. Lola Gearing, grade one; Mrs. Ethel Axe, grade two; Mrs. Margaret Steele, grade three; Miss Dehl Renick, grade four; Mrs. Helen Dowler, grade five; Herbert Nutt, grade six; Gordon Thompson, science and mathematics; Walter Willis, physical education; Mrs. Elinor Johnson, music; Mrs. Stella Morrison, home economics; Mrs. Marie Dougherty, commercial studies; Walter Haney, principal; Hillis Hall, vocational agriculture; and Snyder, superintendent.

Mrs. Lula Rasor is returning as school secretary, and Mrs. Harley West and Miss Betty Haughn are to operate the cafeteria. The cafeteria will not open until Sept. 9, first full day of school.

According to the American Bowling Congress, the sport started 7,700 years ago when an inventive Egyptian devised a nine-pin game.

It is believed that the balloon was invented in France in 1782.

About 28,000 U. S. people are killed each year in home accidents.

Communists Setting Sights Against Wild, Wooly Texas

BERLIN (AP) — The Communist hate parade is about to get a new No. 1 refrain—Texas.

It's rapidly overtaking the old Red whipping boy—"gangster Chicago."

Kids in Communist-ruled East Germany are persecuted and even ostracized if they wear Texas shirts and cowboy hats. Anything plaid and loud, by the way, is a Texas shirt.

Any rowdyism by American occupation troops is called "typical Texas stuff."

American Western movies are condemned as "Texas wild west barbarism."

"Civilized World Revolts Against Wild West Films," headlines the Communist-edited National Zeitung. "Europe Boycotts Hollywood's Shameful Product."

The article went on to say that many innocent kids the world over had been misled down the path of crime through "Texas films." It said not a word about how right and justice always triumph and how true love invariably wins the day in Western movies.

The real tipoff on this Communist gripe is that they don't dare show a Hollywood Western for the East German public. If they did, they'd probably have a stampede like the rush for free American food parcels in Berlin.

One of the most ridiculous—yet tragic—things is the Communist campaign against the "Texas shirt"—popularized by Americans and exported here through U. S. occupation civilians. German clothing manufacturers have copied the shirts, along with blue jeans, and any German kid loves them as much as American teenagers.

The "Texas shirt" is a particular target of Die Junge Welt (Young World), newspaper of the Communist Free German Youth (FDJ). This paper wants young Germans to be "just like our Soviet brothers—good activists, good collectivists, good tractorists."

It roundly condemns the "painted cowboy shirt" as the "uniform of terrorists and Fascist provocateurs."

After the June 17 revolt and strikes, police arrested thousands of East German anti-Communists. Some were executed and others sentenced to long jail terms. Among the victims were youths who fought Russian tanks with sticks and stones.

Die Junge Welt helped along this witchhunt by claiming that a series of confessions had been wrung from youngsters who like the American styles. It charged that they were "seduced on the path of Fascist crime by running around in these monkey shirts."

Typical was the confession attributed to Werner Rode of Erfurt, in Thuringia. According to Junge Welt, he stated: "I never gave any due consideration to what the government of our (East) German Democratic Republic has done for youth until now. In my shameless disregard for these things, I—a worker's child—wore Texas shirts and those boogie-woogie ties. In this clothing, which offends the feelings of sane people, I went into the streets of Erfurt. I defied the ridicule of the population and I was finally arrested by our security organs.

"And justly so, for there was adequate suspicion that I and my sort were enemies of the people. Today I know that by wearing these ridiculous shirts and ties we served the imperialists. Doesn't our industry manufacture beautiful shirts in many colors and patterns that can be bought at reasonable prices?

"In the future it will be my task to speak to all those who believe they must dress in the American style and show them, through my own example, that they must uphold our national dignity."

Boeing Tells Of Its RB-47, World's Fastest Jet Bomber

The fastest known operational bomber in the world, the Boeing B-47 Stratojet, of the type in operation at Lockbourne Air Force Base, is a six-engine swept-wing airplane being built in quantity for the U. S. Air Force by Boeing Airplane Company at Wichita, Kans.

The Boeing-designed B-47 also is being produced by Douglas Aircraft Co., Inc., at Tulsa, Okla., and by Lockheed Aircraft Corp. at Marietta, Ga. Dimensionally, the airplane is generally similar to the Boeing B-29 and B-50 Superfortresses.

Most details of the airplane's performance are classified by the Air Force, which describes it merely as a "medium" bomber "in the 600-mile-an-hour class." Since the first flight of the original XB-47 on Dec. 17, 1947, a number of outstanding achievements have been recorded by the Boeing speedster.

Most recent was the record transatlantic crossing July 28 by a B-47 of the 305th Bomb Wing, which flew from Limestone Air Force Base, Me., to Fairford Royal Air Force Base in England in four hours and 45 minutes, covering the 2,933 miles at an average speed of 617.4 mph.

• • •

THE ORIGINAL XB-47 Stratojet also still holds the transcontinental speed record, set Feb. 8, 1949, when it flew from Larson AFB in central Washington state to Andrews AFB, Md., in three hours and 46 minutes. Average speed for the 2,289 miles was 607.8 mph.

Speed marks not being enough, world distance and endurance records are also held by the B-47: One of the swept-wing Stratojets covered more than 12,000 miles in a 24-hour non-stop flight on March 23-24, 1952. The world's first jet flight over the North Pole was made by a B-47 on Sept. 20, 1951.

The first mass transatlantic flight of B-47's to England was made June 3-4-5 this year when 45 Stratojets of the 306th Bomber Wing made the flight, with six of them breaking the previous record for the run.

The XB-47 which made the transcontinental dash six years ago was equipped with six General Electric J-35 engines of 4,000 pounds of thrust each. Production model Stratojets utilize six G-E J-47 engines, essentially the same size and weight of the J-35 but providing 5,800 pounds of thrust each.

These engines give the B-47 a total of 34,800 pounds of thrust, compared with 24,000 pounds supplied by the original engines on the XB-47. Provision also is made for 18 rocket units which can supply an added 20,000 pounds of thrust for takeoff.

The first of the production Stratojets—designated B-47A—was rolled from the Boeing-Wichita factory on March 1, 1950. The current production model of the Stratojet—the B-47E—is being produced at Wichita at a rate of more than one each working day. More than 400 Stratojets have been built thus far.

• • •

TWO HIGH-SPEED, high altitude reconnaissance versions also are being delivered to the Air Force. One of them, being built from the ground up as a day-or-night long-range photo ship, is designated RB-47E. The other, the RB-47B, is a specially converted standard Stratojet which can be used either as a photo-recon airplane or in its usual role as the Air Force's front-line, high-altitude medium bomber.

There are more than 1,000 vacuum tubes in the Boeing B-47, ranging in size from the diameter of a lead pencil and 1.25 inches long to a diameter of 2.25 inches and 9.5 inches long. They range in cost from 56 cents to $681 each.

More than 27 miles of Boeing-assembled electrical wiring is installed in each B-47.

There is sufficient air conditioning in each B-47 to supply five five-room houses and enough heating capacity for the Stratojet's cabin heating and de-icing system to heat 22 five-room homes.

The B-47 is about twice as fast as the B-17 Flying Fortress, weight is about three times as much and yet the B-47 has a wing span only 13 feet more than the B-17.

The jet fuel alone in the B-47 weighs more than a World War II B-17 fully loaded for combat. It takes 300 gallons of jet fuel just to taxi the B-47 from warm-up ramps to the end of the runway for takeoff, a distance of about 1.5 miles on the average.

Boeing purchases 15,000 materiel airframe parts, 55,000 non-airframe parts, 8,000 outside production items—a total of 78,000 items, all of which must come into the plant at times consistent with flow times for mating of parts fabricated either at Boeing or by others. Over 8,000 items are subcontracted to 432 companies in 32 states.

• • •

THE STRATOJET must meet temperature changes of more than 120 degrees above zero to 65 degrees below zero.

The B-29, at the end of World War II, cost $600,000 each. The B-47 at present costs approximately $2 million, of which about 40 per cent represents the cost of government-furnished equipment installed in the airplane.

B-29 bombsights cost $8,000. B-47 bombsights cost $250,000.

Wing and tail surfaces of the B-47 have a sweepback of 35 degrees. The wing deflects 16 inches downward on the ground and 45 inches upward in flight for a total of 61 inches at 185,000 pounds gross weight condition. In static tests, wing tips were deflected through a 20-foot arc without damage.

Wing skin on the B-47 tapers from 5/8 inch at thickest point (where wing joins body) to 3-16 inch at wing tip. Heaviest wing skin on B-29 was 3-16 inch.

There are 415 different aluminum alloy forgings in each B-47.

Service ceiling for the huge plane is more than 40,000 feet, its range is 3,000 miles and its maximum takeoff weight is 185,000 pounds.

The RB-47 can carry a bomb load of 20,000 pounds and is armed by two .50 caliber machine guns in a tail turret. Crew for the ship consists of a pilot, co-pilot and a navigator.

Fisherman's Cast Saves Swimmer

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—An exhausted swimmer who had just saved his two daughters from drowning was himself saved yesterday by a fisherman who made a perfect cast from the beach.

Chester Fisher, 29, of Sarasota grabbed the line, wrapped it around his wrist just before losing consciousness, and the fisherman reeled him in to safety.

The fisherman got into his car and drove away before Fisher and others of his family could ask his name.

Fisher became exhausted as he and his wife saved two of their daughters, Joan, 8, and Christine, 7, after they were swept into deep water by the tide.

Dog Stands Guard Over Mistress

JERSEYVILLE, Ill. (AP)—A grieving dog stood guard over his mistress' body. A radio played in the background.

That's the way neighbors, worried because she hadn't answered her telephone in four days, found the body of Mrs. Mildred J. Chappell, a 55-year-old widow, in her farm home near here.

An autopsy showed Mrs. Chappell had died of a heart ailment.

Indications were that the dog, a spaniel who growled before allowing Mrs. Chappell's friends to enter the house, had not eaten since he began the vigil, possibly four days before.

Death Ends Coma

ROCK HILL, S. C. (AP)—Mrs. Rosa McFadden, 74, in a coma for two years after an automobile accident, died here yesterday. She never regained consciousness.

Ohio Farmers Use More Than Million Tons Of Fertilizer

Ohio farmers used more than a million tons of fertilizer last year to boost crop yields per acre, cut production costs and increase net profits.

The total plant food used on Ohio farms in 1952 was 10 per cent more than in 1951 and carried 15 per cent more plant nutrients.

The United States as a whole used 22.4 million tons of fertilizer last year. This was six per cent more in tonnage and 10 per cent more in plant nutrients than in 1951.

Farmers are buying higher analysis fertilizers. They are getting more crop feeding power per ton. In the last five years, the percentage of primary plant food content in an average ton of fertilizer has increased from 19.6 per cent to 24.8 per cent.

• • •

"THE STEADY rise in fertilizer use," experts say, "indicates farmers realize that plant food is not an expense but a high-yielding investment. U. S. Department of Agriculture economists estimate that each dollar spent for fertilizer returns farmers at least $4.83 in additional income from crops.

"Other factors influencing the greater use of fertilizer are: 1—Recognition by farmers that fertilizer is still one of the best buys they can make. Fertilizer prices have risen less than those of virtually any other production item a farmer buys; 2—Realization by farmers that plant food reserves in the soil are declining and must be replenished if long-range high production levels are to be maintained."

Korean Solons Eye Press Bill

SEOUL (AP) — The South Korean government has asked the National Assembly to pass a bill requiring all foreign news agencies, magazines and individual correspondents to register with the Office of Public Information.

During the past three years of war, hundreds of foreign newsmen and magazine writers have come to South Korea with U. N. Command clearance only.

Japanese correspondents, whom the Korean government did not welcome, could enter without the permission of the republic.

"Now that the war is over," said a government spokesman, "we must take care of foreign correspondents and other publication agents according to our own law."

Hunting officials figure approximately 3,000 moose were shot during Newfoundland's hunting season.

Fall Kills Lad

IRONTON (AP)—Thomas Kline, 6, of Ironton, was injured fatally yesterday when he fell from his father's truck.

2,000 Virginia Kids To Get GG

MARION, Va. (AP)—More than 2,000 Smyth County children — 2 months to 9 years old — were slated to get the needle today as health authorities continued mass inoculations of gamma globulin in an effort to check an outbreak of polio that has resulted in 42 cases in about a month.

A total of 4,577 youngsters were given shots yesterday as the inoculations began at two clinics. The disease is believed to have broken out in Smyth County as a result of last month's epidemic in the adjoining area of Washington County and Bristol, Va.-Tenn.

Rapid Justice Amazes Defendant

POCATELLO, Idaho (AP)—Lester D. Brown, 22, a transient, cashed two checks yesterday at 11:30 a.m.

He was arrested at noon, accused of issuing bad checks.

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Traffic cops equipped with radar did a double take yesterday.

First they stopped a man for speeding. He became nervous at the delay.

"Whats your hurry? Sgt. Wayne Lawson asked suspiciously.

The motorist blushed. "My wife will be leaving home any minute now, and she'll come right by this spot. Frankly, I wanted to warn her."

At that moment, Lawson said, the radar picked up another speeder. It was the man's wife.

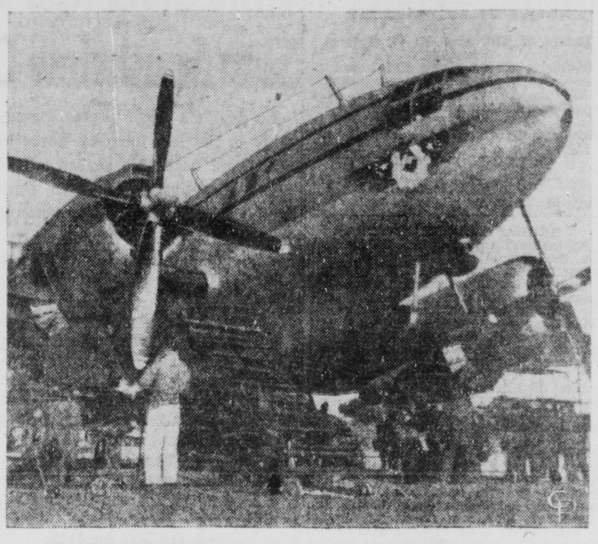
RUSS RAIL, AIRWAYS BUILD LINKS TO RED CHINA

By F. K. WU
Central Press Correspondent

HONG KONG — Russian railroads and airways are to link up with cities in Communist China for the common objective of "world revolution," which is initiated in Moscow and officially endorsed by Vice Chairman Liu Shao-chi on behalf of the "Central People's government."

Soviet and Chinese railway laborers have begun work so that Chinese trunk lines may effect a junction with the trans-Siberian railway in the very near future. The Ta Kung Pao, a Tientsin newspaper, says that officials of the Peiping ministry of railroad headed by Mei Yung visited Moscow to make final arrangements for the operation of through trains between China and the U. S. S. R.

For faster transportation the People's Daily in Peiping reports that the Chinese-Soviet Aviation corporation will operate a new air line between Tihua or Urumchi, the provincial capital of Sinkiang, and Omsk in the near future.



An old C-46 transport plane being overhauled in Red China for flights to-and-from the Communist motherland of Russia.

This new air route will link Kansu and Sinkiang provinces in Northwest China with Asiatic Russia. The Democratic Review, an independent Chinese fortnightly, stressed that these rail and air connections are of great economic and strategic importance.

* * *

AT THE SAME TIME the Chinese-Russian Petroleum company is extending its exploration of new oil wells in Sinkiang. The New China News Agency, official Communist wire service, says that more than 10 exploration groups have been formed under the direction of Russian experts after the completion of earlier missions in the Tien Shan areas of that province. The preliminary explorations have given ground for much optimism, according to the same source.

The agreement giving birth to that Sino-Soviet oil company calls for a 50-50 division of petroleum exploited in Sinkiang, but as Soviet Russia is providing the specialists, machinery and transportation the Soviet share of the fuel is actually over 80 per cent.

These three deals in Russian-Chinese co-operation amount to Soviet exploitation of the sources of continental China and Russian designs to exert stronger control over the Chinese Communists, continues the Democratic Review which flatly refutes any possibility of Titoism in Red China.

Indicating that ties between China and Russia have suffered no setbacks after the death of Premier Joseph Stalin, more Russians are reported to have arrived in Canton as seen in the downtown district by eye-witnesses now here.

* * *

SOME OF THEM may be Poles, Czechs or Hungarians who all appear to the Chinese as Russians, but most of them are believed to be real Russians and thus are highly respected by Chinese officials and interpreters. The majority of them are confined in the barracks and officers' clubs inside the White Cloud and Milk Way airports.

The Chinese authorities do not want too many Russians to be seen in the streets, but to obviate any boredom and monotony the "honored guests" are given all comforts and entertainments at their quarters. It is said they came to South China to test the fighting capabilities of the MIG jet fighters and other Russian models amidst the humidity and hot weather of South China.

* * *

OTHER RUSSIANS in Canton reached there for a brief stop-over before continuing their long journey to Indo-China to assist the Vietminh Communist army fighting the French Union forces, according to the same informants.

History professors of Canton Overseas college, a refugee counterpart in Hong Kong of Canton university, after a study of Chinese-Russian relations, concluded that Mao Tse-tung, the head of the Peiping regime, will continue to rely on Russia as before and that there will be no disruption of this partnership despite the predictions of Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia and Premier Jawaharlal Nehru of India.

Professor Huang Tung-ch'ou, who has devoted a life time to the study of Russian history, told this correspondent that Peiping has to continue reliance on Moscow for planes, tanks and guns as well as Russian technicians and machinery.

Other faculty members agree that China being an agricultural country has to depend on industrialized Russia for many kinds of supplies in exchange for Chinese agricultural products and mineral resources.

* * *

THE CHINESE nationalist generals, including President Chiang Kai-shek, Feng Yu-hsiang and Tang Sheng-chi, first made use of Russia and later turned against the U. S. S. R. which now sees to it that there will be no more defection among Chinese leaders, they pointed out.

As soon as Premier Georgi M Malenkov took over after Stalin's death, Mao Tse-tung in Peiping promptly sent a cablegram of allegiance and loyalty to the new successor at the Kremlin. Communists in China may not respect Malenkov as much as Stalin, but Chinese professors and other observers here have failed to see any parting of way between the Peiping demagogues and the Kremlin leaders, who are bound by the same ideology of world conquest.

Local Chinese newspapers reported almost every day that Chinese underground agents trained in Canton and Peiping are being sent to Indo-China, Siam or Thailand, Malaya, Burma, Indonesia and the Philippines.

This is confirmed by the wholesale arrest of Chinese Commies in the Philippines and the deportations of Chinese from Malaya back to Swatow and Canton. The newspapers said that the agents are infiltrated into those countries in readiness for future "liberation," while the movement in Indo-China is well advanced.

Veteran Marine Officer Reports Servicemen Dislike Korean Truce

By RELMAN MORIN
(For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP) — Capt. Ben Price, of the U. S. Marines, walked into the office the other day, fresh from Korea.

Naturally, I asked, "What do your guys think of the armistice?"

"Not much," said Ben. "They aren't satisfied to have it end this way."

He went on to say that the war could have been carried to a complete military decision in our favor.

Coming from a Marine, of course, any other report would have been a surprise. But there is more to it than the insignia on his cap. Price had the unusual experience of serving in Korea twice, in two totally different roles.

On his first hitch, he was a correspondent. He went over early in that hot summer of 1950, covered the retreat and then the siege on the line laid down by Gen. Walker. After the North Koreans collapsed, and the war disintegrated into a pursuit and mopup, he came home.

He had been in the Marines in World War II and so a year or so ago, Uncle Sam called him and presently he was on his way back out to the old stamping ground, this time in uniform.

In short, he has seen the war from more different angles than most of us ever could.

"What we should have done," he went on, "is smash up the Chinese defenses, and then destroy their armies in Korea."

The Chinese have boasted of their depth-defenses, presumably a system of bunkers, trenches and emplacements going back four or five miles, solidly.

"We didn't think much of the depth defenses," he said. "Every time we punched through the outer crust, they would react quickly and pretty well. But it didn't look to us though they had the means of moving troops and material around quickly enough to seal off a real breakthrough."

This coincides pretty well with the opinion of Gen. James A. Van Fleet. When he came back, some months ago, he said:

"The Chinese are nothing once you get 'em moving backward."

"Then why didn't we open a real offensive?" I asked Ben.

"I don't know," he said. "Nobody could make sense out of it. We would take one of their positions, and then pull back on orders."

He said the Marine officers reasoned that they were losing more men in the stationary war that finally developed than would have been lost in an all-out push.

"Which officers," I asked. "The big brass?"

"All of them," he said. "Many second lieutenants would tell you we should have been pushing instead of sitting there."

So if you drive up to the Yalu River again, then what? It would still be necessary to keep the whole army more or less intact, guarding the long border, even though the fighting had stopped.

Ben conceded that. But he said, "You're going to have to keep most of the Army ready anyway. And if we're going to stop, the river is the spot, not down where we are.

"In the first place, the problem of unifying Korea would then be solved automatically. In the second, it would be a lot better to bargain with the Chinese on their own border than down at the 38th Parallel."

These ideas are not confined to the Marine Corps. A good many regular Army officers feel the same way.

History, alone, will show whether signing the armistice at this time was the right course to take.

Waitress Sleeps; Magician Sought

BANFF, Alta. (AP)—A 19-year-old waitress with a "consuming desire" to sleep is in a hospital here while police search for a traveling hypnotist-lecturer. They hope he can end her trance.

The girl, Betty Black of Nelson, B. C., can be awakened and will speak and walk but she drifts back to sleep. She refuses to eat.

Police were told she fell into a trace Saturday night while attending a performance put on by the hypnotist, known here only as "The Great Dr. Zomb." She was taken to the stage to be brought out of the spell and appeared normal when she returned to her seat. At work the next day, however, she fell asleep three times.

Ike's Birthplace Getting Water

DENISON, Tex. (AP)—The Denison house, where President Eisenhower was born, will get running water for the first time.

The city council agreed to extend a line from a hydrant in the yard to the kitchen sink. This was asked by women serving as hostesses of the home—now a showplace.

The ladies hope some day a restroom will be installed. The Eisenhower birthplace plumbing is of the outside variety.

FORESIGHT

Is More Dependable Than 'Lucky' Tokens

The best luck a boy can have today is to be lucky enough to have foresighted parents who see the necessity of giving him a good high school education and thorough training in business methods.

Many parents have found that the best way to give their sons practical business training is to encourage them to go into business for themselves as carrier boys for this newspaper.

As a newspaperboy he receives valuable business training in work that actually supplements his schooling. He earns his own money and learns to save and spend discriminately. Naturally, a boy who has learned to assume responsibility, to manage money and to plan his day's work is most likely to succeed in the business world.

Little Stars Run Wild In Second, Slug Southview Of Columbus, 17-3

Circleville's Little Stars, apparently in the last baseball game to be played here this season, made like a tornado in Ted Lewis Park Wednesday night at the expense of the Southview club of Columbus. Circleville ran wild in the second and had a 17-3 margin when the fray ended.

Needled by his players who are reluctant to see the curtain come down on their "kid baseball" season, Manager Red Wilson left the door open for the chance of one more contest before the uniforms are stored away until next Spring. At the same time, he pointed out, school days are just around the corner again for the youngsters, indicating Wednesday night's game was the last for 1953.

"It's getting late for baseball," he said. "I imagine this is the last game."

If it was, the Little Stars tied up the victory with all the glory befitting a campaign finale. Manager Wilson used 16 players, and all the boys managed to get a hand in the lopsided decision. The visitors were outclassed from the start but went down swinging against the hopeless odds.

• • •

THE COLUMBUS club was able to gather only two hits off Don Wellington, who started on the mound for the locals. Duane Dean, who took over for three innings in the fourth, was just as tight with the bingles. The Little Stars battered two visiting pitchers for 15 safeties, 10 of them coming in the second when the Circleville team scored 12 runs and settled everything.

One of the home team hits was a homer blasted by Catcher Neil Sark during the second inning festival.

Ray McDaniels, a left-hander, started the hurling job for Southview but fell victim of the Little Star barrage. He was replaced by Bill Feterer who succeeded in calming the storm, but the damage was already in the scorebook.

Southview scored one run in the first, another in the fifth and a third marker in the final sixth. The Little Stars had already piled up that many in the initial stanza.

Terry Dean and Brent Bell opened action for the home side by beating out bunts for hits. A passed ball put the boys on second and third, and the sacks were loaded after Stevens walked. Rowland also strolled, forcing in the first Star tally. Phifer was safe on the second-baseman's error, and another run came in. Barnhart fanned, but the third marker registered while Gulick was being thrown out at first. Sark was thrown out to end the inning.

Wilson's wild men wasted no time in wrecking the joint in the second frame. Don Wellington singled to right and would have had more if fast work by Stevens in right hadn't held it to a one-base belt. Terry Dean was safe on error. Bell's bunt went as a hit, and Wellington scored on a wild throw on the play. Stevens singled, scoring a run. And Rowland joined the fun with a double that scored two.

• • •

ROWLAND HIMSELF came in a moment later on a wild toss while the visitors were working on Phifer, who eventually walked. Barnhart struck out, but Gulick kept the fire roaring by beating out an infield tap in front of the plate. While the visiting defense was caught napping a moment later, another run scored. Sark then uncorked his homer, scoring Gulick ahead of him for two more.

Two were down after they threw out Don Wellington, but Terry Dean beat out a hit to short and went to second on an error. Bell was hit by a pitched ball, and Stevens walloped a triple, adding two tallies to the merry-go-round.

Rowland singled to score another run. And when the opposition continued to throw the ball around, the hitter continued all the way to score himself.

The locals added two more in the third to total their 17.

Starting batting orders:

Little Stars—T. Dean, ss; Bell, 3b; Stevens, rf; Rowland, 2b; Phifer, lf; Barnhart, 1b; Gulick, cf; Sark, c; Don Wellington, p. Elsea went in for Bell, Davis for Stevens, Schneider for Phifer, Edgington for Barnhart, Ted Wellington for Gulick, Strawser for Sark, and Duane Dean for Don Wellington.

Southview—Hicks, ss; Beck, c; Richardson, 2b; Bill Feterer, 1b; Talbott, cf; Dick Feterer, 3b; Warner, rf; Stevens, lf; McDaniels, p. Erbs replaced Warner.

Gavilan Eyes Bout Against Carmen Basilio

NEW YORK (AP) — Although he weighed a hefty 54 pounds in scoring a warmup victory over middleweight Ralph Jones, Welterweight Champion Kid Gavilan said today he doesn't expect to have any trouble making the 147-pound limit Sept. 18.

That's when the Cuban Flash defends his welter crown against Carmen Basilio in Syracuse, N. Y.

"Me make it easy," he said.

"After I beat Jones I finish weighing 147 pounds. Monday I start training again at Summit, N. J. Don't you worry, I make it."

The champ seemed somewhat sluggish through the first three rounds of his 10-rounder with the Yonkers, N. Y., Negro but he gave the pro-Jones crowd of 5,063 (gross gate $16,620) a dazzling exhibition the rest of the way to earn the unanimous decision in Madison Square Garden.

Gavvy, who outweighed the middleweight by two pounds, elected to slug it out with the sturdy Jones for three rounds and trailed. In the fourth he switched to boxing—jabbing and circling—although the fans booed. He boxed through the middle rounds and then handed the Westchester Tiger a good thumping with solid smashes the rest of the way.

Jones said he hurt his right thumb in the sixth and had to stop pressing. Dr. Vincent Nardiello said the thumb was dislocated and possibly fractured.

The votes, all favoring Gavilan, were: Referee Al Berl, 5-4-1; Judge Arthur Susskind, 6-4, and Judge Jack Gordon, 7-3.

Shoemaker Cops Ohio Golf Open

HUDSON (AP) — Dick Shoemaker easily won the Ohio Open Golf Tournament.

The 42-year-old Beechmont County Club professional closed out with a 72-hole total of 282 yesterday to win $600 first money at the Lake Forest Country Club.

Trailing in second with 288 was big Herman Keiser of Akron, former Masters winner and twice the state Open champion. Jimmy Walkup of Cleveland came in third with 289.

Castoff Chisox Playing Havoc With Chisox

Chicago's Flag Race Flop Blamed On Those Lowly Philadelphians

By The Associated Press

Want to know one of the big reasons why the Chicago White Sox are languishing 10½ games back in second place today instead of fighting it out with the New York Yankees for the American League pennant?

The answer is none other than the poor, old Philadelphia Athletics, managed by former White Sox skipper Jimmy Dykes and loaded with a bunch of ex-Pale Hose players who are coming back to haunt Paul Richards and his hirelings.

The A's have beaten the Sox 12 times against 8 losses. On the other hand, they've won only 5 from the Yanks and dropped 15. If the White Sox had been able to do as well against the A's as the Yanks did, theyd' be just 3½ games out of first place.

In the last two days, White Sox castoffs have taken care of their former mates very emphatically.

Yesterday, the A's beat the sox 10-8.

Who did the bombarding? Eddie Robinson, who was traded for Ferris Fain during the winter, hit a home run and Dave Philley, who put in four campaigns with the Sox, hit a home run and two triples to knock in two runs.

The day before yesterday, the A's beat the Sox 4-2. Gus Zernial, who once labored for the Sox, hit two home runs and Philley hit one.

Earlier in the season, Cass Michaels, who wore a White Sox uniform seven years, and shortstop Joe de Maestri, another ex-Chicago player, came up with home runs that hurt the Windy City boys in the standings.

The White Sox protested yesterday's loss because Philley was given a triple when pitcher Mike Fornieles' glove flew off his hand while he was trying to field a grounder. The rules give a batter an automatic triple if a fielder throws his glove at the ball. The Sox claimed the ball knocked Fornieles' glove off.

Fornieles was knocked out in the fifth and took the loss while Alex Kellner, who went eight innings for the A's, got credit for the triumph.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Yanks nipped the Detroit Tigers 5-4 and the Cleveland Indians polished off the Washington Senators 9-5. The St. Louis Browns and the Boston Red Sox were not scheduled.

In the National League, the Chicago Cubs pummeled the Brooklyn Dodgers 13-4; the New York Giants clobbered the St. Louis Cardinals by an identical 13-4, and the Philadelphia Phillies edged the Milwaukee Braves 6-5 in the only night game of the day. The Pittsburgh Pirates and Cincinnati Redlegs had the day off.

East Wins Annual Football Classic

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—The East, behind 13-2 late in the third period, paired a break and a sparkling run by little Johnny Blalack of Drew, Miss., to crush the West 22-13 and win the annual All-America High School football game here last night.

For nearly three quarters the West had dominated the game, mainly on the one-two punch of quarterback Ronnie Knox of Santa Monica, Calif., and fullback Jack Throckmorton of Lamarque, Tex.

U. S. Tennis Experts Plot Way To Crack Aussie Power

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. (AP) — A thoroughly confused group of American tennis officials are gathered here, awaiting the start of the National Championships on Saturday and wondering what, if anything, can be done about breaking Australia's stranglehold on a game in which Uncle Sam once held world domain.

They are fresh from watching the Aussie pickup pair of Rex Hartwig and Mervyn Rose crush our best doubles teams in the championships at Boston. And two weeks before that they had sat glumly at South Orange while the visitors' singles aces took turns whacking our boys about. Now they don't know what to think.

"In my mind," said Alrick Man Jr., the head of our Davis Cup committee, "it comes down to whether Tony Trabert can play himself back into the form he had in 1951, when he carried Frank Sedgman to five sets in the Nationals here. If Tony can, after two years in the service and virtually out of the game, then we'll have a good chance of winning the cup back this winter at Melbourne. Tony looked great in spots at Newport."

If there is a pattern to the official thinking, that seems to be it. Trabert must become a really top player again, and up to this point the heavy-legged youngster from Cincinnati has been a big disappointment. He still believes in himself, but he has others wondering. Among the latter is Mercer Beasley, the noted coach.

"I've told Tony he must work a whole lot harder than he has been," Beasley aid. "He must get out here and warm himself up for an hour or more before a match, the way Harry Hopman makes his Aussies do, instead of showing up maybe five minutes before he is due to play.

"I asked him if he could do this." The veteran mentor rolled his shoulders like a hula dancer. "And you know what — he couldn't."

Such little things as that, we gathered, are important.

Col. Jim Bishop, the tall president of the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association, was able to offer no real solution to the dilemma facing the cup selection committee. He conceded readily that things look none too promising at the moment, but point out cheerily that tennis fortunes have a way of changing from week to week. He offered no estimate of when they might veer again in our direction.

Pronto Don Eyes $25,000 Feature

WESTBURY, N. Y. (AP)—Pronto Don, world's No. 1 money winning trotter, will try tonight to win the invitational $25,000 American Trotting Championship at Roosevelt Raceway.

The 8-year-old gelding from the Hayes Fair Acres Stable of Duquoin, Ill., was second last year to Silver Riddle when the world record of 2:37 1-5 was established for a mile and a quarter.

Silver Riddle is not among tonight's 10 starters but Pronto Don with total earnings of $255,236.46, faces Katie Key, who stepped a mile in 2:03 at Yonkers last week.

Tribe-Yank Series Not Important Now

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland's Indians and the New York Yankees open a three-game series here tonight and no one is particularly excited.

With the Yankees 14 games ahead of the third-place Tribesmen, even the most partisan Cleveland fan will admit the outcome doesn't mean much now.

Manager Al Lopez will shoot his Big Three against the Yanks, with Mike Garcia to hurl tonight against Whitey Ford. Early Wynn has the assignment for tomorrow and Bob Lemon for Saturday.

Yank Riflemen Win Top Honors

CAMP PERRY (AP) — American colors flew today after victories in both of two small bore rifle contests with British and Canadian teams.

A 20-man American team broke the record with 7,984 out of a possible 8,000 points yesterday to regain the Dewar Cup Trophy from England at the National Rifle and Pistol Championships.

In the Pershing Trophy match, a 10-man American team fired 3,990 out of a possible 4,000 to retain the cup.

Keystoner Sets New Pace Mark

SEDALIA, Mo. (AP)—Frank Erwin of Sedalia drove Keystoner to a new record in the $10,000 American-National Stake for 3-year-old pacers here yesterday.

The race featured the day's Grand Circuit harness program at the Missouri State Fair.

Keystoner, son of Hal Dale, won the first heat in 2:00 and the second in 1:59.2 for a two-heat total of 3:59.2.

Don McFarland Scores Win In 2nd Race Here

Only one Circleville driver earned a checkered flag Wednesday night during auto races in Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

He was Don McFarland, who finished ahead of Gene Thimmes of Circleville in the second elimination heat.

Thimmes outranked McFarland in the feature race, however, collecting third place while McFarland settled for fifth.

Only other local pilot to take honors during the under-the-lights program was Buzz Binkley, who placed second in the second consolation race.

Sulky Driver Uses 'Hot' Cane

BALTIMORE (AP) — Maryland's first "electrical device" charge against a harness race driver resulted in the suspension of a 45-year-old Birdsnest, Va., horseman yesterday.

The four-year suspension, effective at all tracks belonging to the United States Trotting Assn., was handed out to Louis Floyd.

Chairman D. Eldred Rinehart of the Maryland Racing Commission said Floyd had a cane equipped with a battery in the paddock at Ocean Downs Track.

In four seasons of basketball for Seattle, Johnny O'Brien scored 3,302 points. His brother, Eddie, scored 1,613.

Hugh Taylor, Washington Redskins end, set a new team record in 1952 by catching 12 passes for touchdowns. The previous record of 11, set in 1939, was held by Andy Farkas.

Sokolsky's

The anti-American development in France and Italy could have been anticipated. In those countries, the Communist Party is enormous.

The recent Italian elections make any government unstable and Togliatti, the Communist leader, is again speaking his mind freely on issues, because what he says counts. In France, Thorez, having returned from Soviet Russia after a 29-month absence, has achieved the goal of political strikes.

In France, into which we have poured billions of dollars, little of our money percolated to the people whose standard of living is steadily falling.

In Japan, the situation now is very bad and it would be correct to expect much deterioration. The defeat of the United States in Korea imperils Japan. Certainly, when American troops are withdrawn from Korea, Japan must come to some agreement with Communist China and Soviet Russia. Otherwise Japan will be in danger of starvation, if not of invasion.

The Japanese want to trade with Communist China because it is important for them to get their food from that country, particularly rice and soy beans. Should Indo-China and Thailand fall to the Communists, Japan will have no alternative but to join them unless we accept the proposition that the United States will permanently make up Japanese deficits.

A report of this nature is not pessimism. It is precise reporting of developments which are taking place and which cannot be ignored. It is not enough that some top officials in Washington evaluate the situation accurately, if they do.

The people of this country ought also to know the facts and realize that the foreign aid program has, from the American standpoint, proved to be a dud.

Sea Rescue Display Is Feature Of National Air Show

Mercy Gear Showing Due Sept. 5-7

Albatross, Lifeboat Arrangement Means More Lives Saved

In an effort to give the viewing public a representative cross section of every phase of air operations, the Air Force will bring a Grumman SA-16 amphibian and an A-8 Lifeboat to Dayton for display at the National Aircraft Show at Cox Municipal Airport Sept. 5-7.

The advent of intercontinental flying has brought upon the Air Force a new type of organization, that of the Air Sea Rescue Squadron.

Under the command of the Military Air Transport Service, these squadrons are stationed strategically all over the world. Their mission is a mission of mercy.

They rescue pilots who have crashed at sea or inaccessable areas. They fly in medical supplies to disaster areas and fly the sick or wounded out to hospitals.

• • •

TO COPE with this new type of aerial service, new equipment had to be brought into use. Of course, the helicopter is probably the best known tool of this humanitarian group, but the helicopter has a limited range and its speeds are relatively slow.

So, the Air Force had to devise a means of rescuing personnel stranded hundreds of miles from bases, especially persons afloat at sea.

The Grumman SA-16A was one of the Air Force's answers to this dilemma. It is a seaplane with a range of 2,500 miles, Carrying a crew of six. The Albatross, as the SA-16A is nicknamed, can speed to the rescue at over 250 miles per hour and pick up as many as ten persons.

It is a multi-missioned plane that can be used in search and rescue work, personnel and cargo transport or as a multi-engine seaplane trainer.

The Albatross did not altogether fill the overall job requirements, however. It is unable to land in rough water and its range is still short of what might be required to rescue personnel in a mid-ocean crash. In a case such as this, the Air Sea Rescue Squadrons have B-17's and B-29's that have large lifeboats which may be dropped by parachute to a spot near the survivors.

These boats are A-3 lifeboats. After hitting the water, the engine in the boat starts automatically. A controller flying in the mother plane steers the boat to the survivors by means of remote radio control.

• • •

THE SURVIVORS then get aboard the boat and the controller can guide them to safer waters, where an Albatross or a helicopter can pick them up, or guide them all the way to land.

These 29-foot long boats are equipped with food, medical supplies, fresh water and enough gas for a 500-mile journey.

At the exhibit site at Cox Municipal Airport, the A-3 Lifeboat will be parked alongside the SA-16A Albatross. Air Force displaymen will explain different features of both pieces of equipment and will answer spectators questions.

Senator Points Finger On Aid

FREDERICKSBURG, Tex. (AP) — Sen. Johnson (D-Tex), who last week said he had voted for his last foreign aid bill unless some European countries changed their ways, has pinpointed his objections.

He told this German-American community last night that France and Italy must "set their houses in order. The Senate minority leader said inability of Italy to form a new government and of the France to end her strikes are evidence the two countries "are unable to meet the primary test of our foreign aid program.

Johnson declared West Germany has "more than proved its right to full and equal membership in the family of free nations.

"The key to Europe is Germany, the senator said.

INDIA DENIED PEACE PARLEY SEAT

Reds Free 3 Gls They Gave Jail Terms

150 More Americans Returned; Only Week Of POW Swap Remains

PANMUNJOM (AP)—One hundred and fifty Americans rode eagerly from Red captivity last night, three of them men their buddies had feared would be kept in North Korean jails on phony charges.

One returning prisoner said 45 more Americans sentenced only a month ago to prison terms were in the Red grouping center at nearby Kaesong awaiting release.

Freed Americans have told of prisoners jailed by the Reds in late July when the armistice was signed on such charges as "instigating against peace." Their sentences ranged from 1 to 3 years.

However, three of the "convicted" came back in yesterday's group of 250 South Koreans and 150 Americans. They were:

Cpl. Charles G. Guidotti, 32, Philadelphia; Cpl. Eugene R. Reilly, 21, New York City; and Sgt. Guy T. Vadala, 23, Stoneham, Mass.

• • •

REILLY AND Vadala said they had 43 other men in Camp 1 were told they were going to a "readjustment camp" because the Reds "were afraid we would be a bad influence on the others."

They were taken to a separate camp near Main Camp 3.

Finally, on Aug. 16, about three weeks after the truce was signed, they were told they would be repatriated.

The three said they believed all prisoners would be repatriated.

"All of those guys are in Kaesong in a special place where we were held," Reilly said, adding:

"We were eight balls. We wouldn't go along with the Commies."

Cpl. Gerard A. Francois, 23, of Jersey City, N. J., said 30 U. S. enlisted men and 15 officers have arrived in Kaesong after previously being sentenced by the Reds and told they would not be repatriated.

He said the 45 were told in Kaesong they will be freed, but only after everyone else.

However, Francois said the 45

Chiropractic Aid Denied By VA, Ex-Gls Say

DENVER (AP)—Four World War II veterans undergoing treatment at Spears Chiropractic Sanitarium and Hospital testified yesterday before Sen. Langer (R-ND) that the Veterans Administration had refused to pay for chiropractic care for them.

The four gave their names as Charles Wilson, 26, Palacios, Tex.; James Starner, 35, Canton, Ohio; John Baccarella, 28, Jersey City, N. J. and William Ray, 30, also of Jersey City.

The hearing was moved to the hospital at the request of Dr. Leo Spears, who heads it. He said he wanted the senator to take testimony from the men and they were unable to come to the Federal Bldg.

Wilson said he was suffering from poliomyelitis. The other three said they were victims of multiple sclerosis.

After conducting the sessions, Langer announced the hearing was recessed indefinitely. Sometime in the future, he said, his subcommittee will check to see how the men are getting along.

State Warns Bypass Plans Have Lost Current 'Status'

An official of the state highway department Thursday said the controversial bypass project at Circleville "has no status" because of the deadlocked dispute over the rerouting here.

The announcement came from Richard Ricketts, of the department's district offices at Delaware. He said the proposal to relocate Route 23 around Circleville wasn't included in the latest plans approved, "mainly because we haven't been able to get anywhere with our plans."

Because of the stalemate at the Circleville end, he explained, "the project has no status with us as of now." He emphasized he didn't mean the project has been abandoned. He said he only means the job has lost whatever priority it had, for the time being, until vital decisions are made.

Ricketts described three "next steps" that could come from the present position of the project. They were outlined as follows:

• • •

1. THROUGH OPERATION of a new highway council being established under legislation passed by the last session of state assembly, the state highway branch may be "forced to go ahead immediately" with the Route 23 bypass at Circleville.

Ricketts said such a development, conceivably, could mean the state would have to build the new four-lane highway up to the city limits "and let the city take it from there."

2. The project may continue in a lull until a decision is reached at Circleville, and that decision conveyed to S. O. Linzell, director of state highways. Ricketts said he understood Linzell told a Circleville delegation some time ago that the idea would be suspended until the group reports back to Linzell, either directly or through the district offices.

3. Action could be resumed in Circleville on a new detachment position—to pull back the corporation line—and give the state full approval to proceed. In such a case, Ricketts said, much valuable time could be saved since surveys could be started while the project is being put "back in line."

The highways official reiterated there is little hope the bypass could be speeded by having the city grant "consent" legislation, with the understanding the state would waive the city's share of the costs.

His reference was to a mid-way type of proposal which would eliminate virtually all the detachment proceedings. However, state spokesmen have stressed they would be unable to grant Circleville major concessions that could not be granted to other communities.

• • •

NORMALLY, UNDER the "consent" procedure, the city would have to pay a substantial share of the bypass costs.

A note of encouragement for the bypass, however, was seen in the announcement that the state is now able to "tell almost exactly what buildings, if any, would be affected by the present proposed route of the new highway."

Opponents of the bypass have based much of their fight on the claim that they are only waiting to see "just where this road would be located."

Ricketts indicated the data showing the exact route, as now contemplated, will soon be sent to city officials here.

He confirmed reports that the state has already withdrawn a field crew that had been working close to the city. It had been hoped this crew could turn immediately to the bypass surveys, but this hope was blasted by delay on the bypass here.

One property owner opposed to the bypass ordered state field workers off his property south of the city some time ago.

The last session of the legislature cleared the way for formation of a highway council which will serve to coordinate the state's highway planning, Ricketts explained. He said the plans of this council are not yet known, but he stressed that its decisions could force immediate work on the new highway north and south of Circleville.

Former Patrolman Here Nabs AWOL Soldier After Slaying

ZANESVILLE (AP) — An AWOL soldier today admitted he shot and killed the assistant director of the Ohio Industrial Relations Department last night after the official had given him a ride in his car.

Harold St. John, 25, of Dorchester, Mass., was captured by Patrol Cpl. Clyde E. Wells, a little over a mile from the scene of the slaying on U. S. 40 west of here.

Wells said St. John, AWOL from Camp Atterbury, Ind., since yesterday, admitted he shot Joseph W. Harding, 53, during a struggle in the car when he tried to rob the state official.

Harding was killed a short time after he left a farewell party for his retiring chief, Albert A. Woldman. Gov. Frank J. Lausche was reported considering Harding as successor to Woldman, who leaves today to assume a juvenile judgship in Cuyahoga County.

• • •

PATROLMAN Wells, stationed in Circleville prior to his promotion and transfer to the Cambridge barracks, said St. John stated that Harding picked him up as he hitchhiked on the outskirts of Columbus. St. John had two pistols, a .32 caliber and a .45 caliber he said he had stolen from a guard at a Camp Atterbury stockade yesterday morning.

Harding stopped the car in front of a motel about five miles west of Zanesville and shouted, "Call the cops! This guy has a gun!"

Patrolman Wells said St. John was wounded in the leg during the struggle for the gun. Harding was shot twice, once in the head and once in the abdomen.

Ray Bush, 25, a truck driver of Linden, Ind., heard the struggle and the shots and saw a man flee from Harding's car. Harding's body was found hanging out the car door. The motel attendant had gone inside to phone the sheriff.

Roadblocks were set up throughout the area. Wells, driving a patrol car, spotted St. John coming onto U. S. 40 from the brush about 5:30 a. m. and took him into custody without resistance. St. John was carrying the .45 caliber pistol in his belt. The other gun was found in the car.

St. John is held at Zanesville police headquarters.

Harding was former three-term mayor of Cuyahoga Falls. He was a native of Guernsey County. He was graduated by the American Institute of Banking. For seven years he worked in an Akron bank. He also was cashier for the Summit County probate court.

His widow and family reside in Cuyahoga Falls.

Informed of Harding's slaying, Gov. Frank J. Lausche said:

"I'm very grieved and shocked to hear what happened. Joe Harding lived in the house immediately in back of the governor's mansion. He was a neighbor.

"He did a good job as mayor of Cuyahoga Falls and had been in the industrial relations department about five years. He was being considered to succeed Albert Woldman as director of the department."

Lausche recently appointed Woldman as a juvenile judge in Cuyahoga County.

Two Airliners Brush, But No One Injured

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (AP)—Two commercial air liners, carrying a total of 57 persons, brushed each other last night at 11,000 feet, but pilots landed them safely and no one was injured.

The planes, twin-engine Convairs from American Air Lines and United Air Lines, had left Chicago about a minute apart. The collision over Michigan City, about 60 miles east, occurred about 25 minutes later. Both planes were slightly damaged.

"It was a very lucky situation all around," said William Whitacre, American chief of flight operations for the Chicago region. We have no idea who did what to whom. We don't say which plane ran the other down, but it will be the subject of an inquiry by the company and by the Civil Aeronautics Administration."

The collision ripped a three-foot hole in the tail section of the American plane while the UAL airliner was punctured on top of the fuselage between the pilot's cabin and the passenger area.

Blood Supply Low; Donors Sought Here

An appeal for Pickaway County residents to give blood was made Thursday by the county Red Cross Chapter.

Officials of the county Chapter pointed out the blood supply on hand in central Ohio is very low.

In fact, the local chapter reports it has been notified blood will be available here only on an emergency basis, on a "life or death" status.

First regular Fall visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile here will be next Thursday from 11 a. m. until 5 p. m. in First Methodist church.

All persons who have donated previously here will be eligible to donate again during the next visit, since the blood-collecting program was discontinued here during the Summer months.

Persons wishing to make appointments for next Thursday's visit may telephone 336 or 756.

Power Concern Denies Rumor Of Crackdown

Officials of the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. emphasized Thursday they have no intention of turning off the lights in Ted Lewis Park.

Charles T. Gilmore, manager for the utility here, said it had been rumored in the city that the firm is considering such a step. The rumor, he indicated, arose from current criticism of the park board's maintenance of the park.

The electric concern has never threatened to turn off the park lights, even indirectly. Present demands for an overhaul of the park board were stirred by the failure of some of the field lights on the large baseball diamond.

Since the original complaints were filed, the field lights have been restored to normal condition.

• • •

GILMORE STRESSED that his company always has gone out of its way to cooperate with community ventures, "and especially such good ones like the baseball for the kids." This policy will be continued by the utility, he emphasized.

The firm's role in the discussions was only to announce the amount of lighting bills awaiting payment.

Meanwhile, Bob Colville, treasurer of the park board, said the board no longer employes a regular caretaker. In view of the board's thin financial condition, he explained, the caretaker duties have been assumed by Bill Cook, board chairman, and himself.

Colville said he would determine just what the financial status of the board is after he has had an opportunity to confer with City Auditor Lillian Young.

Bricker 'Guesses' Huffman For Job

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) said today that as a 'pure guess' he thinks Gov. Frank Lausche may name former Sen. James W. Huffman, a Democrat, to succeed the late Sen. Taft.

"Of course, I don't know what Lausche is going to do. But, just guessing, I think he may pick Huffman," Bricker said.

Huffman, a 58-year-old Columbus lawyer, was appointed to the Senate in 1945 to fill the vacancy created by the appointment of Harold M. Burton to the Supreme Court. Bricker defeated him in 1946.

Bricker Stubbornly Pledges Showdown On Treaty Setup

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) served notice today he will attempt to force Senate action on his proposal to limit treaty powers despite opposition by Secretary of State Dulles.

Dulles yesterday told the ABA meeting in Boston that the constitutional amendment proposed by Bricker would put Congress in charge of the conduct of foreign affairs and "have a calamitous effect upon the international position and prospects of the United States."

Bricker said later that Dulles "either does not understand the Constitution or he does not understand the Senate resolution."

"My resolution in no way impairs the power of the President in dealing with foreign nations," the Ohio senator declared. "It would prevent the President and the Senate from making domestic law by treaties."

The Dulles statement came in a prepared speech after the ABA's international law section voted 64-12 against the Bricker proposal.

Today, the ABA as a whole disregarded the law section's recommendation and voted to support the amendment. The vote was 117-33.

• • •

BRICKER'S resolution, which originally had 63 other senators as co-sponsors, would provide that no treaty should override domestic law unless Congress acted affirmatively. It also would give Congress power to "regulate" executive international agreements. As a constitutional amendment, it would require two-thirds approval of both houses of Congress and ratification by three fourths of the states.

Dulles noted that President Eisenhower has said he is opposed to any amendment which would hamper the President in his constitutional role of conducting foreign affairs.

The secretary of state said the Bricker proposal would "cut down the nation's treaty power so that no treaty could bind the nation in respect of matters which, under our federal system, fall within the jurisdiction of the states.

"This would set the clock back to an approximation of the condition which existed under the Articles of Confederation."

Calling this position "absurd," Bricker declared:

"I'm going to bring it up in the next session of the Senate, whether it is a special session this fall or at the regular session in January We are going to have a showdown on this matter and I think the administration will find that sentiment is behind my amendment."

GOP Senator Tells GOP: Back Ike Or U. S. Faces 'Disaster'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Ives (R-NY) told complaining Republicans today that if they don't support the Eisenhower administration program the nation may be "faced with complete disaster."

Ives' observation was made in letters in which he is replying to Republicans dissatisfied with high taxes and critical of the administration.

It followed a blast by Rep. Hugh D. Scott (R-Pa), former GOP national chairman, against GOP "obstructionists" in Congress.

Scott named Sen. Malone (R-Nev) as one of these and Malone had this to say in reply:

"Time always determines who is right and who is wrong. I remember that Mr. Scott was a fine young man who was running the Republican party at one time. I hope he will settle down and protect the interests o his country."

• • •

IVES, ONE of the early supporters of Eisenhower for the presidential nomination last year, said he believes "the President is doing a far better job than is generally realized."

"The cost of government in our country has been turned definitely downward," the New York senator said. "Our appropriations this year amounted to almost $21 billion less than they were last year."

"The fact remains that the New Deal administrations have gotten our country into a mess.

"To solve the mess we are in will require time and, unless the American people are patient and support the administration in the efforts we are making, the nation is faced with complete disaster."

Ives said that despite complaints he received he believes there is widespread national support for Eisenhower and his policies.

Firestone Hit By Nationwide Union Walkout

CLEVELAND (AP)—The CIO United Rubber Workers union struck the big Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. throughout the nation today. Negotiators failed to reach a new wage agreement before a midnight deadline.

Union and company representatives talked far into the early morning and scheduled another session today.

The strike involves 24,000 production workers in eight cities, including 10,000 in Akron.

Most of the union locals went out about midnight local time, with the first walkouts reported in Akron, Pottstown, Pa., and Fall River, Mass.

The other Firestone plants are in Los Angeles; Noblesville and Newcastle, Ind.; Memphis, Tenn.; and Des Moines, Iowa.

Union and company spokesmen continued a long-standing policy of not commenting on the progress of the negotiations.

While it never has given specific details of its demands, the union says they include a "substantial" wage increase and better pensions. It also is seeking adjustment of what it calls inequities in wage rates for some classifications.

America Wins Bitter Debate In U. N. Panel

British-Soviet Bloc Fails To Muster Sufficient Backing

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—India failed today to win sufficient U. N. supppo-t to give her a seat at the Korean peace conference.

She received a majority of the votes cast in the 60-nation Political Committee, but fell short of the two-third majority required for approval by the General Assembly which acts tomorrow.

• • •

THE VOTE WAS 27 for, 21 against, 11 abstaining and India not participating.

It was a victory for the United States over a British-Russian combine on the issue for America had fought vigorously against India's inclusion.

The committee also:

1. Recommended seats at the conference for all the 16 countries who fought under the U. N. banner if they desire to do so. The vote was 42-7, with 10 abstaining and India not voting.

2. Rejected a Soviet proposal that the conference be made up of six belligerent countries and nine "neutrals." The vote: 5-41, with 13 abstaining and India not voting.

3. Voted to include Russia in the parley "provided the other side desires it." The vote was 55-2 with two abstaining.

Russia made an unsuccessful attempt to delete the phrase lining her up on the Communist side, but then voted for the proposal as a whole, indicating she would attend as a representative of the Communists.

Lodge also struck back at Vishinsky's charge that the U. S. acted like a "master race" and was trying to force others to accept its views by ultimatums.

• • •

HE POINTED out that the American population was made up of many races and religions, but behind the Iron Curtain the Communists have tried to wipe out religion, Christianity, Judaism.

"The representative of the Soviet Union, when he talked about a master race in America, missed one of the great opportunities in his life to keep quiet," Lodge said.

On the question of the Korean conference, Lodge said:

Deportation Blues Haunt Dick Haymes

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The deportation blues piled up on Crooner Dick Haymes today as he surveyed the discordant score: a second exportable charge by the government and three subpoenas.

The harried Haymes sweated through a 5½-hour preliminary hearing yesterday at which he admitted filing an application for relief from military service during World War II as a citizen of a neutral country. He said he thought the application was only for "temporary deferment."

The hearing also brought out that Haymes had a previously undisclosed marriage—his first — to Edith Harper, also a singer, in Chicago in 1939. It lasted only two or three weeks, he said.

Haymes admitted owing Uncle Sam an income tax bill but said he didn't know offhand just how much. He was told to bring exact figures to a subsequent session.

Before the day was over three process servers handed the singer subpoenas. In one, his second wife, Joanne Dru, says he's behind in alimony payments. The second was notification of a divorce filed by current wife Nora Eddington. The final subpoena claimed he owes a department store $415.

Born in Argentina, Haymes came to the United States in 1937 and has not become a citizen. The government charges he was ineligible to re-enter the continental United States last June after visiting actress Rita Hayworth in Hawaii. Hollywood gossip says she will become wife No. 4.

Immigration officers contend the law forbids citizenship to any alien who has sought exemption from military service, and forbids entry into this country of any alien who can never become a citizen.

THE REDS HAD claimed a right to hold some prisoners on trouble-making charges, but U. S. and U. N. officials sharply warned them to free all Allied POWs who want to return.

Yesterday's delivery brought the number of released U. S. prisoners past the two-thirds mark with only one week of the POW exchange remaining.

Ten were officers and 140 were enlisted men.

The exchange, limited to 30 days by the truce agreement, begins its last week tonight with 144 more Americans scheduled for freedom. The Reds said they also would hand over 250 South Koreans, 4 British and 2 South Africans.

They now have returned 2,278 of 3,313 U. S. prisoners promised.

Eitel Reports Spotting Deer

Pickaway County, once with an abundant supply of deer, still has some of the animals roving about—but only enough so that spotting one is an unusual event.

John Eitel of Williamsport Route 2 spotted a deer early Thursday as he was driving to work in Circleville along the Darbyville Pike.

Eitel said the deer, an extra-large doe, ran across the highway in front of his car and then stopped to look back at him.

More deer probably will filter into the county this Fall when deer-hunting seasons are observed in counties to the south and southeast of Pickaway County. There will be no open season on deer in t h i s county, however.

National Lawyers Guild Rapped

BOSTON (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell said today he proposes to put the National Lawyers Guild, which he described as the legal mouthpiece for the Communist party, on his list of subversive organizations.

Brownell made the announcement in an address prepared for the American Bar Assn., in convention here, which earlier adopted a resolution declaring that Communists should be barred from the legal profession in this country.

Yesterday, the ABA pledged support for lawyers who, though personally anti - Communist, defend subversives in courts.

Baby Boy Snatched From Nursery

CLEVELAND (AP)—A Negro woman, brandishing a gun, forced her way into a nursery at a home for unwed mothers today and carried off a 3-week-old baby.

Barefooted and wearing jeans, a jacket and a man's cap, the woman appeared at the Mary B. Talbert Home, which is operated by the Salvation Army, and demanded "the youngest baby."

The night supervisor, Mrs. Claudia Woods , and her assistant, Mrs. Lois Tipton, said the intruder then walked into a nursery containing 14 Negro babies, picked up the smallest one, a boy, and left.

America Wins Bitter Debate In U. N. Panel

want a peace, there won't be any. It takes two to make a peace. If they do not want a conference they can wreck it."

British Delegate Sir Gladwyn Jebb agreed with Lodge and said that, when he heard Vishinsky speak, he asked himself whether Russia actually wanted a conference.

Vishinsky denied he had made a veiled threat about Communist participation in the peace parley. He said all he was saying was that the assembly should communicate its views to the Chinese Communists and North Korea and then consider their views.

This flurry delayed the voting temporarily.

The committee had booked votes today on four major proposals:

1. Inviting South Korea and the 16 U. N. members who fought in Korea to attend the conference as U. N. representatives.

2. Inviting Russia to attend "provided the other Communist side desires it." The Russians oppose being classed with the other side and have proposed an amendment ot delete this phrase.

* * *

3. INVITING India to attend. This is the resolution the United States opposes and the British are sponsoring.

4. The Soviet resolution to set up a 15-nation conference: four—the United States, Britain, France and South Korea—from the U. N. Command; the two Communist belligerents—Red China and North Korea, and nine nations classed by the Russians as "neutrals" — the Soviet Union, India, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Indonesia, Syria, Egypt, Mexico and Burma.

Lodge felt sure that even if the resolution inviting India could get the bare majority needed for committee approval, it could not muster the two-thirds vote needed for Assembly adoption.

He was also sure that Russia could not muster a two-thirds backing in the Assembly to invite it as a U. N. representative.

Vishinsky admitted in debate yesterday that the U. S.-backed proposals probably would be adopted, but termed them an "ultimatum wrecking the conference which has not even opened its sittings."

"You are slamming the door in advance," he declared. "You are saying these are our proposals, take them or leave them."

Drivers Warned Licenses Begin Expiring Soon

The first general renewal of three-year driver licenses in Ohio will begin Tuesday.

About 2.5 million licenses now held by Ohio Motorists will expire within a 12-month period beginning Oct. 1. Licenses may be renewed not more than 30 days before expiration and not more than three months thereafter.

Drivers who permit a license to lapse more than three months must pass a driver examination to obtain a new one. Persons who have obtained a license by passing a test within the past t w o years will not be required to obtain a renewal license until the expiration date noted on the license.

In addition to a fine and possible jail sentence, any person convicted of operating a motor vehicle without a driver license is now subject to the provisions of the new safety responsibility law.

All drivers are urged to check the expiration date on their licenses and have them r e n e w e d promptly when the permit expires.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The American Legionnaires are coming to town next week, and every hotel and tourist court for 25 miles around is booked solid.

Some 35,000 members of the legion and its auxiliaries are expected for the legion's 35th national convention. More than 5,000 room in private homes have been promised to take care of the overflow.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon and three Cabinet members head the list of speakers for the convention proper Monday through Thursday.

The grand parade, always a highlight of the meeting, will start at 10 a.m. Tuesday. Legion officials say it will require 10 hours to pass a given point, with about 100,000 persons, including about 250 bands and drum and bugle corps, marching in it.

The advance guard already is streaming into town. Preconvention events will include a speech at 12:15 p.m. Friday by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), chairman of the Senate investigating Committee. He will speak before a joint meeting of the legion's commissions on foreign affairs, Americanism and security.

'17th Star' Premiere Planned Thursday At Ohio Fairgrounds

Ohio's greatest symphonic drama, "The 17th Star," will have its premiere showing Thursday on the 300-foot, $50,000 stage at the grandstand at the Ohio State Fairgrounds.

Gene Lockhart, one of America's foremost actors, known for his outstanding Hollywood and Broadway appearances, heads the cast. He plays the important part of Marvin Lacey, who keynotes the spirit of Ohio.

Lockhart, in addition to his screen and stage performances, has made numerous television appearances. He is one of the country's most prominent all-around acting personalities.

Paul Green, Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright, and noted composer-conductor Isaac Van Grove, wrote "The 17th Star." Helen Tieken Geraghty is director, with Joan Woodruff as choreographer.

• • •

AN ORIGINAL "miracle mound" stage of gigantic proportions was constructed for the production. Twenty-six special wagons have been designed to transport tons of scenery.

Thirty men, working on cue, change scenes on blacked-out portions of the stage while action goes on on another of the many hillocks and mounds of the spectacular stage.

Five huge switchboards with twelve electricians handling the 174 lighting units make "The 17th Star" a theatrical achievement. Eleven people working on one intercommunications circuit handle light cues. Four people on another circuit take cues for sound effects.

More than $100,000 worth of costumes are displayed by the 500 actors, singers, and dances. Rare vehicles, wagons, baby prams, antique satchels, carpet bags, bicycles, milk churns, chairs, tables, and fans add to the authentically reproduced historic scenes that range from the early Mound Builders to the jazz era.

Tickets are available at the Ohio State Fair grandstand box office.

'Honest Soldier' Helped By Army

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Army recruiting officers here said today they had found the "most honest soldier.'

"I'm flat broke and I'm due in Ft. Knox, Ky., in three days," the 19-year-old soldier on leave here said yesterday.

"Who got sick this time?' asked a sarcastic recruiter.

"I just spent all my money on my girl and going to night spots, the frank GI admitted.

"You are the first soldier in my memory who, under conditions like this, told the truth, said the recruiter.

A few minutes later the GI was en route by bus to Ft Knox. The Army paid his way. Next month the Army will take that bus ticket out of his pay.

DeForest Lauds Television Future

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The grand old man of electronics, Dr. Lee de Forest, is 80 and full of confidence for the future of television and radio.

The inventor of the radio vacuum tube, at his birthday party yesterday, predicted network color television by 1955 and said lines will soon be eliminated from TV screens.

He presented the annual Lee de Forest award to Joyce C. Hall, president of Hallmark Cards, for the firm's radio and TV dramatic series which last year included Maurice Evans' two-hour production of "Hamlet." The award is for cultural achievement.

Skunks Claimed As Deductions

JONESBORO, Tenn. (AP) — Cafe owner Harry Byrd aims to find out how the federal Internal Revenue Department stands on skunks.

Some of the critters set up housekeeping under the floor of Byrd's cafe. He called police who routed them with gas grenades. But the cafe was closed for more than a week and customers were reluctant to return for longer than that.

Now it's all written down for presentation to the tax collector as a deduction.

Unmailed Letter Saves His Life

MOUNT DORA, Fla. (AP)—Paul H. Johnson figures a letter he hadn't mailed may have saved his life, like this:

He was driving to the postoffice when a windstorm felled a tree on his car. He grabbed the door handle but received a severe shock from live wires the tree had pulled on to the automobile.

He used the letter as an insulator, opened the door and stepped out just as the car roof caved in from the tree's weight. He escaped with a sprained back and minor cuts.

Ohio U. Branch Offers Courses For Korea Vets

The Chillicothe branch of Ohio University again this year provides an opportunity to the Korean war veteran to obtain a sizeable part of his college training.

To register, a veteran needs first to submit his certificate of education and training to the assistant director of the Chillicothe branch of Ohio University. Any inquiries in regard to obtaining a veteran's certificate of education and training will be answered at the branch office.

A veteran must obtain this official certificate to enroll, but registration steps at the OU-C office are the same for veterans as for non-veterans. Throughout the semester during which he is enrolled, a veteran is required to fill out a monthly certificate of attendance.

Veterans will find it to their advantage to submit the certificate of education and training as early as possible, inasmuch as payments do not begin for at least three months after the certificate is in the hands of the university.

A limited number of World War II veterans are continuing their college work at the branch in Chillicothe.

Shooting-Bandit Story Is False

CADIZ (AP)—Robert Humphrey, 41, retracted an earlier story about being wounded by a robber, and admitted shooting himself with his squirrel rifle, Prosecutor Morris Gibby said today.

Humphrey, a railroad brakeman who lives at nearby Holloway, first told authorities he was sleeping in his car at a roadside park and was awakened by a man who demanded money. He said the robber picked up the rifle and shot him when he denied having any money.

Iceboxes Banned

OLEAN, N. Y. (AP)—Olean's Common Council, alerted by the suffocation of nine children in other cities this month, has made it a misdemeanor to abandon an icebox.

HIS THUMB still up, Henry Minvielle arrives in Los Angeles carrying a 69-pound shoulder pack after hitchhiking his way from Le Havre, France. He had to spend $58 for food and incidentals, but had $42 left when he reached California. This is earmarked for a return to France.

Flint Planning Rebuilding Job

FLINT, Mich. (AP)—More than 5,000 volunteers are expected to participate Saturday and Sunday in a giant project to rebuild some 186 Flint area homes that were leveled by the great tornado June 8, which claimed 116 ilves.

Home owners will supply the building materials and are to have them on hand when the volunteer laborers arrive. Many building supply dealers have offered big discounts.

"Indications are that the project will become the largest building bee in the nation's history," Mayor Donald W. Reigle said.

After 23 Years, Conscience Hurts

ENID, Okla. (AP)—A Phoenix, Ariz. man who sneaked in with his father here 23 years ago to see a wrestling match offered to make amends today by paying the price of two tickets.

O. E. Zink, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, received the letter, which said:

"I would like to pay what the tickets would have cost if I can. I was 22 years old then and not a Christian but I am a Christian now, thank God.'

THE TERRIBLE BOMBS

CONSENSUS OF THE experts seems to be that the world may as well take it for granted that Malenkov, although a Russian, was telling the truth when he said that Russia has a hydrogen bomb. The basis for this reasoning doubtless is that if he was lying, his statement probably will be true as soon as Russian spies can steal the secrets in this country.

The general principle of nuclear-fusion weapons have been known for years. The technical difficulties involved are great, but Russia has able scientists and some from Germany as well. Eventually any nation willing and able to pay the staggering cost can produce a hydrogen bomb. And attempts to ferret out spies and traitors in this country have aroused a terrific furore in suspect circles. Is the object to cover up thefts of hydrogen secrets?

It is only a matter of time until nuclear-fusion and nuclear-fusion bombs can be delivered by long-range rockets. And there is no sure defense against such bombs. A determined enemy could no doubt manage to deliver one occasionally even if unaided by a fifth column in this country.

Malenkov knows these facts about A-bombs and H-bombs, and it is this knowledge, in all probability, that has immobilized the Soviet army thus far. If there had been no atomic bomb to serve as a deterrent, World War III might be under way now.

The deterrent effect, however, is two-edged. If World War III comes, the United States cannot hope to escape being hit by atomic bombs and perhaps by hydrogen bombs. For the first time, Americans may face terrible bomb devastation.

There is no indication that the new team in the Kremlin shrinks from the prospect of all-out atomic warfare. Apparently Malenkov and his cohorts want to postpone atomic war until they are better prepared to such hostilities, but there is little hope that they will try to avoid one altogether.

COMMUNIST "JUSTICE"

IN RELEASING WESTERN citizens imprisoned for alleged espionage, the conduct of Russia's satellites follows no perceivable pattern.

Th Hungarians released an American telphone executive, Robert Vogeler, before Stalin's death. Under the Malenkov regime, first an American correspondent, William Oatis, was released from a Czechoslovakian jail. Now two more Westerners, a British and Italian citizen, have been freed from Hungarian prisons.

In most of these cases there was an actual or implied quid pro quo, in the usual form of lifting trade restrictions imposed after the imprisonment of the Westerners. There seems to be no principle either behind the imprisonments or the releases other than an effort, first, to harass and discredit the Western countries, then to appease them.

There is a "cat-and-mouse" atmosphere about the whole technique that throws a glaring light on the Communist concept of justice.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

When foreign aid was sold to the American people, it was to "promote the general welfare, national interest, and foreign policy of the United States." These are the phrases which appeared in the report of the Committee on Foreign Relations presided over by Senator Arthur Vandenberg.

He asked Congress to authorize an expenditure of $5.3 billion for the first of a four year operation. The object was "to help European nations to help themselves to recovery in such a way as to become independent of outside assistance."

This was in 1948, and the foreign aid program is still with us, amounting in this year's budget to $6.8 billion and totaling altogether approximately $60 billion for the short period of five years.

The end is not yet in sight. In fact, the Foreign Operations Administration, headed by Harold Stassen, has been separated from the State Department and seems to have been put on a permanent basis. Maybe foreign aid is permanent, too.

When the American people first agreed to a $5.3 billion European Recovery Program, they never could conceive that this would be such a monstrous growth, in time consuming so large a share of their earnings. But there it is for us to live with.

Senator Vandenberg's report included these statements:

"This kind of assistance, in peacetime, is without precedent in the history of mankind. This assistance is not, and cannot be, a permanent feature of American foreign policy. For Americans, the approval of this act represents a major decision. If Europeans fully understand this decision, they will realize that the United States is making adjustments almost as severe as they are likely to call upon each other to make.

"Above the details of the legislation, the debates, the statistics, and the work sheets, it is the expression of a great ideal of common welfare and peace. . ."

The Europeans disappointed Senator Vandenberg's postulates. They have not assumed that we placed severe strains upon ourselves to aid them. Instead, they say that had we not required them to take great quantities of our goods, we should have had an economic disaster of great dimensions.

Therefore, they did us a favor by taking our money; otherwise, we should have had unemployment of at least 10 million. I have listened to that argument ad nauseum

The assumption that the foreign aid program would bring us friendship and allies has proved to be without foundation. Where are those friends? True, we lost the Korean War, but does that mean that the winner takes all? The conduct of Great Britain and Canada in the United Nations over the seating of Soviet Russia on "our side" gives the impression that it does.

It gives an American the impression that Great Britain is vying with India to be Malenkov's broker in the United Nations.

DIET AND HEALTH

Causes of Tiredness May Be Mental As Well As Physical

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WITH suitable encouragement, or perhaps even money hanging on the outcome, one can endure much greater wear on the nerves and muscles than ordinary use involves. Therefore, motivation is one great factor governing fatigue, usually far more important than mere muscular weariness.

Often the tiredness felt by an individual is out of all proportion to the labor done. It does not disappear when work is stopped or even after adequate rest.

Fatigue Persists

This condition may be due to such chronic diseases as tuberculosis, severe anemia, high blood pressure or hyperthyroidism. However, in many people the fatigue persists even though examination reveals no physical impairment.

Fatigue and tiredness are under the control of the part of the brain where activity of the body is motivated. This part actually seems to tire before the muscles that do the work.

Tests have been made on persons doing an excessive amount of exercise and it has been found that the muscles are still active even when the average person drops from fatigue. Thus, it would seem that in the treatment of many cases of fatigue, the mental situation of the person is at fault.

Under strong suggestion and encouragement, or perhaps even under hypnosis, the person can do physical work far above what he would normally do. Therefore, it can be seen that the mind is an important factor in determining the amount of mental and physical labor that a person can carry through.

People who have mental aversion to doing certain types of work, or to working in general due to emotional difficulties, will experience greater fatigue and tiredness than other persons of similar build. Solving the emotional conflict is sometimes necessary in order to effect a cure, and tonics and vitamins can do little to help until the mental conflict is cleared up.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

J. P.: How can I prevent repeated attacks of kidney stones?

Answer: The most common type of kidney stones are caused, in some cases, by urine that is too alkaline. Sometimes the giving of a drug known as ammonium chloride to acidify the urine will prevent the formation of kidney stones. Recently, it has been shown that the use of a drug known as hyaluronidase given under the directions of a physician at frequent intervals may also prevent the formation of kidney stones.

You're Telling Me!

By William Ritt
Central Press Writer

Dr. William M. Barnes told the National Association of Chiropodists that there is danger man will develop a hoof if he keeps riding in autos and trains and airplanes. Then why doesn't the horse go back to toes?

"We must remember that human beings are still in process of evolution," says Dr. Barnes. As a matter of fact, they voted for a change only last November.

Dr. Barnes says, "The evolutionary law which caused unused members to disappear still holds." Then why is it some people still have heads?

"Even some primitive races can still grasp objects with their toes, but you just try to do it," Dr. Barnes declares. Apparently he's never been around sand burrs.

Dr. Barnes suggests that we compare modern toes with those of anthropoid apes. Well, ours look better but not good.

Actually, a hoof would be handy at times. Just for kicks.

How would this sound in an ad: "Sale, Sports Shoes—United States Steel Corporation."

Bennett Cerf's

Try, Stop Me

A big shot in the Red Army was being shown through a new school in Warsaw. Pointing to a row of gleaming medals on his chest, he demanded of a little boy in the front row, "Do you know what these are?" The Polish kid answered, "Sure. Watches!"

Aware by the fuss being made over him that the man in the seat across the aisle was a celebrity, a lady listened intently until she heard his name: Fritz Kreisler Before the train reached her destination, she told her husband, "I'm going to get his autograph." As they descended to the platform, she announced, "I got it!" "What did you say to him?" asked her husband. "There was nothing to it," she beamed. "I just told him we had gotten 27,000 miles out of our Chrysler and he seemed so delighted he gave me the autograph without another word."

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

By Ray Tucker

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27—Harold E. Stassen's new Foreign Operations Administration will pay an annual bribe of $100 million to persuade friendly European industrialists to switch to efficiency methods, that are common sense practice here simply because they boost production and profits, and increase the standard of living, which President Eisenhower regards as "the best defense against Communism."

It is such an extreme and bizarre example of American "giveaway" philosophy that many British spokesmen and leading newspapers are protesting against acceptance of the money for this purpose, although England's share in the Stassen bonus is only $9 million.

They insist that British firms should modernize their plants simply because it is good business, and that they should not require American financial pressure or help to induce them to do the obvious.

Although this "carrots" amendments to the Mutual Security Act was sponsored by such radical New Dealers as former Senators William Benton of Connecticut and Blair Moody of Michigan (both were defeated for reelection), Stassen apparently approves the program. He did not ask for repeal at the recent session of Congress.

• • •

SPEND MONEY—The Benton-Moody amendments, although they involve a relatively small sum, reveal how both Democrats and Republicans in Washington can always find new ways to dispose of the taxpayers' money in overseas projects. Only Congress has shown a determination to eliminate or reduce these expenditures.

Under the original Marshall Plan, counterpart funds piled up as a result of American dollar contributions could be used for only two purposes: (a) for financial or monetary stabilization (b) for internal improvements that revived or strengthened the recipient nation's economy.

England used the money to reduce its public debt and support the pound. France, Italy and other European countries spent it to rebuild bombed-out factories, railroads, highways, power project, etc.

• • •

PRODUCTION — When Russia began to act up, the law was broadened so that counterpart balances could be diverted to military expenditures.

The Benton-Moody expansion of the field of spending escaped general notice because it was adopted in June, 1952, on the eve of the exciting Eisenhower-Stevenson conventions at Chicago. The expiring Congress did not have time to appropriate the necessary money, and it became available to Stassen only recently. It is his "come and get it" invitation that provokes the current British protests.

The Benton - Moody amendments stipulate that the $100 million must be used to "promote productivity and stimulate production." Some of the economic objectives are so kindergartenish, so elementary, that they are incomprehensible, almost laughable, to American businessmen.

• • •

MUST BE SMART—Foreign industrialists, for instance, are required to spend this money to discover (a) whether a monopolistic or competitive system produces the best results (b) whether their production and distribution system should be shifted from a handicraft to an assembly-line basis (c) whether a restrictive or incentive program would increase production and improve labor-management relations (d) whether there should be more research and development of new and cheaper products.

In short, millions of American dollars will be spent to convince European producers that they ought to get smart.

• • •

WASTEFUL — To add irony to this $100 million giveaway, top American industrial experts, who studied Europe's production plant at Stassen's request, have warned foreign manufacturers that they cannot survive against American, German and Russian competition unless they modernize their methods. They do not need a $100-million bribe by American taxpayers to teach them these basic economic truths.

If there was ever a needless and wasteful expenditure, this is it!

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN

"MRS. MARTIN'S past 70," Karen explained after her aunt went upstairs. "She's been ill a long time. Ellie's the daughter; there's no one else. They have a very small income, and Ellie can't work; she has to be home. Aunt Mame's so good—the things she does for people. How's your brother, Dave; did he stay?"

"No, he left Sunday morning after inspection."

He rose. "Coming out this weekend, Karen?" he asked.

"I think Sunday, but don't let me get in your hair. Frank gave me a going-over today at lunch, right in the drug store with Millie Carter at the soda fountain, all ears. Maybe it was because I'd jumped him because of Winnie. Attack's a good defense. Anyway, he said you must be sick of having me around, the way I came and went, he said, you'd think I owned the place."

On Sunday when she drove in he went out to meet her, to help her carry her things.

"Back to the point?"

"I guess so. I don't seem to get it even halfway right, Dave."

"Mind if I sit here?"

"No—"

He sat, his back against a tree, his knees drawn up, his arms clasped around them, and watched her. They talked a while and then were silent. She sat on the camp chair, or pushed it away and stood, her hands behind her, scowling, looking younger than she was, completely absorbed. Or crying: "It's no good, no use, I can see it but I can't put it down on the canvas!" And then, more to herself than to him, "All right, I'll try again."

Everything about her was memorable. He sat memorizing her line by line, feeling a light, lyrical happiness, watching the sunlight drench her, the wind's fingers move in her hair, feeling as if it were part of himself, her concentration, as if he, too, made the sudden gesture of her hand, or spoke with her very voice. "I'm hopeless, Dave, you'd think my life depended on it—but honestly, it makes me so mad. Just when I believe I have it, I look again, and it's different!"

The young, too-thin body, the speaking face, continually altering, and all the qualities he sensed, all the values: generosity, warmth, eager bestowal and acceptance.

What would she say, how answer, if he spoke now? How would her face change? It would be one that he had never seen before, one she herself might not recognize.

"Karen—?"

"Yes?"

Think what you are risking, his mind warned him. But his heart knew better. Something spoke, and he listened. It was not his mind, nor yet his heart, the voice speaking; the still small voice. The voice without words, without sound.

Dave got to his feet. He said: "See you later. There's a letter I must write."

She said absently, "I'll take it into town for you, Dave."

He went back to camp, and thought he stumbled, but he did not. He went into the bedroom and lay down on the bunk.

He thought: You're afraid, that's it. Afraid to go out there and snatch her up and hold her fast and tell her that you love her—afraid that, in your vanity, you have erred, afraid to feel her draw away and look at you with terrified eyes or, what's worse, with pity.

But he wasn't afraid. She would draw away, yes, in the first astonishment, but only for a second, only until awareness of herself, as well as of him, closed in about her like a sea; a sea in which she could drown, in which they could both drown.

After a long time he spoke aloud. He said, "All right . . . all right."

When Karen knocked, he opened the door. He said, "I've made some coffee—how about it?"

This once, the last time, really. Sit there, let me fill your cup. The golden light slants in, the floor's a pool of light. I'll sit here and look at you. We'll talk.

"Where's the letter, Dave? Don't let me forget it."

"I decided not to write it," he said. "I'll cable instead." He smiled at her. "I've been thinking for some time that I should go home. George put it to me strongly. Which is a mild word. It seems he's tired of waiting for me to emerge from my personal fog and function normally again. Then, too, Emily's due home soon. It will be quicker to cable her."

That's Karen across from you at the table. Look at her. Make yourself look, as if your life depended on it (and in a way it does). What do you see?

She said, distressed: "I'm sorry, Dave. We'll miss you."

So, you see that she's honestly sorry; you see a surface scratch, which could have been a deep wound. It isn't. Because she doesn't know.

"I'll miss you, too," he said.

By day, by night: when I'm with other people, sitting with them, talking, laughing; when I'm in my office, with a dozen things to do; at home—if I have a home, whatever I do, wherever I go. I know a lot about missing. But this time I could do something about it; write a letter, pick up a telephone, get into a car. But I won't.

"You'll come back, won't you, Dave?" she asked.

"I certainly shall, I don't buy camps every day and throw them away. I'll come often. Meantime, I'll leave a key with Hank—Cas has always had one, you know—and another with you. You and your aunt are to come out whenever you want—to paint, to fish, to picnic, to bring your friends—and Frank."

He thought, But I won't dance at your wedding.

Karen asked, "You haven't said anything about going away, till now; it seems, well, sudden.

"Not really. I've known I should for a long time, but I didn't want to. Perhaps George had something to do with making up my mind for me. He laid it on the line," he told her, smiling.

And thought, I've done you a service, Frank. You'll still be around. The next time you take her in your arms—for you have, before, haven't you?—there'll be a little difference perhaps. She won't know why, perhaps she won't even ask herself why. If you're smart you won't inquire either.

Now Karen said soberly, "I'd like to ask you something."

"Go ahead." His heart held its breath.

"I don't quite know how. Please don't think me impertinent."

"Impertinent! What a crazy word to use!"

"I still don't know how to say it. It's this: has it helped you here, Dave?"

Her face was waiting and anxious, and his was momentarily stunned.

He said: "I've asked myself that and answered, 'No.' But I was wrong. Yes, it has helped me, in more ways than I can count, in some ways I don't know or understand; and certainly in ways I least anticipated."

Her face flashed into light. She said: "I'm so glad, all your friends will be glad—we've hoped—" She broke off, coloring.

They'd discussed him, his little circle. The Rogers and Hank; Karen and Hank perhaps, meeting casually; Karen and her aunt; Hank and his wife. Round and round it goes. Natural enough. As Cas would say, No offense meant, none taken.

He said: "I'll try to tell you what it's been like. When I came here I'd planned to take myself apart, to re-examine everything that had happened to me, all I've ever been, and what I'd become. I couldn't. I got bogged down, seeing results, trying to trace them back to causes. I got lost in relationships and motives—my own, mainly. I guess no man's equipped to be his own psychiatrist. He's licked before he begins. So I gave up. Then maybe I expected a miracle. Like going to bed mortally ill and waking healed. But it wasn't that way. I didn't know until this minute how it was. I've kept telling myself, nothing has changed—" He broke off, thinking, Which isn't, of course, quite true—"but little by little everything was—"

She was trying to understand; she did not wholly succeed. But she said, "Like growing up, perhaps? You don't pay any attention to that, yet it's happening every minute—perhaps you never really know it, not when you're 50 or 70."

He said: "That's it. Like growing up. I think you knew how to say it, after all."

She shook her head and smiled. "I must go," she told him. "Dave, you didn't say when you're leaving."

"Very soon. I have to make some arrangements first, that's all."

"You'll stop to say good-by to us?"

"Of course."

He thought, I'll walk into the silver shop, there'll be a lot of people around, I hope. We'll shake hands.

"And you'll be back some day?"

"I'll be back often. But, remember, you must use the camp when you feel like it—you, your aunt, and your friends."

"We'd love it," she said. "I don't know how to thank you."

"Don't keep saying you don't know how!"

She laughed, and rose. "I must go," she told him, "but not until I've washed up."

"My turn today. The second maid," he said.

He went with her to the car, and asked, "Running all right again?"

"Like a breeze—" She put out her hand and he touched it briefly.

"See you," he said, "soon."

FOLKS OF FAME—GUESS THE NAME

1—He was born at LaHaye, France, on March 31, 1596. His mother died of tuberculosis a few days after his birth, and physicians said he would not live long. He never played with other children, and at eight entered a Jesuit school, where his teachers continued to encourage quiet of body and exercise for his mind. They encouraged him to stay in bed late during the mornings while his mates were at classes. He grew strong and well and when he was 21 he enlisted in the Netherlands army, but did little actual fighting. In 1619, he went back to meditation after he "was visited by a dream that came from above. It was the Spirit of Truth descending to take possession of me." Some of his important works are Rules for the Direction of the Mind, The Search for Truth, Discourse on the Method of Rightly Conducting the Reason, Meditations on the First Philosophy, Principles of Philosophy, The World, Treatise on Man, Dioptric, Geometry. Queen Christina of Sweden wished him to teach her philosophy, and, after withstanding her urging for a time he went to Sweden in 1649. The queen insisted that he arise at dawn and wait upon her, but the early rising and Swedish climate were too much for him, and he died on Feb. 11, 1650, after suffering from pneumonia. Who was he?

County Fair Board Asked Pay Taxes

HAMILTON (AP) — Butler County has asked the county fair board to give up $7,204.13 in real estate taxes because part of the fairgrounds are used for racing.

Auditor R. H. Smith said yesterday a recent ruling by the attorney general makes fairgrounds, otherwise exempt, liable for taxes if the premises are used for a commercial enterprise. Ohio Sports Enterprises leases the grounds 19 days for a track meet.

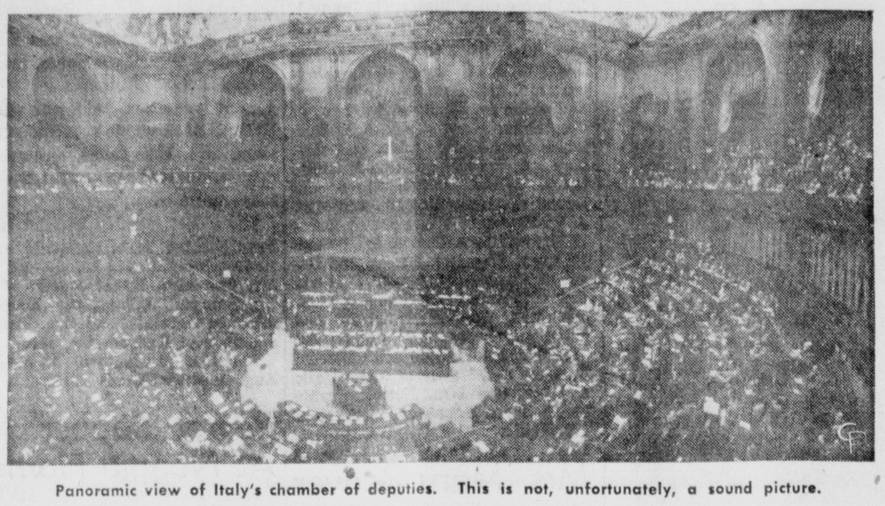
Insults, Flying Fists Commonplace At Italian Legislature's Sessions



Panoramic view of Italy's chamber of deputies. This is not, unfortunately, a sound picture.

Central Press Correspondent

ROME, Italy—Now that the newly-elected legislators have taken their seats, Italy's chamber of deputies and senate are once again open for business. Here in two palaces in the heart of Rome are daily displayed the virtues and faults of Italian democracy at work.

Possibly no law-making bodies in the world functions in the same belligerent and boisterous manner. Commonly heard phrases in the past included "Liar," "Rascal," "Scoundrel," "Fascist Criminal" and "Kremlin Stooge."

Right from its first days, the assembly has been the scene of uproarious disputes. Fist fights broke out on all sides. Imprecations and inkwells were hurled with equal abandon. One Roman newspaper suggested that the assembly would soon become a ring providing exhibitions not seen since Nero's days.

The first assembly spent its closing day in a knockdown brawl. The Monarchists swashbuckled from their benches and were met half-way in the hemicycle of the chamber by deputies from the left.

* * *

A FEW practice swings and then the Leftists cried, "Viva la Republica!" The Monarchists yelled back, "Viva la Monarchia!" and the Center shouted, "Viva l'Italia!", always a safe bet. All of them eventually got in the melee and the hall had to be cleared.

However, after the 1948 elections, paunches continued being punched and faces slapped during hot-tempered debates. Once when about 50 vocal outbursts occurred during a speech, the speaker of the chamber plaintively asked if there was any point in continuing the meeting. "I can understand interruptions every sentence, but at every word—that is too much!"

As political lines strengthened in post-war Italy, the Communists organized in assault squads. Certain groups were to raise parliamentary objectives, others dream up amendments, still others work in committee to delay.

The climax came with Communist obstruction of the government's controversial election reform bill this year.

* * *

SHRIEKING insults, Left-Wing deputies physically blocked the way to the box where colored balls are cast as ballots. When pro-government deputies forced their way through to vote, one of the Communists leaped to the voting table and hurled the ballot box, votes and all, in the air.

A Conservative leaped up and down in front of the speaker of the chamber, beating his desk with both palms. Another, trying to calm a colleague hooked his finger into the collar of that worthy's shirt, and dragged him forcibly to his seat. The captive turned purple for a moment, and then retreated to the rear of the hall, where he continued his cries.

This boisterous behaviour has spread a few blocks away to the senate. Meetings are held in the smaller Sixteenth Century Madama palace. Members had previously been appointed by the king and were usually markedly sedate.

However, this year the electoral bill vote was announced while senators slugged each other with broken chairs. The Left-Wing formed a wedge to try and pull the presiding officer out of his seat.

* * *

A COMMUNIST woman legislator walked up to a Christian Democrat, shouted, "You cheated us!" and slapped his face. The white-bearded aristocrat bowed slightly and said, "Thank God you are a woman and I am a gentleman!" and stalked away.

The president of the senate was hit on the head with a piece of wood thrown by a Communist. He then resigned.

A result was the first chamber and senate remodeling in 30 years. Inkwells were fastened to desks and desks to the floors.

However, it looks as if the forthcoming sessions will be at least as robust. Among the newcomers is a Communist who was in prison awaiting trial for the theft of Mussolini's treasure.

Another, accused of several killings, has returned from three years' refuge in Czechoslovakia to take his seat. Two others are neo-Fascist "heroes" of a bomb-throwing incident in Trieste.

Weekly Food Review

By Associated Press

Here's the meat situation this week, as summed up by an official of one of the country's large food chains:

"Lamb is a little lower, beef has started up again, and pork is still sky-high."

This sad state of affairs doesn't rule out weekend specials, of course. And while items like rib roasts have edged up a couple of cents in some stores, fair-sized reductions will be posted in others. Pork chops also show a mixed picture: They're up as much as 10 cents a pound in some sections of the country and down about four cents in others.

Leg of lamb prices are unchanged from a week ago to down around four cents a pound.

A number of food merchants have chosen smoked picnic hams and roasting and frying chickens as weekend specials, with price cuts of several cents a pound.

One meat specialist observed beef prices ordinarily hold up pretty well until late September or early October, when a decline usually occurs, at least in the "good" grade. Choice grade beef may remain high, he added.

Egg prices continued to increase in many parts of the country, with boosts of one to two cents a dozen. Butter prices generally were left unchanged.

Most grocers gave prominent display to California seedless grapes and pronounced them an excellent buy. Also featured in the fruit department were peaches. Cantaloupes and honeydews were other specials, although it was conceeded that they were not in the class with grapes and peaches.

There were plenty of good buys in vegetables. Produce men named green beens, eggplant, onions, potatoes and pappers as good values. Cabbage, one market man said, "is really a bargain." Tomatoes were described as "an extra-good buy."

Lettuce, high in price in recent weeks, is getting into a more reasonable range, produce men added.

PARIS (AP) — A grand jury has temporarily freed five French Communist leaders arrested 10 months ago on charges of plotting against the security of the state. The jury says their continued stay in jail is not essential to the investigation of their cases, which have not yet come to trial.

The men are Alain le Leap, secretary general of the Communist-led General Confederation of Labor l'Humanite; Lucien Molino, a seccolone and Paul Laurent, directors (CGT); Andre Stil, chief editor of the Paris Communist newspaper l'Humanite; Lucien Molino, a secretary of the CGT; and Guy Ducolone and Paul Laurent, directors of the Union of Communist Youth.

WASHINGTON (AP) — T. Coleman Andrews, boss of the income tax collectors, is running into criticism as he tries to practice two of President Eisenhower's precepts: more economy and less government centered in Washington.

Andrews, picked by Eisenhower as commissioner of internal revenue, has been cutting out jobs by the hundreds, pulling loose ends of the revenue service together and letting field offices make decisions previously made here.

About 56,000 people work for the revenue service around the country, 5,000 of them in the main Washington office, which has been hardest hit by layoffs: 500 jobs abolished so far here, another 500 to be abolished, more to go elsewhere.

Some members of Congress complain Andrews is not keeping them sufficiently informed on what he is doing and that in his zeal for economy and decentralization he may be overdoing it.

One member of the House, Dewitt S. Hyde, Maryland Republican raised the question of uniformity in tax decisions by saying the federal tax system could be wrecked if there is not sufficient coordination between the field offices and a central point like the main office here. As an example of what was meant:

Suppose a New Yorker and a California had identical tax disputes with the government and each went to his local office for a final ruling. If there was a difference—that is, unless the main office here could make sure the rulings were the same—one of the two men would lose or gain more than the other.

Arguments on Andrews' side go like this: People outside Washington ought to be able to get answers close to home without the delay—and the expense, if they had to hire Washington tax layers—involved in coming here for a final decision which might take as long as two years.

In his decentralization program Andrews is letting local offices make decisions which used to come here for final review and approval. In some cases the main Washington office will still give the final answer.

O. Gordon Delk, Andrews' chief deputy, declined any explanation of what is being done. He said the top revenue people wanted to say nothing publicly until they could sit down, perhaps in mid-September, with their congressional critics and give them an explanation.

Actually, Andrews is intensifying and broadening a decentralization begun in the last days of the Truman administration after tax bureau investigations showed a need for some kind of revenue service reorganization.

Before that, almost all of the service's six main divisions had separate field offices and operated pretty much independently of one another, thus making a lot of duplication. For example:

The Collections Division (which audited returns on income under $8,500)—64 district collectors' offices, plus 900 suboffices; the Income Tax Division (whose revenue agents audited returns on income over $8,500)—39 district offices, with suboffices; Alcohol Tax Division—15 district offices, plus suboffices.

Each division was under a deputy commissioner in Washington, and the heads of the various district offices, operating independently, reported to the commissioner in charge of their respective division.

Under the Truman reorganization, the country was divided into 17 districts, each under a district commissioner. Each was in charge of all revenue activities in his district, including those handled by the 64 collectors whose title was changed to directors. This helped coordinate and decentralize (from Washington) the work of the revenue service.

Andrews has reduced the 17 districts to 9. They are called regions now, not districts, each under a regional commissioner who is boss of the Internal Revenue Serive work in his region.

As a further attempt at eliminating duplication, each of the 64 district collection directors has taken over the work formerly done by district heads of other divisions, such as the revenue agents and special agents who worked on fraud cases.

Not-too-Welcome Blasts Are Disinfecting Mexico

Women and children get a generous disinfectant dusting.

By EMIL ZUBRYN
Central Press Correspondent

MEXICO CITY—For long years there had been talk of adequate hygiene and sanitation in Mexico. But that was all it remained until the present administration began the task of insuring health and cleanliness to the citizens of the lower class districts.

Mobile brigades swoop down on vecindads—the poorest type of tenement housing, where families of up to a dozen live in one room, disinfect them and their quarters, and surrounding areas. This is no hit-or-miss campaign, for the brigades come back periodically, even if they are none too welcome.

One day Mexico will have more adequate housing for its poor. For the moment it is impossible to get rid of slum areas over night. But the government has decided that it will at least make them as hygienically liveable as possible, and thus control spread of contagious illness.

Women and children for the most part co-operate with the health brigades, but the men try all sorts of tricks to avoid the blasts of disinfectant powder. But they, too, are rounded up and told it is their patriotic duty to submit. And since a Mexican considers himself a true patriot, he resignedly submits to a cloud of disinfectant powder on an average of twice a month.

A modern flame thrower is used to burn refuse at a dump.

Merriman Urges Pedestrians To Observe Signs

"'Signs of Life' are for pedestrians as well as motorists."

This point was emphasized today by Police Chief Elmer Merriman in an effort to reduce the pedestrian death toll in Ohio.

"Many people seem to think that 'Signs of Life'—traffic signs, signals and pavement markings—are placed there for the use of drivers only," Merriman said.

"Well nothing could be more false, because they are there to guide and protect the pedestrians as well as the motorists."

Pedestrian fatalities in Ohio last year totaled 467—more than one-fourth of the 2,013 traffic deaths in the state. In other words, one out of every four persons killed in motor vehicle accidents in Ohio in 1952 was a pedestrian.

VIOLATIONS contributing most frequently to these fatalities were: crossing at intersections against the signal. . .crossing between intersections and crossing intersections diagonally.

"Certainly many deaths could be avoided," Merriman said, "if pedestrians crossed streets at the proper places and always obeyed the 'Signs of Life' where they are provided."

The August slogan "Signs of Life—Know Them, Obey Them!" is an important message for everyone, he added. It applies, whether we are walking or driving, and the person who follows it may be saving his own life.

Forest Blaze Threatens Hotel

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP)—The luxurious Arrowhead Springs Hotel in the San Bernardino Mountains was ringed by forest and brush fire yesterday, but appeared out of danger today.

The fire burned to within 50 feet of the six million dollar resort hotel but did no damage except for a scorched awning by the swimming pool.

Nearly 200 guests aided firefighters in protecting the hotel before winds swept the fire eastward over an estimated 3,000 acres.

Chicken Feather Brooms Get OK

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The latest thing in brooms may be chicken feathers.

A University of Southern California research chemist, Dr. Alan Woofin, has announced after a year's study that chicken feathers contain keratin, a chemical protein which can be made into fibers capable of sweeping.

New Fibers Bring Trouble To Laundries

Parley Scheduled By Manufacturers, Dry Cleaners On Gripes

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Miracle fibers are adding to the squawks the laundries and dry cleaners get.

Makers of test tube fibers, people who blend them into apparel and retailers who sell them to you have joined the sturdy little band of folk who complain about what the laundry sometimes does to their clothes.

All hands are going to get together here next week to see what can be done about it.

To some laundrymen these new mystery fabrics are the last straw. They already have to deal with the terrible tempered citizen whose collar comes back starched, who misses strategic buttons, who finds a tear that shows only after the shirt is put on, or shrinkage that binds or maybe just can't find the shirt in the returned bundle at all. The new fibers are another hazard.

The American Institute of Laundering of Joliet, Ill., and the National Institute of Dry Cleaners of Silver Springs, Md., are trying to get manufacturers to label each garment with the exact percentage of each fiber it contains. They want the label stamped or sewed in—not just tied on, to be discarded by the customer.

Some manufacturers, however, complain that some laundries pay little attention to such labels anyway, and that garments containing the man-made fibers often return to the customer in much less than a miracle condition. If this goes on, they fear synthetic fibers will get a permanently bad name with the public.

The National Association of Shirt, Pajama and Sportwear Manufacturers has called a meeting Sept. 1 of laundry and dry cleaners representatives and of manufacturers and retailers to air complaints and seek solutions.

Laundry firms say that various fiber types need different cleaning treatment — and they've got to know what's in the fabric before they can do a good job. This year has seen a big spurt in blending man - made and natural fibers, which leaves many laundrymen, and most of their customers in a state of utter confusion.

The laundries already have been taking a beating from the booming sales of home washers, and from self-service units sprouting like mushrooms in apartment house basements and empty stores down the block.

TV commercials showing glamorous blondes idling in front of automatic washers are hard on the laundry business.

The sport shirt has taken its toll. It's a lot easier for a wife to iron a sport shirt.

Contour sheets were a problem until laundries developed machinery to iron the added thickness at the fold and get all the moisture out.

Despite these troubles, the laundries have shown a growing gross revenue.

Although bacteria cause many diseases, the vast majority of bacteria perform functions either useful or harmless to man.

FAMED FORT WILLIAM HENRY TO RISE AGAIN ON SHORE OF LONG HISTORIC LAKE GEORGE

By FRED HIFT
Central Press Correspondent

LAKE GEORGE, N. Y.—Memories of one of the most frightful massacres in American Indian history are being revived here with the reconstruction of Fort William Henry, once a powerful British bastion at the foot of Lake George, captured and razed by the French in 1757.

To anyone who still remembers the thrill and romance of James Fenimore Cooper's Last of the Mohicans, the name Fort William Henry should carry a familiar ring since much of the book's action revolves around the fierce fighting that took place here.

The colorful history of the fort, coupled with the painstaking effort that is being made to rebuild it exactly as it once stood—a formidable bulwark against any French thrust down the Hudson to Albany and New York—is making the reconstruction a project of great interest.

Quite apart from that, however, tourists passing through this lovely Adirondacks region will be given the unique opportunity of being able to stop by and actually watch the excavation and construction work going on.

* * *

ALREADY a great many relics of life at Fort William Henry have been unearthed and are on view, and progress is being made in solving one of the great mysteries of the French-Indian wars: How many people actually died that horrible day in 1757 when a band of howling Indians fell on a group of captured British soldiers and settlers and, sweeping aside the small detachment of French guards, murdered every one of them in a drunken rage?

Estimates of the death toll today range anywhere from 500 to 2,000. Certainly it included a good many women and children. The French, who had stormed the fort the day before under the command of the Marquis de Montcalm, had guaranteed these people safe conduct to nearby Fort Edward. They hadn't reckoned with the ferocity of their Huron allies.

Oddly enough, the dead revenged themselves on their murderers. At the time when Fort William Henry was under attack, its defenders were weakened from an epidemic of small-pox which had taken a good many lives. After the capture, and disappointed at the generosity of the French, the Indians dug up freshly-dug graves and scalped the bodies in them.

They took those scalps with them back to Canada. A few months later, entire Indian encampments were decimated by the dread disease.

Today, a part of that same graveyard at the fort has been excavated and visitors can watch archeologist Stanley Gifford carefully exhuming the skeletons that lie there just as the Indians carelessly threw them back into their graves.

* * *

IN UNEARTHING these remains, Gifford, who also worked on the reconstruction of Fort Ticonderoga at the opposite end of the lake, found various layers of varicolored earth. One consisted of black sand. It took some research into the fort's records to establish the reason for its being there.

After the Indian outrage, Montcalm collected all the bodies, tore down the fort and built a huge bonfire. A year later, when the British General Abercrombie launched a huge amphibious assault from the same spot against French-held Ticonderoga, he remembered what had happened at Fort William Henry. As a sanitary precaution, he ordered the black sand spread over the entire area.

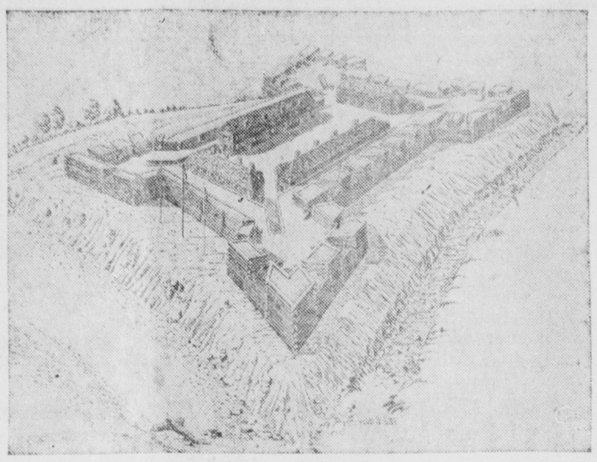
Reconstruction of the fort is tailored to exact specifications left by the British army engineers who built it. Already one of the bastions overlooking the lake is completed and the whole outline of the fortification is emerging.

* * *

EVERYTHING, down to the barracks and the bomb-proof shelters underneath them, will be rebuilt and refurnished. The small museum, which now holds such memorabili of British camp life as clay pipes, rum bottles, cannon balls, old buttons, a 1738 British penny, a skull or two, etc., will be vastly enlarged.

While, with such exact plans in existence, he has no trouble restoring the fort, getting the same cannons back on the walls is a problem for Gifford. The fact is, he intends to fish them out of the lake. That's where the British dumped them unceremoniously when their first attack on Ticonderoga failed.

How does Gifford know where the cannons are lying? He gives his answer with a wry smile. "I hang around the taverns for a while and talk to the fishermen. They and the fish are the only ones who know the spots where my 'treasures' are hidden."



Plan of Fort William Henry as it looked back in the French-and-Indian Wars and as it will look again after reconstruction.

Newspaper Law Being Proposed

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—A Brazilian lawmaker has proposed a plan for the "forced reading" of newspapers. The scheme, proposed by Deputy Joao Cabanas, and aimed at increasing the number of newspaper readers, would work like this:

Without previous authorization, publishers could start delivering their paper to the home of a prospective subscriber. If the subscriber failed to halt the delivery within two weeks, the publisher could consider him a full-fledged subscriber.

The bill also provides that the publisher could collect for the paper through legal means without paying court fees.

Railroad Cars Can Be Rented

LONDON (AP)—Renting a private railroad car in Britain is not the expensive luxury that it is in the United States. British railways rent passenger cars as "camping coaches" during Summer months to six or eight persons in each car for rentals as low as $15 to $30 per week per person.

Cars are placed on railroad sidings in vacation spots in England, Scotland and Wales. Included in the cars other than bed rooms are dining room, living room and kitchen.

Communists Setting Sights Against Wild, Wooly Texas

BERLIN (AP) — The Communist hate parade is about to get a new No. 1 refrain—Texas.

It's rapidly overtaking the old Red whipping boy—"gangster Chicago."

Kids in Communist-ruled East Germany are persecuted and even ostracized if they wear Texas shirts and cowboy hats. Anything plaid and loud, by the way, is a Texas shirt.

Any rowdyism by American occupation troops is called "typical Texas stuff."

American Western movies are condemned as "Texas wild west barbarism."

"Civilized World Revolts Against Wild West Films," headlines the Communist-edited National Zeitung. "Europe Boycotts Hollywood's Shameful Product."

The article went on to say that many innocent kids the world over had been misled down the path of crime through "Texas films." It said not a word about how right and justice always triumph and how true love invariably wins the day in Western movies.

The real tipoff on this Communist gripe is that they don't dare show a Hollywood Western for the East German public. If they did, they'd probably have a stampede like the rush for free American food parcels in Berlin.

One of the most ridiculous—yet tragic—things is the Communist campaign against the "Texas shirt"—popularized by Americans and exported here through U. S. occupation civilians. German clothing manufacturers have copied the shirts, along with blue jeans, and any German kid loves them as much as American teenagers.

The "Texas shirt" is a particular target of Die Junge Welt (Young World), newspaper of the Communist Free German Youth (FDJ). This paper wants young Germans to be "just like our Soviet brothers—good activists, good collectivists, good tractorists."

It roundly condemns the "painted cowboy shirt" as the "uniform of terrorists and Fascist provocateurs."

After the June 17 revolt and strikes, police arrested thousands of East German anti-Communists. Some were executed and others sentenced to long jail terms. Among the victims were youths who fought Russian tanks with sticks and stones.

Die Junge Welt helped along this witchhunt by claiming that a series of confessions had been wrung from youngsters who like the American styles. It charged that they were "seduced on the path of Fascist crime by running around in these monkey shirts."

Typical was the confession attributed to Werner Rode of Erfurt, in Thuringia. According to Junge Welt, he stated: "I never gave any due consideration to what the government of our (East) German Democratic Republic has done for youth until now. In my shameless disregard for these things, I—a worker's child—wore Texas shirts and those boogie-woogie ties. In this clothing, which offends the feelings of sane people, I went into the streets of Erfurt. I defied the ridicule of the population and I was finally arrested by our security organs.

"And justly so, for there was adequate suspicion that I and my sort were enemies of the people. Today I know that by wearing these ridiculous shirts and ties we served the imperialists. Doesn't our industry manufacture beautiful shirts in many colors and patterns that can be bought at reasonable prices?

"In the future it will be my task to speak to all those who believe they must dress in the American style and show them, through my own example, that they must uphold our national dignity."

Boeing Tells Of Its RB-47, World's Fastest Jet Bomber

The fastest known operational bomber in the world, the Boeing B-47 Stratojet, of the type in operation at Lockbourne Air Force Base, is a six-engine swept-wing airplane being built in quantity for the U. S. Air Force by Boeing Airplane Company at Wichita, Kans.

The Boeing-designed B-47 also is being produced by Douglas Aircraft Co., Inc., at Tulsa, Okla., and by Lockheed Aircraft Corp. at Marietta, Ga. Dimensionally, the airplane is generally similar to the Boeing B-29 and B-50 Superfortresses.

Most details of the airplane's performance are classified by the Air Force, which describes it merely as a "medium" bomber "in the 600-mile-an-hour class." Since the first flight of the original XB-47 on Dec. 17, 1947, a number of outstanding achievements have been recorded by the Boeing speedster.

Most recent was the record transatlantic crossing July 28 by a B-47 of the 305th Bomb Wing, which flew from Limestone Air Force Base, Me., to Fairford Royal Air Force Base in England in four hours and 45 minutes, covering the 2,933 miles at an average speed of 617.4 mph.

• • •

THE ORIGINAL XB-47 Stratojet also still holds the transcontinental speed record, set Feb. 8, 1949, when it flew from Larson AFB in central Washington state to Andrews AFB, Md., in three hours and 46 minutes. Average speed for the 2,289 miles was 607.8 mph.

Speed marks not being enough, world distance and endurance records are also held by the B-47: One of the swept-wing Stratojets covered more than 12,000 miles in a 24-hour non-stop flight on March 23-24, 1952. The world's first jet flight over the North Pole was made by a B-47 on Sept. 20, 1951.

The first mass transatlantic flight of B-47's to England was made June 3-4-5 this year when 45 Stratojets of the 306th Bomber Wing made the flight, with six of them breaking the previous record for the run.

The XB-47 which made the transcontinental dash six years ago was equipped with six General Electric J-35 engines of 4,000 pounds of thrust each. Production model Stratojets utilize six G-E J-47 engines, essentially the same size and weight of the J-35 but providing 5,800 pounds of thrust each.

These engines give the B-47 a total of 34,800 pounds of thrust, compared with 24,000 pounds supplied by the original engines on the XB-47. Provision also is made for 18 rocket units which can supply an added 20,000 pounds of thrust for takeoff.

The first of the production Stratojets—designated B-47A—was rolled from the Boeing-Wichita factory on March 1, 1950. The current production model of the Stratojet—the B-47E—is being produced at Wichita at a rate of more than one each working day. More than 400 Stratojets have been built thus far.

• • •

TWO HIGH-SPEED, high altitude reconnaissance versions also are being delivered to the Air Force. One of them, being built from the ground up as a day-or-night long-range photo ship, is designated RB-47E. The other, the RB-47B, is a specially converted standard Stratojet which can be used either as a photo-recon airplane or in its usual role as the Air Force's front-line, high-altitude medium bomber.

There are more than 1,000 vacuum tubes in the Boeing B-47, ranging in size from the diameter of a lead pencil and 1.25 inches long to a diameter of 2.25 inches and 9.5 inches long. They range in cost from 56 cents to $681 each.

More than 27 miles of Boeing-assembled electrical wiring is installed in each B-47.

There is sufficient air conditioning in each B-47 to supply five five-room houses and enough heating capacity for the Stratojet's cabin heating and de-icing system to heat 22 five-room homes.

The B-47 is about twice as fast as the B-17 Flying Fortress, weight is about three times as much and yet the B-47 has a wing span only 13 feet more than the B-17.

The jet fuel alone in the B-47 weighs more than a World War II B-17 fully loaded for combat. It takes 300 gallons of jet fuel just to taxi the B-47 from warm-up ramps to the end of the runway for take-off, a distance of about 1.5 miles on the average.

Boeing purchases 15,000 materiel airframe parts, 55,000 non-airframe parts, 8,000 outside production items—a total of 78,000 items, all of which must come into the plant at times consistent with flow times for mating of parts fabricated either at Boeing or by others. Over 8,000 items are subcontracted to 432 companies in 32 states.

• • •

THE STRATOJET must meet temperature changes of more than 120 degrees above zero to 65 degrees below zero.

The B-29, at the end of World War II, cost $600,000 each. The B-47 at present costs approximately $2 million, of which about 40 per cent represents the cost of government-furnished equipment installed in the airplane.

B-29 bombsights cost $8,000. B-47 bombsights cost $250,000.

Wing and tail surfaces of the B-47 have a sweepback of 35 degrees. The wing deflects 16 inches downward on the ground and 45 inches upward in flight for a total of 61 inches at 185,000 pounds gross weight condition. In static tests, wing tips were deflected through a 20-foot arc without damage.

Wing skin on the B-47 tapers from 5/8 inch at thickest point (where wing joins body) to 3-16 inch at wing tip. Heaviest wing skin on B-29 was 3-16 inch.

There are 415 different aluminum alloy forgings in each B-47.

Service ceiling for the huge plane is more than 40,000 feet, its range is 3,000 miles and its maximum takeoff weight is 185,000 pounds.

The RB-47 can carry a bomb load of 20,000 pounds and is armed by two .50 caliber machine guns in a tail turret. Crew for the ship consists of a pilot, co-pilot and a navigator.

Fisherman's Cast Saves Swimmer

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—An exhausted swimmer who had just saved his two daughters from drowning was himself saved yesterday by a fisherman who made a perfect cast from the beach.

Chester Fisher, 29, of Sarasota grabbed the line, wrapped it around his wrist just before losing consciousness, and the fisherman reeled him in to safety.

The fisherman got into his car and drove away before Fisher and others of his family could ask his name.

Fisher became exhausted as he and his wife saved two of their daughters, Joan, 8, and Christine, 7, after they were swept into deep water by the tide.

Dog Stands Guard Over Mistress

JERSEYVILLE, Ill. (AP)—A grieving dog stood guard over his mistress' body. A radio played in the background.

That's the way neighbors, worried because she hadn't answered her telephone in four days, found the body of Mrs. Mildred J. Chappell, a 55-year-old widow, in her farm home near here.

An autopsy showed Mrs. Chappell had died of a heart ailment.

Indications were that the dog, a spaniel who growled before allowing Mrs. Chappell's friends to enter the house, had not eaten since he began the vigil, possibly four days before.

Death Ends Coma

ROCK HILL, S. C. (AP)—Mrs. Rosa McFadden, 74, in a coma for two years after an automobile accident, died here yesterday. She never regained consciousness.

Ohio Farmers Use More Than Million Tons Of Fertilizer

Ohio farmers used more than a million tons of fertilizer last year to boost crop yields per acre, cut production costs and increase net profits.

The total plant food used on Ohio farms in 1952 was 10 per cent more than in 1951 and carried 15 per cent more plant nutrients.

The United States as a whole used 22.4 million tons of fertilizer last year. This was six per cent more in tonnage and 10 per cent more in plant nutrients than in 1951.

Farmers are buying higher analysis fertilizers. They are getting more crop feeding power per ton. In the last five years, the percentage of primary plant food content in an average ton of fertilizer has increased from 19.6 per cent to 24.8 per cent.

• • •

"THE STEADY rise in fertilizer use," experts say, "indicates farmers realize that plant food is not an expense but a high-yielding investment. U. S. Department of Agriculture economists estimate that each dollar spent for fertilizer returns farmers at least $4.83 in additional income from crops.

"Other factors influencing the greater use of fertilizer are: 1—Recognition by farmers that fertilizer is still one of the best buys they can make. Fertilizer prices have risen less than those of virtually any other production item a farmer buys; 2—Realization by farmers that plant food reserves in the soil are declining and must be replenished if long-range high production levels are to be maintained."

Korean Solons Eye Press Bill

SEOUL (AP) — The South Korean government has asked the National Assembly to pass a bill requiring all foreign news agencies, magazines and individual correspondents to register with the Office of Public Information.

During the past three years of war, hundreds of foreign newsmen and magazine writers have come to South Korea with U. N. Command clearance only.

Japanese correspondents, whom the Korean government did not welcome, could enter without the permission of the republic.

"Now that the war is over," said a government spokesman, "we must take care of foreign correspondents and other publication agents according to our own law."

Hunting officials figure approximately 3,000 moose were shot during Newfoundland's hunting season.

2,000 Virginia Kids To Get GG

MARION, Va. (AP)—More than 2,000 Smyth County children — 2 months to 9 years old — were slated to get the needle today as health authorities continued mass inoculations of gamma globulin in an effort to check an outbreak of polio that has resulted in 42 cases in about a month.

A total of 4,577 youngsters were given shots yesterday as the inoculations began at two clinics. The disease is believed to have broken out in Smyth County as a result of last month's epidemic in the adjoining area of Washington County and Bristol, Va.-Tenn.

Rapid Justice Amazes Defendant

POCATELLO, Idaho (AP)—Lester D. Brown, 22, a transient, cashed two checks yesterday at 11:30 a.m.

At that moment, Lawson said, the radar picked up another speeder. It was the man's wife.

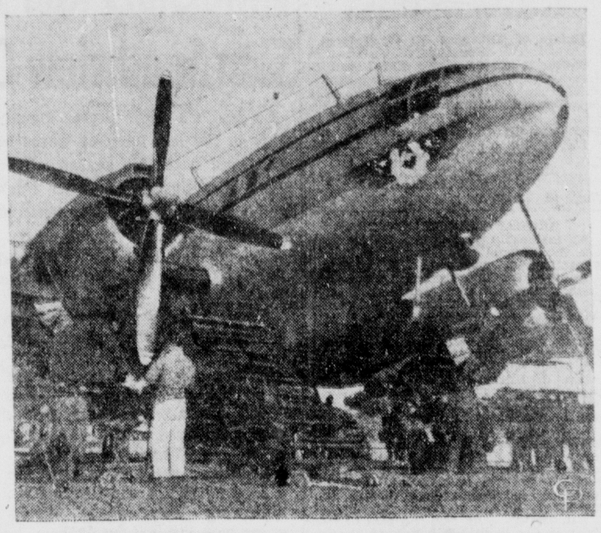
RUSS RAIL, AIRWAYS BUILD LINKS TO RED CHINA

By F. K. WU
Central Press Correspondent

HONG KONG — Russian railroads and airways are to link up with cities in Communist China for the common objective of "world revolution," which is initiated in Moscow and officially endorsed by Vice Chairman Liu Shao-chi on behalf of the "Central People's government."

Soviet and Chinese railway laborers have begun work so that Chinese trunk lines may effect a junction with the trans-Siberian railway in the very near future. The Ta Kung Pao, a Tientsin newspaper, says that officials of the Peiping ministry of railroad headed by Mei Yung visited Moscow to make final arrangements for the operation of through trains between China and the U. S. S. R.

For faster transportation the People's Daily in Peiping reports that the Chinese-Soviet Aviation corporation will operate a new air line between Tihua or Urumchi, the provincial capital of Sinkiang, and Omsk in the near future.



An old C-46 transport plane being overhauled in Red China for flights to-and-from the Communist motherland of Russia.

This new air route will link Kansu and Sinkiang provinces in Northwest China with Asiatic Russia. The Democratic Review, an independent Chinese fortnightly, stressed that these rail and air connections are of great economic and strategic importance.

* * *

AT THE SAME TIME the Chinese-Russian Petroleum company is extending its exploration of new oil wells in Sinkiang. The New China News Agency, official Communist wire service, says that more than 10 exploration groups have been formed under the direction of Russian experts after the completion of earlier missions in the Tien Shan areas of that province. The preliminary explorations have given ground for much optimism, according to the same source.

The agreement giving birth to that Sino-Soviet oil company calls for a 50-50 division of petroleum exploited in Sinkiang, but as Soviet Russia is providing the specialists, machinery and transportation the Soviet share of the fuel is actually over 80 per cent.

These three deals in Russian-Chinese co-operation amount to Soviet exploitation of the sources of continental China and Russian designs to exert stronger control over the Chinese Communists, continues the Democratic Review which flatly refutes any possibility of Titoism in Red China.

Indicating that ties between China and Russia have suffered no setbacks after the death of Premier Joseph Stalin, more Russians are reported to have arrived in Canton as seen in the downtown district by eye-witnesses now here.

* * *

SOME OF THEM may be Poles, Czechs or Hungarians who all appear to the Chinese as Russians, but most of them are believed to be real Russians and thus are highly respected by Chinese officials and interpreters. The majority of them are confined in the barracks and officers' clubs inside the White Cloud and Milk Way airports.

The Chinese authorities do not want too many Russians to be seen in the streets, but to obviate any boredom and monotony the "honored guests" are given all comforts and entertainments at their quarters. It is said they came to South China to test the fighting capabilities of the MIG jet fighters and other Russian models amidst the humidity and hot weather of South China.

* * *

OTHER RUSSIANS in Canton reached there for a brief stop-over before continuing their long journey to Indo-China to assist the Vietminh Communist army fighting the French Union forces, according to the same informants.

History professors of Canton Overseas college, a refugee counterpart in Hong Kong of Canton university, after a study of Chinese-Russian relations, concluded that Mao Tse-tung, the head of the Peiping regime, will continue to rely on Russia as before and that there will be no disruption of this partnership despite the predictions of Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia and Premier Jawaharlal Nehru of India.

Professor Huang Tung-ch'ou, who has devoted a life time to the study of Russian history, told this correspondent that Peiping has to continue reliance on Moscow for planes, tanks and guns as well as Russian technicians and machinery.

Other faculty members agree that China being an agricultural country has to depend on industrialized Russia for many kinds of supplies in exchange for Chinese agricultural products and mineral resources.

* * *

THE CHINESE nationalist generals, including President Chiang Kai-shek, Feng Yu-hsiang and Tang Sheng-chi, first made use of Russia and later turned against the U. S. S. R. which now sees to it that there will be no more defection among Chinese leaders, they pointed out.

As soon as Premier Georgi M Malenkov took over after Stalin's death, Mao Tse-tung in Peiping promptly sent a cablegram of allegiance and loyalty to the new successor at the Kremlin. Communists in China may not respect Malenkov as much as Stalin, but Chinese professors and other observers here have failed to see any parting of way between the Peiping demagogues and the Kremlin leaders, who are bound by the same ideology of world conquest.

Local Chinese newspapers reported almost every day that Chinese underground agents trained in Canton and Peiping are being sent to Indo-China, Siam or Thailand, Malaya, Burma, Indonesia and the Philippines.

This is confirmed by the wholesale arrest of Chinese Commies in the Philippines and the deportations of Chinese from Malaya back to Swatow and Canton. The newspapers said that the agents are infiltrated into those countries in readiness for future "liberation," while the movement in Indo-China is well advanced.

Veteran Marine Officer Reports Servicemen Dislike Korean Truce

By RELMAN MORIN
(For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP) — Capt. Ben Price, of the U. S. Marines, walked into the office the other day, fresh from Korea.

Naturally, I asked, "What do your guys think of the armistice?"

"Not much," said Ben. "They aren't satisfied to have it end this way."

He went on to say that the war could have been carried to a complete military decision in our favor.

Coming from a Marine, of course, any other report would have been a surprise. But there is more to it than the insignia on his cap. Price had the unusual experience of serving in Korea twice, in two totally different roles.

On his first hitch, he was a correspondent. He went over early in that hot summer of 1950, covered the retreat and then the siege on the line laid down by Gen. Walker. After the North Koreans collapsed, and the war disintegrated into a pursuit and mopup, he came home.

He had been in the Marines in World War II and so a year or so ago, Uncle Sam called him and presently he was on his way back out to the old stamping ground, this time in uniform.

In short, he has seen the war from more different angles than most of us ever could.

"What we should have done," he went on, "is smash up the Chinese defenses, and then destroy their armies in Korea."

The Chinese have boasted of their depth-defenses, presumably a system of bunkers, trenches and emplacements going back four or five miles, solidly.

"We didn't think much of the depth defenses," he said. "Every time we punched through the outer crust, they would react quickly and pretty well. But it didn't look to us though they had the means of moving troops and material around quickly enough to seal off a real breakthrough."

This coincides pretty well with the opinion of Gen. James A. Van Fleet. When he came back, some months ago, he said:

"The Chinese are nothing once you get 'em moving backward."

"Then why didn't we open a real offensive?" I asked Ben.

"I don't know," he said. "Nobody could make sense out of it. We would take one of their positions, and then pull back on orders."

He said the Marine officers reasoned that they were losing more men in the stationary war that finally developed than would have been lost in an all-out push.

"Which officers," I asked. "The big brass?"

"All of them," he said. "Many second lieutenants would tell you we should have been pushing instead of sitting there."

So if you drive up to the Yalu River again, then what? It would still be necessary to keep the whole army more or less intact, guarding the long border, even though the fighting had stopped.

Ben conceded that. But he said, "You're going to have to keep most of the Army ready anyway. And if we're going to stop, the river is the spot, not down where we are.

"In the first place, the problem of unifying Korea would then be solved automatically. In the second, it would be a lot better to bargain with the Chinese on their own border than down at the 38th Parallel."

These ideas are not confined to the Marine Corps. A good many regular Army officers feel the same way.

History, alone, will show whether signing the armistice at this time was the right course to take.

Waitress Sleeps; Magician Sought

BANFF, Alta. (AP)—A 19-year-old waitress with a "consuming desire" to sleep is in a hospital here while police search for a traveling hypnotist-lecturer. They hope he can end her trance.

The girl, Betty Black of Nelson, B. C., can be awakened and will speak and walk but she drifts back to sleep. She refuses to eat.

Police were told she fell into a trace Saturday night while attending a performance put on by the hypnotist, known here only as "The Great Dr. Zomb." She was taken to the stage to be brought out of the spell and appeared normal when she returned to her seat. At work the next day, however, she fell asleep three times.

Ike's Birthplace Getting Water

DENISON, Tex. (AP)—The Denison house, where President Eisenhower was born, will get running water for the first time.

The city council agreed to extend a line from a hydrant in the yard to the kitchen sink. This was asked by women serving as hostesses of the home—now a showplace.

The ladies hope some day a restroom will be installed. The Eisenhower birthplace plumbing is of the outside variety.

FORESIGHT

Is More Dependable Than 'Lucky' Tokens

The best luck a boy can have today is to be lucky enough to have foresighted parents who see the necessity of giving him a good high school education and thorough training in business methods.

Many parents have found that the best way to give their sons practical business training is to encourage them to go into business for themselves as carrier boys for this newspaper.

As a newspaperboy he receives valuable business training in work that actually supplements his schooling. He earns his own money and learns to save and spend discriminately. Naturally, a boy who has learned to assume responsibility, to manage money and to plan his day's work is most likely to succeed in the business world.

Little Stars Run Wild In Second, Slug Southview Of Columbus, 17-3

Circleville's Little Stars, apparently in the last baseball game to be played here this season, made like a tornado in Ted Lewis Park Wednesday night at the expense of the Southview club of Columbus. Circleville ran wild in the second and had a 17-3 margin when the fray ended.

Needled by his players who are reluctant to see the curtain come down on their "kid baseball" season, Manager Red Wilson left the door open for the chance of one more contest before the uniforms are stored away until next Spring. At the same time, he pointed out, school days are just around the corner again for the youngsters, indicating Wednesday night's game was the last for 1953.

"It's getting late for baseball," he said. "I imagine this is the last game."

If it was, the Little Stars tied up the victory with all the glory befitting a campaign finale. Manager Wilson used 16 players, and all the boys managed to get a hand in the lopsided decision. The visitors were outclassed from the start but went down swinging against the hopeless odds.

* * *

THE COLUMBUS club was able to gather only two hits off Don Wellington, who started on the mound for the locals. Duane Dean, who took over for three innings in the fourth, was just as tight with the bingles. The Little Stars battered two visiting pitchers for 15 safeties, 10 of them coming in the second when the Circleville team scored 12 runs and settled everything.

One of the home team hits was a homer blasted by Catcher Neil Sark during the second inning festival.

Ray McDaniels, a left-hander, started the hurling job for Southview but fell victim of the Little Star barrage. He was replaced by Bill Feterer who succeeded in calming the storm, but the damage was already in the scorebook.

Southview scored one run in the first, another in the fifth and a third marker in the final sixth. The Little Stars had already piled up that many in the initial stanza.

Terry Dean and Brent Bell opened action for the home side by beating out bunts for hits. A passed ball put the boys on second and third, and the sacks were loaded after Stevens walked. Rowland also strolled, forcing in the first Star tally. Phifer was safe on the second-baseman's error, and another run came in. Barnhart fanned, but the third marker registered while Gulick was being thrown out at first. Sark was thrown out to end the inning.

Wilson's wild men wasted no time in wrecking the joint in the second frame. Don Wellington singled to right and would have had more if fast work by Stevens in right hadn't held it to a one-base belt. Terry Dean was safe on error. Bell's bunt went as a hit, and Wellington scored on a wild throw on the play. Stevens singled, scoring a run. And Rowland joined the fun with a double that scored two.

* * *

ROWLAND HIMSELF came in a moment later on a wild toss while the visitors were working on Phifer, who eventually walked. Barnhart struck out, but Gulick kept the fire roaring by beating out an infield tap in front of the plate. While the visiting defense was caught napping a moment later, another run scored. Sark then uncorked his homer, scoring Gulick ahead of him for two more.

Two were down after they threw out Don Wellington, but Terry Dean beat out a hit to short and went to second on an error. Bell was hit by a pitched ball, and Stevens walloped a triple, adding two tallies to the merry-go-round.

Rowland singled to score another run. And when the opposition continued to throw the ball around, the hitter continued all the way to score himself.

The locals added two more in the third to total their 17.

Starting batting orders:

Little Stars—T. Dean, ss; Bell, 3b; Stevens, rf; Rowland, 2b; Phifer, lf; Barnhart, 1b; Gulick, cf; Sark, c; Don Wellington, p. Elsea went in for Bell, Davis for Stevens, Schneider for Phifer, Edgington for Barnhart, Ted Wellington for Gulick, Strawser for Sark, and Duane Dean for Don Wellington.

Southview—Hicks, ss; Beck, cf; Richardson, 2b; Bill Feterer, 1b; Talbott, cf; Dick Feterer, 3b; Warner, rf; Stevens, lf; McDaniels, p. Erbs replaced Warner.

Gavilan Eyes Bout Against Carmen Basilio

NEW YORK (AP) — Although he weighed a hefty 54 pounds in scoring a warmup victory over middleweight Ralph Jones, Welterweight Champion Kid Gavilan said today he doesn't expect to have any trouble making the 147-pound limit Sept. 18.

That's when the Cuban Flash defends his welter crown against Carmen Basilio in Syracuse, N. Y.

"Me make it easy," he said.

"After I beat Jones I finish weighing 147 pounds. Monday I start training again at Summit, N. J. Don't you worry, I make it."

The champ seemed somewhat sluggish through the first three rounds of his 10-rounder with the Yonkers, N. Y., Negro but he gave the pro-Jones crowd of 5,063 (gross gate $16,620) a dazzling exhibition the rest of the way to earn the unanimous decision in Madison Square Garden.

Gavvy, who outweighed the middleweight by two pounds, elected to slug it out with the sturdy Jones for three rounds and trailed. In the fourth he switched to boxing—jabbing and circling—although the fans booed. He boxed through the middle rounds and then handed the Westchester Tiger a good thumping with solid smashes the rest of the way.

Jones said he hurt his right thumb in the sixth and had to stop pressing. Dr. Vincent Nardiello said the thumb was dislocated and possibly fractured.

The votes, all favoring Gavilan, were: Referee Al Berl, 5-4-1; Judge Arthur Susskind, 6-4, and Judge Jack Gordon, 7-3.

Shoemaker Cops Ohio Golf Open

The 42-year-old Beechmont County Club professional closed out with a 72-hole total of 282 yesterday to win $600 first money at the Lake Forest Country Club.

Trailing in second with 288 was big Herman Keiser of Akron, former Masters winner and twice the state Open champion. Jimmy Walkup of Cleveland came in third with 289.

Castoff Chisox Playing Havoc With Chisox

Chicago's Flag Race Flop Blamed On Those Lowly Philadelphians

By The Associated Press

Want to know one of the big reasons why the Chicago White Sox are languishing 10½ games back in second place today instead of fighting it out with the New York Yankees for the American League pennant?

The answer is none other than the poor, old Philadelphia Athletics, managed by former White Sox skipper Jimmy Dykes and loaded with a bunch of ex-Pale Hose players who are coming back to haunt Paul Richards and his hirelings.

The A's have beaten the Sox 12 times against 8 losses. On the other hand, they've won only 5 from the Yanks and dropped 15. If the White Sox had been able to do as well against the A's as the Yanks did, theyd' be just 3½ games out of first place.

In the last two days, White Sox castoffs have taken care of their former mates very emphatically.

Yesterday, the A's beat the sox 10-8.

Who did the bombarding? Eddie Robinson, who was traded for Ferris Fain during the winter, hit a home run and Dave Philley, who put in four campaigns with the Sox, hit a home run and two triples to knock in two runs.

The day before yesterday, the A's beat the Sox 4-2. Gus Zernial, who once labored for the Sox, hit two home runs and Philley hit one.

Earlier in the season, Cass Michaels, who wore a White Sox uniform seven years, and shortstop Joe de Maestri, another ex-Chicago player, came up with home runs that hurt the Windy City boys in the standings.

The White Sox protested yesterday's loss because Philley was given a triple when pitcher Mike Fornieles' glove flew off his hand while he was trying to field a grounder. The rules give a batter an automatic triple if a fielder throws his glove at the ball. The Sox claimed the ball knocked Fornieles' glove off.

Fornieles was knocked out in the fifth and took the loss while Alex Kellner, who went eight innings for the A's, got credit for the triumph.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Yanks nipped the Detroit Tigers 5-4 and the Cleveland Indians polished off the Washington Senators 9-5. The St. Louis Browns and the Boston Red Sox were not scheduled.

In the National League, the Chicago Cubs pummeled the Brooklyn Dodgers 13-4; the New York Giants clobbered the St. Louis Cardinals by an identical 13-4, and the Philadelphia Phillies edged the Milwaukee Braves 6-5 in the only night game of the day. The Pittsburgh Pirates and Cincinnati Redlegs had the day off.

East Wins Annual Football Classic

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—The East, behind 13-2 late in the third period, paired a break and a sparkling run by little Johnny Blalack of Drew, Miss., to crush the West 22-13 and win the annual All-America High School football game here last night.

For nearly three quarters the West had dominated the game, mainly on the one-two punch of quarterback Ronnie Knox of Santa Monica, Calif., and fullback Jack Throckmorton of Lamarque, Tex.

U. S. Tennis Experts Plot Way To Crack Aussie Power

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. (AP) — A thoroughly confused group of American tennis officials are gathered here, awaiting the start of the National Championships on Saturday and wondering what, if anything, can be done about breaking Australia's stranglehold on a game in which Uncle Sam once held world domain.

They are fresh from watching the Aussie pickup pair of Rex Hartwig and Mervyn Rose crush our best doubles teams in the championships at Boston. And two weeks before that they had sat glumly at South Orange while the visitors' singles aces took turns whacking our boys about. Now they don't know what to think.

"In my mind," said Alrick Man Jr., the head of our Davis Cup committee, "it comes down to whether Tony Trabert can play himself back into the form he had in 1951, when he carried Frank Sedgman to five sets in the Nationals here. If Tony can, after two years in the service and virtually out of the game, then we'll have a good chance of winning the cup back this winter at Melbourne. Tony looked great in spots at Newport."

If there is a pattern to the official thinking, that seems to be it. Trabert must become a really top player again, and up to this point the heavy-legged youngster from Cincinnati has been a big disappointment. He still believes in himself, but he has others wondering. Among the latter is Mercer Beasley, the noted coach.

"I've told Tony he must work a whole lot harder than he has been," Beasley aid. "He must get out here and warm himself up for an hour or more before a match, the way Harry Hopman makes his Aussies do, instead of showing up maybe five minutes before he is due to play.

"I asked him if he could do this." The veteran mentor rolled his shoulders like a hula dancer. "And you know what — he couldn't."

Such little things as that, we gathered, are important.

Col. Jim Bishop, the tall president of the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association, was able to offer no real solution to the dilemma facing the cup selection committee. He conceded readily that things look none too promising at the moment, but point out cheerily that tennis fortunes have a way of changing from week to week. He offered no estimate of when they might veer again in our direction.

Pronto Don Eyes $25,000 Feature

WESTBURY, N. Y. (AP)—Pronto Don, world's No. 1 money winning trotter, will try tonight to win the invitational $25,000 American Trotting Championship at Roosevelt Raceway.

The 8-year-old gelding from the Hayes Fair Acres Stable of Duquoin, Ill., was second last year to Silver Riddle when the world record of 2:37 1-5 was established for a mile and a quarter.

Silver Riddle is not among tonight's 10 starters but Pronto Don with total earnings of $255,236.46, faces Katie Key, who stepped a mile in 2:03 at Yonkers last week.

Tribe-Yank Series Not Important Now

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland's Indians and the New York Yankees open a three-game series here tonight and no one is particularly excited.

With the Yankees 14 games ahead of the third-place Tribesmen, even the most partisan Cleveland fan will admit the outcome doesn't mean much now.

Manager Al Lopez will shoot his Big Three against the Yanks, with Mike Garcia to hurl tonight against Whitey Ford. Early Wynn has the assignment for tomorrow and Bob Lemon for Saturday.

Yank Riflemen Win Top Honors

CAMP PERRY (AP) — American colors flew today after victories in both of two small bore rifle contests with British and Canadian teams.

A 20-man American team broke the record with 7,984 out of a possible 8,000 points yesterday to regain the Dewar Cup Trophy from England at the National Rifle and Pistol Championships.

In the Pershing Trophy match, a 10-man American team fired 3,990 out of a possible 4,000 to retain the cup.

Keystoner Sets New Pace Mark

SEDALIA, Mo. (AP)—Frank Erwin of Sedalia drove Keystoner to a new record in the $10,000 American-National Stake for 3-year-old pacers here yesterday.

The race featured the day's Grand Circuit harness program at the Missouri State Fair.

Keystoner, son of Hal Dale, won the first heat in 2:00 and the second in 1:59.2 for a two-heat total of 3:59.2.

Don McFarland Scores Win In 2nd Race Here

Only one Circleville driver earned a checkered flag Wednesday night during auto races in Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

He was Don McFarland, who finished ahead of Gene Thimmes of Circleville in the second elimination heat.

Thimmes outranked McFarland in the feature race, however, collecting third place while McFarland settled for fifth.

Only other local pilot to take honors during the under-the-lights program was Buzz Binkley, who placed second in the second consolation race.

* * *

COMPLETE list of winners in Wednesday's races here follows:

First heat—Ozzie Osborne of Columbus, Robie Robison of Marietta and Bill Fann of Columbus.

Second heat — McFarland, Thimmes and Don Sesslar of Lancaster.

Third heat—Dick Hensel of Columbus, Jim Holycross of Grove City.

Australian pursuit—Robison, Osborne and Herbie Saxton of Columbus.

Sulky Driver Uses 'Hot' Cane

BALTIMORE (AP) — Maryland's first "electrical device" charge against a harness race driver resulted in the suspension of a 45-year-old Birdsnest, Va., horseman yesterday.

The four-year suspension, effective at all tracks belonging to the United States Trotting Assn., was handed out to Louis Floyd.

Chairman D. Eldred Rinehart of the Maryland Racing Commission said Floyd had a cane equipped with a battery in the paddock at Ocean Downs Track.

In four seasons of basketball for Seattle, Johnny O'Brien scored 3,302 points. His brother, Eddie, scored 1,613.

Hugh Taylor, Washington Redskins end, set a new team record in 1952 by catching 12 passes for touchdowns. The previous record of 11, set in 1939, was held by Andy Farkas.

Sokolsky's

These Days

The anti-American development in France and Italy could have been anticipated. In those countries, the Communist Party is enormous.

The recent Italian elections make any government unstable and Togliatti, the Communist leader, is again speaking his mind freely on issues, because what he says counts. In France, Thorez, having returned from Soviet Russia after a 29-month absence, has achieved the goal of political strikes.

In France, into which we have poured billions of dollars, little of our money percolated to the people whose standard of living is steadily falling.

In Japan, the situation now is very bad and it would be correct to expect much deterioration. The defeat of the United States in Korea imperils Japan. Certainly, when American troops are withdrawn from Korea, Japan must come to some agreement with Communist China and Soviet Russia. Otherwise Japan will be in danger of starvation, if not of invasion.

The Japanese want to trade with Communist China because it is important for them to get their food from that country, particularly rice and soy beans. Should Indo-China and Thailand fall to the Communists, Japan will have no alternative but to join them unless we accept the proposition that the United States will permanently make up Japanese deficits.

A report of this nature is not pessimism. It is precise reporting of developments which are taking place and which cannot be ignored. It is not enough that some top officials in Washington evaluate the situation accurately, if they do.

The people of this country ought also to know the facts and realize that the foreign aid program has, from the American standpoint, proved to be a dud.

Sea Rescue Display Is Feature Of National Air Show

Mercy Gear Showing Due Sept. 5-7

Albatross, Lifeboat Arrangement Means More Lives Saved

In an effort to give the viewing public a representative cross section of every phase of air operations, the Air Force will bring a Grumman SA-16 amphibian and an A-8 Lifeboat to Dayton for display at the National Aircraft Show at Cox Municipal Airport Sept. 5-7.

The advent of intercontinental flying has brought upon the Air Force a new type of organization, that of the Air Sea Rescue Squadron.

Under the command of the Military Air Transport Service, these squadrons are stationed strategically all over the world. Their mission is a mission of mercy.

They rescue pilots who have crashed at sea or inaccessable areas. They fly in medical supplies to disaster areas and fly the sick or wounded out to hospitals.

• • •

TO COPE with this new type of aerial service, new equipment had to be brought into use. Of course, the helicopter is probably the best known tool of this humanitarian group, but the helicopter has a limited range and its speeds are relatively slow.

So, the Air Force had to devise a means of rescuing personnel stranded hundreds of miles from bases, especially persons afloat at sea.

The Grumman SA-16A was one of the Air Force's answers to this dilemma. It is a seaplane with a range of 2,500 miles, Carrying a crew of six. The Albatross, as the SA-16A is nicknamed, can speed to the rescue at over 250 miles per hour and pick up as many as ten persons.

It is a multi-missioned plane that can be used in search and rescue work, personnel and cargo transport or as a multi-engine seaplane trainer.

The Albatross did not altogether fill the overall job requirements, however. It is unable to land in rough water and its range is still short of what might be required to rescue personnel in a mid-ocean crash. In a case such as this, the Air Sea Rescue Squadrons have B-17's and B-29's that have large lifeboats which may be dropped by parachute to a spot near the survivors.

These boats are A-3 lifeboats. After hitting the water, the engine in the boat starts automatically. A controller flying in the mother plane steers the boat to the survivors by means of remote radio control.

• • •

THE SURVIVORS then get aboard the boat and the controller can guide them to safer waters, where an Albatross or a helicopter can pick them up, or guide them all the way to land.

These 29-foot long boats are equipped with food, medical supplies, fresh water and enough gas for a 500-mile journey.

At the exhibit site at Cox Municipal Airport, the A-3 Lifeboat will be parked alongside the SA-16A Albatross. Air Force displaymen will explain different features of both pieces of equipment and will answer spectators questions.

Senator Points Finger On Aid

FREDERICKSBURG, Tex. (AP) — Sen. Johnson (D-Tex), who last week said he had voted for his last foreign aid bill unless some European countries changed their ways, has pinpointed his objections.

He told this German-American community last night that France and Italy must "set their houses in order. The Senate minority leader said inability of Italy to form a new government and of the France to end her strikes are evidence the two countries "are unable to meet the primary test of our foreign aid program.

Johnson declared West Germany has "more than proved its right to full and equal membership in the family of free nations.

"The key to Europe is Germany, the senator said.

45 Jet Bombers Plan Mass Flight

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Forty-five planes, part of the atomic striking arm of the Air Force, will take off early in September on the longest nonstop mass flight ever attempted by jet bombers.

The Air Force announced that the 306th Bombardment Wing, which has been in England for 90 days of training exercises, will try a onstop flight from its training base at Fairford, England, to the MacDill Air Force Base here, a distance of about 4,500 miles.

The wing consists of 45 B47s—medium jet bombers. They will be refueled in flight by KC97 Stratotankers.

Ball Lightning Frightens Texans

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The Weather Bureau said a phenomenon which scared several people here yesterday was apparently ball lightning, described in the dictionary as "extremely rare.

Witnesses agreed it was six feet above the ground, about the size of a watermelon, round, glowed like fire, and then exploded with a blast that sent sparks flying above the heads of several terrified children. It happened just above a bush in the driveway of Mrs. Everett Barnhill, witnesses said.

35 Cents Cost $7

ASHEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — Police who broke up a dice game here said everybody but R. C. Cathey "scattered like chickens." Cathey paused to snatch 35 cents left on the board and was arrested. The fine was $7.
